OPA CEILING HIKES ON FOOD PREDICTED

Small Nations Promised U. S. Aid By Byrnes

Secretary Of State To Support Drafts Sought By Two-Third Vote

ISOLATION POLICY GONE CONFERENCE IS INFORMED

Striking Display Of Harmony Marks Second Day Of Peace Meeting

By LYNN HEINZERLING

PARIS, July 30—(AP)—Secretary of State Byrnes, strengthening the voice of the small nations in the European peace conference, pledged United States support tonight for any changes in the Big Four treaty drafts sought by a two-thirds vote of all 21 nations.

His declaration, plainly stating the American position against arbitrary rejection of smaller nations' recommendations for the final treaty drafts, came after the powerful rules committee approved the principle of complete publicity for all conference deliberations.

Byrnes also asserted that the United States never again would return to a policy of isolation, and declared "we do not want a peace of vengeance" that would plant "the seeds of future wars."

Receives Ringing Applause

Byrnes received ringing applause, and British Prime Minister Attlee then urged that the four major powers "should not, and indeed cannot, be unresponsive to the ideas of other nations, especially those nations who have contributed so much to victory."

The four-power council of foreign ministers, which drew the treaty drafts submitted to this conference, invited the 17 other nations to express their views. The four powers, however, did not bind themselves to accept any revisions which might be suggested by the smaller powers.

Both Byrnes and Attlee urged strict attention by the conference to the voice of world opinion.

"The United States," Byrnes said, "will stand by its agreements in the (four-power) council. But if the conference should be a two-thirds vote of the governments here represented make a contrary recommendation, the United States will use its influence to secure the adoption of that recommendation by the council.

"The United States believes that those who fought in the war should make the peace."

The second day of the conference was marked by a striking display of harmony.

Paul Henri Spaak of Belgium was elected permanent chairman of the Rules committee by a 13-to-7 vote after a protracted argument during which the Soviet Union supported Vice-Premier Edward Kardelj of Yugoslavia.

But Britain and the United States promptly supported Kardelj for vice chairman and he was chosen by acclamation.

A moment later Russia's delegate accepted the American plea for free access to conference sessions for the world press. Since all 21 nations are represented on the Rules committee, the full conference is expected to approve the proposal as a matter of course.

Just Peace Is Urged

Russia's support of Byrnes's full-publicity proposal came as a surprise. Foreign Minister Vyacheslav M. Molotov was quoted as saying that recently there had been some "distortion" of the Soviet attitude, and that the presence of correspond-

Peace Draft's Major Points Are Revealed

Provisions Of Five Treaties For Defeated Nations Submitted

WASHINGTON, July 30 (AP) — Salient provisions of the five peace treaty drafts proposed to the Paris conference by the United States, Russia, Britain and France:

ITALY

1. Loses Trieste to internationalization, minor areas to Yugoslavia and minor areas to France; also the Dodecanes islands to Greece.

2. Loses her territorial posessions in Africa—Libya, Eritrea and Somaliland, though she will continue to administer them for 12 months while the big four decides their disposition.

3. Recognizes full independence of Albania, and renounces her special rights in China.

4. Gives up all permanent frontier fortifications as well as fortifications on islands of Pantellaria, Lampedusa, Lampione, Linosa and Pianosa.

5. Limits navy to two battleships, four cruisers, four destroyers, 16 torpedo boats, 20 corvettes and minor vessels with total strength of 22,500 officers and men and tonnage limit of 67,500 excluding battleships.

6. Limits army (185,000) and police force (65,000) to total strength of 250,000 officers and men, not more than 200 tanks and no long-range weapons such as guided missiles or rockets.

7. Limits air force to 25,000 men, 200 fighter and reconnaissance planes and 150 non-combat types.

8. Wins unqualified promise of withdrawal of Allied (U. S. and British) troops 90 days after treaty becomes effective.

9. Agrees to pay Russia $100,000,000 reparations, with reparations for other allies still in disagreement.

Chief disagreement remaining over Italian treaty concerns exact boundaries for Trieste and details of permanent Trieste government.

BULGARIA

1. Agrees to maintain all political and religious freedoms and suppress Fascist activities.

2. Accepts army limitation of 55,000 troops; anti-aircraft force of 1,800; navy of 3,500 with tonnage of 7,250; airforce of 90 planes (70 combat) and strength of 5,200 officers and men.

3. Wins unqualified promise that all allied (Russian) occupation troops will be withdrawn in 90 days after treaty becomes effective.

4. Must make reparation to Yugoslavia and Greece for losses caused them during the war.

ROMANIA

1. Regains Transylvania from Hungary; loses Bessarabia to Russia.

2. Makes same promises as Bulgaria respecting internal freedoms and renunciation of Fascism.

3. Agrees to restrict frontier defenses; army of 120,000; anti-aircraft force of 5,000; navy of 5,000 men and 15,000 tons; air force of 8,000 men and 15 planes (including 10 combat types).

4. Wins conditional promise of withdrawal of Russian occupation forces, condition being that Russia may maintain forces there as needed to guard communications to Austria.

5. Agrees to pay Russia reparations of $300,000,000 in commodities.

Principal points still in disagreement among the powers are those governing economic arrangements for Romania, and clauses relating to freedom of navigation on the Danube, with Russia opposing inclusion of free navigation provisions in the peace treaty.

President Orders Full-Scale Probe Of Lynchings

Directs Justice Department To Investigate With All Its Resources

WASHINGTON, July 30. (AP)—Attorney General Clark announced today that President Truman has expressed "horror" at the lynchings of four negroes near Monroe, Ga., and directed the Justice department to investigate "with all its resources."

The federal inquiry—which Clark said is being carried on "in the tradition of the FBI"—has two aims:

1. To see whether the mob members can be arrested and prosecuted under any federal statute.

2. To assist Georgia authorities in identifying the members of the mob and prosecuting them under state laws. Clarks announced that "the entire record of our investigation will made available to the governor of Georgia, if necessary, for proper action of Georgia civil authorities."

Early Solution Sought

Clark expressed "hope for an early solution" of what he called "these shocking murders" and called upon "all our citizens to repudiate mob rule."

Referring to the 20-odd white men who shot the two negro farm workers, one a veteran, and their wives, last Thursday, Clark said in a statement:

"This crime is an affront to decent Americanism. Only due process of law sustains our claim to orderly self-government. I call upon all our citizens to repudiate mob rule and to assist the authorities to bring these criminals to justice. The lives and liberties of none of us are safe when forces of terror operate outside the laws of God and man."

Later Clark said in a second statement that he had talked with Mr. Truman about the case and that the president "has expressed to me his horror at the crime and his sympathy for the families of the victims."

The president, Clark said, "has asked that the department report its progress in the investigation and proceed with all its resources to investigate this and any other crimes of oppression so as to ascertain if any federal statute can be applied to the apprehension and prosecution of the criminals."

Ministers File Protest

In his first statement, Clark said the Justice department has received "hundreds of telegrams and letters from public-spirited citizens and civic, religious, labor and veterans organizations from all sections of the nation deploring and protesting the recent mass murders in Monroe, Ga."

Meanwhile, a group of 50 women paraded before the White House protesting the slayings. They paraded under the auspices of the National Association of Colored Women and carried signs such as "America, our home, let it be known lynching must cease."

In Atlanta, two large groups of ministers protested the lynching.

Episcopal ministers issued a statement saying "we can think of no atrocity in this generation of our state quite so loathsome and ominous."

Conference Committee Sanctions Leave Payments For Servicemen

By FRANCIS J. KELLY

WASHINGTON, July 30 (AP)— A bottled-in-bonds terminal pay bill for servicemen and veterans was agreed upon today by a Senate-House Conference committee.

The five-year bonds in which the major portion of the payments would be made are non-negotiable, but the committee which worked out the final form of the bill provided that they could be used for payments on government life insurance.

Estimated $2,400,000,000 To Be Paid

An estimated $2,400,000,000 would be paid to present and former service personnel in lieu of furlough time they were unable to take during service. Grants would be made on the basis of 2½ days pay for each month of service since September 8, 1939, with a limit of 120 days. On next September 1 the carryover limit would drop to 60 days.

The conference agreement went back to Senate and House for final approval.

Enactment of the bill would put the enlisted personnel of the armed forces on somewhat the same basis as officers, who have been enjoying paid terminal leave all along. The officers, however, get paid in cash.

The House originally voted for cash payments for enlisted men, too, but at the insistence of treasury and budget officials, the Senate wrote in a bond plan. The conference committee worked out the compromise under which the bonds, while not immediately cashable, could be used to pay premiums on National Service Life Insurance or to convert it to permanent policies.

Some Aspects Of Inflation

Senator Elbert Thomas (D-Utah), head of the Senate conferees, conceded that the bonds-for-insurance plan held "some aspects of inflation." However, he told reporters "it also has the virtue of good habit-forming in relation to thrift and insurance."

He observed that only 267,000 of the 5,600,000 outstanding service insurance policies have been converted to the permanent peacetime federal policies.

The bonds, bearing 2½ per cent interest would be issued in $25 multiples, maturing five years after a given veteran's discharge. Amounts due under $50 would be paid in cash. So would the "breakage" in excess of $25 multiples. Thus a veteran to whom $103 was due would receive $100 in bonds and $3 in cash.

An estimated 15,000,000 veterans are expected to apply for the payments.

Sharp Rises For Clothing Also Expected

Subsidy Restoration On Canned Corn, Tomatoes, Peas Unlikely

BREAD, FLOUR INCREASES ARE BEING CONSIDERED

Breakfast Cereals Listed Among Items To Receive Ceiling Boosts

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

WASHINGTON, July 30 (AP) — Government officials tonight predicted higher price ceilings for canned vegetables, breakfast cereals, coffee and possibly bread and other bakery products.

Meanwhile OPA rolled out more price increases on clothing and laid the groundwork for still more garment hikes—perhaps as much as 15 to 20 per cent—under terms of the new price control law.

Officials who asked to remain anonymous said the government has just about decided against restoration of subsidies on coffee and three major canned vegetables, — peas, corn and tomatoes.

They said permanent elimination of these subsidies, which lapsed July 1, will raise price ceilings on these vegetables by one to two cents for number two can.

Coffee May Jump .10 Pound

On coffee, officials estimated that with subsidies out of the picture retail ceilings would have to be jumped eight to 10 cents a pound. About half of this amount represents an increase which was pending at the start of this month, when OPA lapsed.

An OPA official told a reporter there is "complete indecision" on whether the flour subsidy should be restored. He said bread prices "will not be raised" if subsidies are paid again, but that a price increase is possible if the payments are ruled out.

The flour subsidy held down retail bread prices one cent a loaf, but since price controls were revived last week OPA has made no upward adjustment of bread ceilings to compensate for absence of the subsidy.

Bakery industry representatives have petitioned OPA for a one-cent-a-loaf increase on bread and a 25-per cent increase on biscuit and cracker prices.

OPA reportedly is taking the stand that a bread increase of one cent a loaf granted last month is adequate to compensate bakers in the event restoration of flour subsidies is ruled out. The agency's contention is that bread producton has increased and that costs have declined.

Price increases for several types of breakfast cereals, including oatmeal, were pending when the old price control law lapsed. These increases, to be put into effect soon, will be in line with price hikes previously authorized for corn flakes, puffed wheat and puffed rice.

Shirts Up 11 to 21 Per cent

Ceilings on corn flakes, for example, were raised in June three cents on an 11-ounce package.

As for clothing, OPA increased retail ceilings an average of eight per cent on a number of men's outer wear garments, including mackinaws, leather coats and jackets, hunting and fishing clothing, heavy wool shirts and lined sports jackets made of cotton.

These increases, granted to offset higher production costs, followed price hikes yesterday of from 11 to 21 percent on shirts, shorts and pajamas.

In each case, the garment price increases were authorized under the old price control law, which required

Record Volume Of Consumer Goods Forecast

Shortage Of Labor May Limit Production, CPA Chief Says

By STERLING F. GREEN

WASHINGTON, July 30. (AP)—A "record volume" of goods may flow to consumers in the next six months, Civilian Production Administrator John D. Small forecast tonight on the strength of rapid recovery in steel and coal.

Factory output hit a new postwar peak in June, Small revealed in his quarterly report. It toppled prewar monthly records in washing machines, vacuum cleaners, gas ranges, electric irons and table model radios.

Some slumps were noted, but not enough to offset the general rise. Autos dropped 11 per cent in June from May but rose again in July; farm equipment and tires also declined in June, by three and 10 per cent respectively.

"Additional production gains were registered in July in spite of uncertainties concerning price controls and the adverse effects on production resulting from holidays and vacation periods," the CPA administrator said.

Sounds Warning Note

One warning note was sounded: It is probable that a "serious shortage of labor is developing" which may prove to be "an important limiting factor in production by the end of the year."

"The prospects are that business will, first, have to recruit back into the labor force large numbers of those who have left it since V-J day, and second, require that large amounts of overtime be worked if production scheduled are to be met," the CPA chief predicted.

Despite the fact that 10,000,000 veterans and 50,000,000 war workers have been discharged into the labor market in the last 12 months, the industrial demand for workers has been so great that unemployment has risen only 1,600,000, and "still may be considered remarkably low," Small said.

"The demand for labor in the remaining months of 1946 will be large if, as it now appears, the country's production continues to rise," he went on.

"This demand will have to be filled from a depleted labor pool amounting to less than 4,000,000 workers."

Unless industry and labor learn how to boost productivity without increasing the cost of each item made, "prices will rise further," Small predicted. If manufacturers try to outstrip competitors by out-

AMPUTEE AID BILL BLOCKED IN HOUSE

WASHINGTON, July 30.—(AP)—Rep. Whittington (D-Miss) today blocked House consideration of a bill to provide free automobiles for veterans with leg amputations—and met a storm of protests from veterans themselves.

The bill was called up by Chairman Rankin (D-Miss) of the Veterans committee under procedure requiring unanimous consent. Scores of veterans who have been working for the measure for weeks leaned forward expectantly in their gallery seats but groaned when Whittington objected.

In a heated exchange in a corridor, Whittington told a group of the veterans later he had objected because he opposes dealing with veterans in "piecemeal" manner and that no such legislation should be passed until "a further and thorough investigation" of the needs has been made.

"Well, if you ask me, that's not much of an explanation," snapped Sgt. Milton Kornfeld of New York city, a patient at Walter Reed hospital here.

As others began voicing objections, Whittington excused himself saying he had to answer a quorum call.

Two Americans Are Released By Russians

Cobin And Wyatt Vanished Into Soviet Zone On July 4

By RICHARD KASISCHKE

BERLIN, July 31 (AP) — Russian authorities today released Capt. Harold Cobin of New York City and Lt. George Wyatt of Oklahoma City, who had vanished July 4 on an unauthorized trip into the Soviet occupation zone.

Maj. Gen. Walter A. Keating, American commander in Berlin, said emphatically that the release of the two officers did not involve any exchange of detainees.

In that respect their case differed from that of an American warrant officer and his wife who were freed by Soviet officials in return for the release by U. S. Army authorities of three Russians picked up in the American zone on suspicion of espionage.

Mrs. Mary Cobin, awakened and informed that her husband was being returned, exclaimed: "It's the best news of my life. I'm going to have a big party for Harold when I see him. You know we haven't

Heirens Fails To Make Planned "Confession"

Replies "I Don't Remember" When Questioned About Three Crimes

CHICAGO, July 30 (AP) — "I don't remember."

With these words William Heirens, 17-year-old University of Chicago student, brought to a sudden and dramatic end today a widely publicized plan of his attorneys for him to "make a confession" to the state's attorney the details of the Suzanne Degnan kidnap-killing and two other brutal slayings.

State's Attorney William J. Touhy immediately announced he would proceed with arrangements to prosecute the accused youth on murder charges.

The strapping youth, surrounded by attorneys, police and public officials, secretaries and stenographers in the state's attorneys office, began giving what his lawyers had announced would be a formal confession of the three slayings.

Parries All Questions

Suddenly he began parrying all questions with "I don't remember." He gave this response to all pertinent questions about the Degnan

Social Security Tax Freeze Is Voted By Senate

WASHINGTON, July 30 (AP)—The Senate approved a social security tax "freeze" today after adopting an amendment providing a sliding scale of federal grants for needy aged, the needy blind, and for dependent children.

The measure provides that throughout 1947 the social security payroll tax shall remain at the present rate of 1 percent each on employes and employers. Unless the freeze is enacted, the tax will go up to 2½ percent each the first of the year.

The bill went back to the House, where it immediately bumped into trouble. Rep. Knutson (R-Minn) blocked an effort by Chairman Doughton (D-NC) of the Ways and Means committee to send it to a House-Senate conference committee for adjustment of the differences between the two Houses.

Knutson objected to a unanimous consent request to send the bill to the conference committee. The Minnesota member is fighting the Senate sliding scale provision, which would result in larger federal payments for the needy in low income states.

The provision was designed to eliminate some wide differences in individual case grants now existing in rich and poor states. At present the federal government matches state money for such cases on a 50-50 basis.

The principal feature of the bill and the one which affects the most people is the section which freezes the social security payroll tax throughout 1947 at the present rate of one percent each on employes and employers. Similar action has been taken annually since 1942. Unless the freeze is enacted, the tax will go up to 2½ per cent on each the first of next year.

CLAIM GERMAN V-2 SETS NEW RECORD

WHITE SANDS, N. M., July 30 (AP) — A new world's altitude record of 104 miles was claimed today by the army for a German V-2 rocket fired by technicians at the White Sands proving ground.

Eclipsing by 23.5 miles the best previous mark, the height was announced by Col. Harold R. Turner, White Sands commandant, after more than two hours' delay caused by loss of radio contact with field stations observing the missile's flight.

The rocket descended 69 miles north of the launching platform, gouging a deep crater in the New Mexico desert.

Colonel Turner said that instruments carried in the nose came down intact and are expected to provide more information than ever before was available, about such matters as cosmic rays, temperatures and pressure at that distance above the earth.

Sparkman Piles Up Heavy Lead Over Opponents

By D. HAROLD OLIVER
Associated Press Political Reporter

Congressman John J. Sparkman piled up a heavy lead over four opponents tonight in the race for United States Senator from Alabama, and appeared to have a good chance to clinch the job without the necessity of a run-off election August 27.

With 1,227 of 2,360 polling places reporting on the Democratic primary election to fill the Senate seat of the late John H. Bankhead, Sparkman had 59,447 votes to 58,396 for his four rivals combined. Unless Sparkman gets more than 50 per cent of the total vote, a runoff will be necessary.

State Senator James A. Simpson was leading Congressman Frank Boykin for the runnerup spot by 32,307 votes to 25,016. Ted Allen and Thomas H. Maxwell, the other two contestants, had only 680 and 399 votes, respectively.

Sparkman, 46-year-old Democratic "whip" (assistant floor leader) in the House of Representatives, was backed by organized labor, including the CIO-PAC, but also was polling heavily in rural sections.

Rep. Boykin had charged during the campaign that the PAC was attempting to "purge" him.

As usual, negroes voted in small numbers in the Alabama primary, in which nomination is tantamount to election. No incidents were reported.

The right of negroes to vote figured in the Arkansas state campaign, however, where Gov. Ben Laney, Democrat seeking re-election, was leading by a wide margin. Laney had 28,570 votes in 591 of 2,093 precincts to 13,782 for J. M. Malone and 1,421 for Virgil Greene. Nathan Gordon, 30-year-old winner of the Congressional Medal of Honor, was leading in the race for lieutenant governor.

Rep. Coffee And Anderson Differ On What $2,500 Check Covered

By ALEX H. SINGLETON

WASHINGTON, July 30 (AP)—Rep. Coffee (D-Wash) insisted under oath today that a $2,500 check from a defense contractor was a "campaign contribution." he added, in response to questions, that he had not listed it in either his income tax returns or election contribution report.

Appearing voluntarily before the Senate War Investigating committee, Coffee sharply contradicted sworn testimony two hours earlier by Elvind Anderson, Tacoma, Wash., contractor, that he had paid the money in 1941 for "service."

Anderson testified that a "verbal contract" on the payment was reached in 1941 in a conversation among himself, Coffee and Paul A. Olson, then the congressman's secretary, in a "lonesome narrow corridor beneath a winding staircase' near the House restaurant.

He related that he had lunched with Coffee and Olson, and "one or the other of them suggested that we walk to the side where there is quietness, where people were not around, where we could talk." He said he followed them to the spot beneath the "winding staircase."

Talk Beneath Stairs

"Kind of a lonesome place?" suggested Senator Ferguson (R-Mich).

"Kind of a lonesome place," agreed Anderson.

He quoted Coffee as opening the convesation there by saying that "I understand from Paul that you will pay $2,500 for us to represent you in Washington."

"Yes," the contractor testified he agreed, "I will be willing to pay $2,500 to have representation in Washington. That will be all right with me."

He told the committee that his answer appeared "gratifying to John," and quoted Coffee as saying that "if you do that, you can depend upon us to look after your interests."

Anderson said that he inquired whether it would be "all right" to send a check after he returned home and quoted Coffee as replying: "That's all right, send it to Paul."

Coffee's version differed. He denied that he had lunched with Anderson but said the contractor "buttonholed me" beneath the members' staircase leading from the House floor to the street floor.

Coffee asserted that Anderson—"grateful" over assistance lent him by himself and his secretary in obtaining a million-dollar contract to

Twitty Convicted After Admitting He Chained And Beat His Daughter

ANNAPOLIS, Md., July 30 (AP) — A 38-year-old Maryland father, who testified he chained and beat his 14-year-old daughter because she insisted on going out with "boys in automobiles", was convicted today of assault and battery.

Kirby Leon Twitty, railroad yard worker at the United States Naval Academy, will be sentenced in "a day or two", Trial Magistrate James G. Woodward announced after the conviction.

Twitty pleaded innocent to assault charges on Doris Joann Twitty, who said that on Saturday, July 20, she was chained in the basement of her home at Edgewater and beaten with a rawhide strap.

The father told the court that he had "no choice" between punishing the girl or turning her over to authorities because of her consistent refusal to remain at home.

Introduced in evidence at the trial was a 13-foot length of chain, with padlock, and a two-thronged strap.

Twitty's bond was renewed and he left the court to await his call for sentence.

Lunges At Photographers

Frank Maggia, Associated Press photographer, reported that as Twitty left the building he made a lunge at Maggio's camera after first stooping to avoid having his picture taken. Maggio said Twitty's hand struck the camera and damaged it slightly.

The girl, self-possessed on the stand and calmly direct in all her answers, replied to a question of defense counsel George Woelfel by saying:

"My father whipped me because I didn't obey my parents."

The father and daughter contradicted each other in their testimony on the number of times she was struck with the strap. He said about a "half dozen times", but Doris Joann told the court "it must have been a hundred."

Mrs. Martha Twitty, mother of Doris Joann, appeared as a prosecution witness to say that the girl had "sassed" her father and had been repeatedly warned about leaving home to go to Annapolis or a nearby beach.

Beaten Another Time

Doris Joann said that she had been chained and beaten about a month before the July 20 incident.

Twitty testified that in the interim between the two punishmens he had repeatedly warned the girl not to go into town. He objected to the absences, he said, because the daugh-

Small Nations Promised U. S. Aid By Byrnes

Secretary Of State To Support Drafts Sought By Two-Third Vote

By LYNN HEINZERLING

PARIS, July 30—(AP)—Secretary of State Byrnes, strengthening the voice of the small nations in the European peace conference, pledged United States support tonight for any changes in the Big Four treaty drafts sought by a two-thirds vote of all 21 nations.

His declaration, plainly stating the American position against arbitrary rejection of smaller nations' recommendations for the final treaty drafts, came after the powerful rules committee approved the principle of complete publicity for all conference deliberations.

Byrnes also asserted that the United States never again would return to a policy of isolation, and declared "we do not want a peace of vengeance" that would plant "the seeds of future wars."

Receives Ringing Applause

Byrnes received ringing applause, and British Prime Minister Attlee then urged that the four major powers "should not, and indeed cannot, be unresponsive to the ideas of other nations, especially those nations who have contributed so much to victory."

The four-power council of foreign ministers, which drew the treaty drafts submitted to this conference, invited the 17 other nations to express their views. The four powers, however, did not bind themselves to accept any revisions which might be suggested by the smaller powers.

Both Byrnes and Attlee urged strict attention by the conference to the voice of world opinion.

"The United States," Byrnes said, "will stand by its agreements in the (four-power) council. But if the conference should be a two-thirds vote of the governments here represented make a contrary recommendation, the United States will use its influence to secure the adoption of that recommendation by the council.

"The United States believes that those who fought in the war should make the peace."

The second day of the conference was marked by a striking display of harmony.

Paul Henri Spaak of Belgium was elected permanent chairman of the Rules committee by a 13-to-7 vote after a protracted argument during which the Soviet Union supported Vice-Premier Edward Kardelj of Yugoslavia.

But Britain and the United States promptly supported Kardelj for vice chairman and he was chosen by acclamation.

A moment later Russia's delegate accepted the American plea for free access to conference sessions for the world press. Since all 21 nations are represented on the Rules committee, the full conference is expected to approve the proposal as a matter of course.

Just Peace Is Urged

Russia's support of Byrnes's full-publicity proposal came as a surprise. Foreign Minister Vyacheslav M. Molotov was quoted as saying that recently there had been some "distortion" of the Soviet attitude, and that the presence of correspond-

Peace Draft's Major Points Are Revealed

Provisions Of Five Treaties For Defeated Nations Submitted

WASHINGTON, July 30 (AP) — Salient provisions of the five peace treaty drafts proposed to the Paris conference by the United States, Russia, Britain and France:

ITALY

1. Loses Trieste to internationalization, minor areas to Yugoslavia and minor areas to France; also the Dodecanes islands to Greece.

2. Loses her territorial possessions in Africa—Libya, Eritrea and Somaliland, though she will continue to administer them for 12 months while the big four decides their disposition.

3. Recognizes full independence of Albania, and renounces her special rights in China.

4. Gives up all permanent frontier fortifications as well as fortifications on islands of Pantellaria, Lampedusa, Lampione, Linosa and Pianosa.

5. Limits navy to two battleships, four cruisers, four destroyers, 16 torpedo boats, 20 corvettes and minor vessels with total strength of 22,500 officers and men and tonnage limit of 67,500 excluding battleships.

6. Limits army (185,000) and police force (65,000) to total strength of 250,000 officers and men, not more than 200 tanks and no long-range weapons such as guided missiles or rockets.

7. Limits air force to 25,000 men, 200 fighter and reconnaissance planes and 150 non-combat types.

8. Wins unqualified promise of withdrawal of Allied (U. S. and British) troops 90 days after treaty becomes effective.

9. Agrees to pay Russia $100,000,000 reparations, with reparations for other allies still in disagreement.

Chief disagreement remaining over Italian treaty concerns exact boundaries for Trieste and details of permanent Trieste government.

BULGARIA

1. Agrees to maintain all political and religious freedoms and suppress Fascist activities.

2. Accepts army limitation of 55,000 troops; anti-aircraft force of 1,800; navy of 3,500 with tonnage of 7,250; airforce of 90 planes (70 combat) and strength of 5,200 officers and men.

3. Wins unqualified promise that all allied (Russian) occupation troops will be withdrawn in 90 days after treaty becomes effective.

4. Must make reparation to Yugoslavia and Greece for losses caused them during the war.

ROMANIA

1. Regains Transylvania from Hungary; loses Bessarabia to Russia.

2. Makes same promises as Bulgaria respecting internal freedoms and renunciation of Fascism.

3. Agrees to restrict frontier defenses; army of 120,000; anti-aircraft force of 5,000; navy of 5,000 men and 15,000 tons; air force of 8,000 men and 15 planes (including 10 combat types).

4. Wins conditional promise of withdrawal of Russian occupation forces, condition being that Russia may maintain forces there as needed to guard communications to Austria.

5. Agrees to pay Russia reparations of $300,000,000 in commodities.

Principal points still in disagreement among the powers are those governing economic arrangements for Romania, and clauses relating to freedom of navigation on the Danube, with Russia opposing inclusion of free navigation provisions in the peace treaty.

President Orders Full-Scale Probe Of Lynchings

Directs Justice Department To Investigate With All Its Resources

WASHINGTON, July 30. (AP)—Attorney General Clark announced today that President Truman has expressed "horror" at the lynchings of four negroes near Monroe, Ga., and directed the Justice department to investigate "with all its resources."

The federal inquiry—which Clark said is being carried on "in the tradition of the FBI"—has two aims:

1. To see whether the mob members can be arrested and prosecuted under any federal statute.

2. To assist Georgia authorities in identifying the members of the mob and prosecuting them under state laws. Clarks announced that "the entire record of our investigation will made available to the governor of Georgia, if necessary, for proper action of Georgia civil authorities."

Early Solution Sought

Clark expressed "hope for an early solution" of what he called "these shocking murders" and called upon "all our citizens to repudiate mob rule."

Referring to the 20-odd white men who shot the two negro farm workers, one a veteran, and their wives, last Thursday, Clark said in a statement:

"This crime is an affront to decent Americanism. Only due process of law sustains our claim to orderly self-government. I call upon all our citizens to repudiate mob rule and to assist the authorities to bring these criminals to justice. The lives and liberties of none of us are safe when forces of terror operate outside the laws of God and man."

Later Clark said in a second statement that he had talked with Mr. Truman about the case and that the president "has expressed to me his horror at the crime and his sympathy for the families of the victims."

The president, Clark said, "has asked that the department report its progress in the investigation and proceed with all its resources to investigate this and any other crimes of oppression so as to ascertain if any federal statute can be applied to the apprehension and prosecution of the criminals."

Ministers File Protest

In his first statement, Clark said the Justice department has received "hundreds of telegrams and letters from public-spirited citizens and civic, religious, labor and veterans organizations from all sections of the nation deploring and protesting the recent mass murders in Monroe, Ga."

Meanwhile, a group of 50 women paraded before the White House protesting the slayings. They paraded under the auspices of the National Association of Colored Women and carried signs such as "America, our home, let it be known lynching must cease."

In Atlanta, two large groups of ministers protested the lynching.

Episcopal ministers issued a statement saying "we can think of no atrocity in this generation of our state quite so loathsome and ominous."

Sparkman Piles Up Heavy Lead Over Opponents

By D. HAROLD OLIVER
Associated Press Political Reporter

Congressman John J. Sparkman piled up a heavy lead over four opponents tonight in the race for United States Senator from Alabama, and appeared to have a good chance to clinch the job without the necessity of a run-off election August 27.

With 1,227 of 2,360 polling places reporting on the Democratic primary election to fill the Senate seat of the late John H. Bankhead, Sparkman had 59,447 votes to 58,396 for his four rivals combined. Unless Sparkman gets more than 50 per cent of the total vote, a runoff will be necessary.

State Senator James A. Simpson was leading Congressman Frank Boykin for the runnerup spot by 32,307 votes to 25,016. Ted Allen and Thomas H. Maxwell, the other two contestants, had only 680 and 399 votes, respectively.

Sparkman, 46-year-old Democratic "whip" (assistant floor leader) in the House of Representatives, was backed by organized labor, including the CIO-PAC, but also was polling heavily in rural sections.

Rep. Boykin had charged during the campaign that the PAC was attempting to "purge" him.

As usual, negroes voted in small numbers in the Alabama primary, in which nomination is tantamount to election. No incidents were reported.

The right of negroes to vote figured in the Arkansas state campaign, however, where Gov. Ben Laney, Democrat seeking re-election, was leading by a wide margin. Laney had 28,570 votes in 591 of 2,093 precincts to 13,782 for J. M. Malone and 1,421 for Virgil Greene. Nathan Gordon, 30-year-old winner of the Congressional Medal of Honor, was leading in the race for lieutenant governor.

Shortage Of Labor May Limit Production, CPA Chief Says

By STERLING F. GREEN

WASHINGTON, July 30. (AP)—A "record volume" of goods may flow to consumers in the next six months, Civilian Production Administrator John D. Small forecast tonight on the strength of rapid recovery in steel and coal.

Factory output hit a new postwar peak in June, Small revealed in his quarterly report. It toppled prewar monthly records in washing machines, vacuum cleaners, gas ranges, electric irons and table model radios.

Some slumps were noted, but not enough to offset the general rise. Autos dropped 11 per cent in June from May but rose again in July; farm equipment and tires also declined in June, by three and 10 per cent respectively.

"Additional production gains were registered in July in spite of uncertainties concerning price controls and the adverse effects on production resulting from holidays and vacation periods," the CPA administrator said.

Sounds Warning Note

One warning note was sounded: It is probable that a "serious shortage of labor is developing" which may prove to be "an important limiting factor in production by the end of the year."

"The prospects are that business will, first, have to recruit back into the labor force large numbers of those who have left it since V-J day, and second, require that large amounts of overtime be worked if production scheduled are to be met," the CPA chief predicted.

Despite the fact that 10,000,000 veterans and 50,000,000 war workers have been discharged into the labor market in the last 12 months, the industrial demand for workers has been so great that unemployment has risen only 1,600,000, and "still may be considered remarkably low," Small said.

"The demand for labor in the remaining months of 1946 will be large if, as it now appears, the country's production continues to rise," he went on.

"This demand will have to be filled from a depleted labor pool amounting to less than 4,000,000 workers."

Unless industry and labor learn how to boost productivity without increasing the cost of each item made, "prices will rise further," Small predicted. If manufacturers try to outstrip competitors by out-

AMPUTEE AID BILL BLOCKED IN HOUSE

WASHINGTON, July 30.—(AP)—Rep. Whittington (D-Miss) today blocked House consideration of a bill to provide free automobiles for veterans with leg amputations—and met a storm of protests from veterans themselves.

The bill was called up by Chairman Rankin (D-Miss) of the Veterans committee under procedure requiring unanimous consent. Scores of veterans who have been working for the measure for weeks leaned forward expectantly in their gallery seats but groaned when Whittington objected.

In a heated exchange in a corridor, Whittington told a group of the veterans later he had objected because he opposes dealing with veterans in "piecemeal" manner and that no such legislation should be passed until "a further and thorough investigation" of the needs has been made.

"Well, if you ask me, that's not much of an explanation," snapped Sgt. Milton Kornfeld of New York city, a patient at Walter Reed hospital here.

As others began voicing objections, Whittington excused himself saying he had to answer a quorum call.

Heirens Fails To Make Planned "Confession"

Replies "I Don't Remember" When Questioned About Three Crimes

CHICAGO, July 30 (AP) — "I don't remember."

With these words William Heirens, 17-year-old University of Chicago student, brought to a sudden and dramatic end today a widely publicized plan of his attorneys for him to "make a confession" to the state's attorney the details of the Suzanne Degnan kidnap-killing and two other brutal slayings.

State's Attorney William J. Touhy immediately announced he would proceed with arrangements to prosecute the accused youth on murder charges.

The strapping youth, surrounded by attorneys, police and public officials, secretaries and stenographers in the state's attorneys office, began giving what his lawyers had announced would be a formal confession of the three slayings.

Parries All Questions

Suddenly he began parrying all questions with "I don't remember." He gave this response to all pertinent questions about the Degnan

Two Americans Are Released By Russians

Cobin And Wyatt Vanished Into Soviet Zone On July 4

By RICHARD KASISCHKE

BERLIN, July 31 (AP) — Russian authorities today released Capt. Harold Cobin of New York City and Lt. George Wyatt of Oklahoma City, who had vanished July 4 on an unauthorized trip into the Soviet occupation zone.

Maj. Gen. Walter A. Keating, American commander in Berlin, said emphatically that the release of the two officers did not involve any exchange of detainees.

In that respect their case differed from that of an American warrant officer and his wife who were freed by Soviet officials in return for the release by U. S. Army authorities of three Russians picked up in the American zone on suspicion of espionage.

Mrs. Mary Cobin, awakened and informed that her husband was being returned, exclaimed: "It's the best news of my life. I'm going to have a big party for Harold when I see him. You know we haven't

Social Security Tax Freeze Is Voted By Senate

WASHINGTON, July 30 (AP)—The Senate approved a social security tax "freeze" today after adopting an amendment providing a sliding scale of federal grants for needy aged, the needy blind, and for dependent children.

The measure provides that throughout 1947 the social security payroll tax shall remain at the present rate of 1 percent each on employes and employers. Unless the freeze is enacted, the tax will go up to 2½ percent each the first of the year.

The bill went back to the House, where it immediately bumped into trouble. Rep. Knutson (R-Minn) blocked an effort by Chairman Doughton (D-NC) of the Ways and Means committee to send it to a House-Senate conference committee for adjustment of the differences between the two Houses.

Knutson objected to a unanimous consent request to send the bill to the conference committee. The Minnesota member is fighting the Senate sliding scale provision, which would result in larger federal payments for the needy in low income states.

The provision was designed to eliminate some wide differences in individual case grants now existing in rich and poor states. At present the federal government matches state money for such cases on a 50-50 basis.

The principal feature of the bill and the one which affects the most people is the section which freezes the social security payroll tax throughout 1947 at the present rate of one percent each on employes and employers. Similar action has been taken annually since 1942. Unless the freeze is enacted, the tax will go up to 2½ per cent on each the first of next year.

GI Terminal Pay In Bonds Is Approved

Conference Committee Sanctions Leave Payments For Servicemen

By FRANCIS J. KELLY

WASHINGTON, July 30 (AP)— A bottled-in-bonds terminal pay bill for servicemen and veterans was agreed upon today by a Senate-House Conference committee.

The five-year bonds in which the major portion of the payments would be made are non-negotiable, but the committee which worked out the final form of the bill provided that they could be used for payments on government life insurance.

Estimated $2,400,000,000 To Be Paid

An estimated $2,400,000,000 would be paid to present and former service personnel in lieu of furlough time they were unable to take during service. Grants would be made on the basis of 2½ days pay for each month of service since September 8, 1939, with a limit of 120 days. On next September 1 the carryover limit would drop to 60 days.

The conference agreement went back to Senate and House for final approval.

Enactment of the bill would put the enlisted personnel of the armed forces on somewhat the same basis as officers, who have been enjoying paid terminal leave all along. The officers, however, get paid in cash.

The House originally voted for cash payments for enlisted men, too, but at the insistence of treasury and budget officials, the Senate wrote in a bond plan. The conference committee worked out the compromise under which the bonds, while not immediately cashable, could be used to pay premiums on National Service Life Insurance or to convert it to permanent policies.

Some Aspects Of Inflation

Senator Elbert Thomas (D-Utah), head of the Senate conferees, conceded that the bonds-for-insurance plan held "some aspects of inflation." However, he told reporters "it also has the virtue of good habit-forming in relation to thrift and insurance."

He observed that only 267,000 of the 5,600,000 outstanding service insurance policies have been converted to the permanent peacetime federal policies.

The bonds, bearing 2½ per cent interest would be issued in $25 multiples, maturing five years after a given veteran's discharge. Amounts due under $50 would be paid in cash. So would the "breakage" in excess of $25 multiples. Thus a veteran to whom $103 was due would receive $100 in bonds and $3 in cash.

An estimated 15,000,000 veterans are expected to apply for the payments.

CLAIM GERMAN V-2 SETS NEW RECORD

WHITE SANDS, N. M., July 30 (AP) — A new world's altitude record of 104 miles was claimed today by the army for a German V-2 rocket fired by technicians at the White Sands proving ground.

Eclipsing by 23.5 miles the best previous mark, the height was announced by Col. Harold R. Turner, White Sands commandant, after more than two hours' delay caused by loss of radio contact with field stations observing the missile's flight.

The rocket descended 69 miles north of the launching platform, gouging a deep crater in the New Mexico desert.

Colonel Turner said that instruments carried in the nose came down intact and are expected to provide more information than ever before was available, about such matters as cosmic rays, temperatures and pressure at that distance above the earth.

Sharp Rises For Clothing Also Expected

Subsidy Restoration On Canned Corn, Tomatoes, Peas Unlikely

BREAD, FLOUR INCREASES ARE BEING CONSIDERED

Breakfast Cereals Listed Among Items To Receive Ceiling Boosts

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

WASHINGTON, July 30 (AP) — Government officials tonight predicted higher price ceilings for canned vegetables, breakfast cereals, coffee and possibly bread and other bakery products.

Meanwhile OPA rolled out more price increases on clothing and laid the groundwork for still more garment hikes—perhaps as much as 15 to 20 per cent—under terms of the new price control law.

Officials who asked to remain anonymous said the government has just about decided against restoration of subsidies on coffee and three major canned vegetables, — peas, corn and tomatoes.

They said permanent elimination of these subsidies, which lapsed July 1, will raise price ceilings on these vegetables by one to two cents for number two can.

Coffee May Jump .10 Pound

On coffee, officials estimated that with subsidies out of the picture retail ceilings would have to be jumped eight to 10 cents a pound. About half of this amount represents an increase which was pending at the start of this month, when OPA lapsed.

An OPA official told a reporter there is "complete indecision" on whether the flour subsidy should be restored. He said bread prices "will not be raised" if subsidies are paid again, but that a price increase is possible if the payments are ruled out.

The flour subsidy held down retail bread prices one cent a loaf, but since price controls were revived last week OPA has made no upward adjustment of bread ceilings to compensate for absence of the subsidy.

Bakery industry representatives have petitioned OPA for a one-cent-a-loaf increase on bread and a 25-per cent increase on biscuit and cracker prices.

OPA reportedly is taking the stand that a bread increase of one cent a loaf granted last month is adequate to compensate bakers in the event restoration of flour subsidies is ruled out. The agency's contention is that bread production has increased and that costs have declined.

Price increases for several types of breakfast cereals, including oatmeal, were pending when the old price control law lapsed. These increases, to be put into effect soon, will be in line with price hikes previously authorized for corn flakes, puffed wheat and puffed rice.

Shirts Up 11 to 21 Per cent

Ceilings on corn flakes, for example, were raised in June three cents on an 11-ounce package.

As for clothing, OPA increased retail ceilings an average of eight percent on a number of men's outer wear garments, including mackinaws, leather coats and jackets, hunting and fishing clothing, heavy wool shirts and lined sports jackets made of cotton.

These increases, granted to offset higher production costs, followed price hikes yesterday of from 11 to 21 percent on shirts, shorts and pajamas.

In each case, the garment price increases were authorized under the old price control law, which required

Rep. Coffee And Anderson Differ On What $2,500 Check Covered

By ALEX H. SINGLETON

WASHINGTON, July 30 (AP)—Rep. Coffee (D-Wash) insisted under oath today that a $2,500 check from a defense contractor was a "campaign contribution." he added, in response to questions, that he had not listed it in either his income tax returns or election contribution report.

Appearing voluntarily before the Senate War Investigating committee, Coffee sharply contradicted sworn testimony two hours earlier by Elvind Anderson, Tacoma, Wash., contractor, that he had paid the money in 1941 for "service."

Anderson testified that a "verbal contract" on the payment was reached in 1941 in a conversation among himself, Coffee and Paul A. Olson, then the congressman's secretary, in a "lonesome narrow corridor beneath a winding staircase' near the House restaurant.

He related that he had lunched with Coffee and Olson, and "one or the other of them suggested that we walk to the side where there is quietness, where people were not around, where we could talk." He said he followed them to the spot beneath the "winding staircase."

Talk Beneath Stairs

"Kind of a lonesome place?" suggested Senator Ferguson (R-Mich).

"Kind of a lonesome place," agreed Anderson.

He quoted Coffee as opening the convesation there by saying that "I understand from Paul that you will pay $2,500 for us to represent you in Washington."

"Yes," the contractor testified he agreed, "I will be willing to pay $2,500 to have representation in Washington. That will be all right with me."

He told the committee that his answer appeared "gratifying to John," and quoted Coffee as saying that "if you do that, you can depend upon us to look after your interests."

Anderson said that he inquired whether it would be "all right" to send a check after he returned home and quoted Coffee as replying: "That's all right, send it to Paul."

Coffee's version differed. He denied that he had lunched with Anderson but said the contractor "buttonholed me" beneath the members' staircase leading from the House floor to the street floor.

Coffee asserted that Anderson—"grateful" over assistance lent him by himself and his secretary in obtaining a million-dollar contract to

Twitty Convicted After Admitting He Chained And Beat His Daughter

ANNAPOLIS, Md., July 30 (AP) — A 38-year-old Maryland father, who testified he chained and beat his 14-year-old daughter because she insisted on going out with "boys in automobiles", was convicted today of assault and battery.

Kirby Leon Twitty, railroad yard worker at the United States Naval Academy, will be sentenced in "a day or two", Trial Magistrate James G. Woodward announced after the conviction.

Twitty pleaded innocent to assault charges on Doris Joann Twitty, who said that on Saturday, July 20, she was chained in the basement of her home at Edgewater and beaten with a rawhide strap.

The father told the court that he had "no choice" between punishing the girl or turning her over to authorities because of her consistent refusal to remain at home.

Introduced in evidence at the trial was a 13-foot length of chain, with padlock, and a two-thronged strap.

Twitty's bond was renewed and he left the court to await his call for sentence.

Lunges At Photographers

Frank Maggio, Associated Press photographer, reported that as Twitty left the building he made a lunge at Maggio's camera after first stooping to avoid having his picture taken. Maggio said Twitty's hand struck the camera and damaged it slightly.

The girl, self-possessed on the stand and calmly direct in all her answers, replied to a question of defense counsel George Woelfel by saying:

"My father whipped me because I didn't obey my parents."

The father and daughter contradicted each other in their testimony on the number of times she was struck with the strap. He said about a "half dozen times", but Doris Joann told the court "it must have been a hundred."

Mrs. Martha Twitty, mother of Doris Joann, appeared as a prosecution witness to say that the girl had "assed" her father and had been repeatedly warned about leaving home to go to Annapolis or a nearby beach.

Beaten Another Time

Doris Joann said that she had been chained and beaten about a month before the July 20 incident.

Twitty testified that in the interim between the two punishmens he had repeatedly warned the girl not to go into town. He objected to the absences, he said, because the daugh-

300 Marines Are Hunting Missing Buddies In China

Search Cornfield Battleground Near Peiping Armed With Howitzers

PEIPING, July 30 (AP) — Three hundred motorized United States Marines armed with howitzers spread through a cornfield battleground near Peiping today looking for an unidentified number of their comrades missing after a clash with Chinese Communists in which four marines were killed and 19 wounded.

The heavily-armed patrol, supported by warplanes, sped out of Tientsin Monday upon the first flashed word that a 100-man truck convoy had been ambushed 35 miles southeast of Peiping and was outnumbered three to one.

The relief force did not arrive, however, until the four-hour engagement was over and the convoy had escaped from the danger zone in a storm of rifle fire from Chinese in the corn rows.

With a dozen mobile 105-MM howitzers ready just in case the attackers returned in force, the patrol fanned out through the countryside looking for possible survivors or wounded.

Gen. Chou En-Lai, head of the Communist delegation in Nanking, asserted the clash resulted from "marine provocation" and "the Communists have absolutely no intention of unleashing a conflict." He said the Communists had been provoked by marine intrusions into their areas.

Marine sources in Peiping said a marine patrol recently exchanged fire with Communist troops in the area southeast of Peiping, and the Communists probably were retaliating.

Marine sources said the four dead had yet to be identified and that two of the 19 were wounded so badly they may die. They were checking their lists to see how many others were unaccounted for.

Chinese sources said two of the slain marines were officers in the leading command car who fell in the first volley that struck the convoy as it wound up the road, carrying replacements from Tientsin for the Peiping garrison.

ter went out with "boys in automobiles."

He denied, under questioning by State's Attorney Marvin I. Anderson, that he told Sgt. Brooke Meade of the Annapolis police he intended to keep Doris Joann chained for a month.

Twitty reported that on Sunday morning he asked Mrs. Twitty to go down and release the girl, but in the meantime Doris Joann had freed herself and gone to notify police.

Sgt. Meade testified that a photograph taken July 21 showed numerous bruises on the girl's back.

The daughter in her testimony of events of July 20 said that she was "in town only about four hours in the morning, although my mother did not want me to go." She said that upon her return home her father accosted her and knocked her down with his hand.

Twitty said that just before he chained his daughter he had told her:

"I am going to tie you up to the bed so you don't run off again, and I am going to give you a licking so you will remember."

Coffee firmly denied that he had received the money for "service," saying that "there never was any discussion about hiring me or Olson as his Washington representative."

Charges Political Bias

Anderson testified that he mailed a check for $2,500 to Olson soon after returning to Tacoma after his conversation with the secretary and Coffee.

Coffee acknowledged that Olson had received the check, cashed it "right away," and deposited it in one of Coffee's bank accounts.

The congressman complained that the committee's inquiry had been prompted by the Republican National Committee and that allegations against him were "saturated in political bias."

Asked by Senator Ferguson (R-Mich) whether he had included the $2,500 in his 1941 income tax returns, Coffee said that he had not because it was a "campaign gift."

He told the committee that he had paid $3,000 "out of my own pocket" in his campaign for reelection in 1938, taking it from a safe deposit box, and that he had applied the $2,500 "to try to replace some of the campaign indebtedness which I had incurred in a very expensive campaign."

He testified, too, that he had never included it in his campaign expenses. He told the committee that the laws of the state of Washington require candidates to file election expenses but not contributions.

seen each other in two and a half years."

Mrs. Cobin arrived in Berlin with other American dependents after her husband had been missing for a week. She has maintained a fearful vigil since then.

Keating personally took delivery of Cobin and Wyatt at the Russian headquarters. He said he planned to keep the pair in his home through the early hours of the morning "because we have things to ask and to tell them."

Later in the morning the two officers will be made available for interviews by newsmen.

Cobin and Wyatt were released after Keating said Maj. Gen. Alexander Kotikov, the Soviet commander in Berlin, had informed him that the Russians had picked up the two Americans "near Berlin."

Kotikov did not say how long they had been in custody but told Keating he was acting in accordance "with our agreement that we inform each other when we pick up one another's nationals."

Previously the Russians had maintained that they had no knowledge of the whereabouts of Cobin and Wyatt, although U. S. Army criminal investigation agents had stoutly maintained that the pair was in the Soviet zone and claimed to have knowledge of their movements.

Turned Down By Bank

A short time after the annual meeting, Stiffler and the company counsel took the options to the First National bank and "tried to arrange to have the bank act as trustee in taking up 51 per cent of the stock under the options," Loar charged. He added that Stiffler and company counsel "inadvertently disclosed" to the bank enough of the plan to cause the bank "to refuse to have anything to do with the whole matter."

Loar said that subsequently a large amount of cash, much of it furnished by Laher, was deposited in the Second National bank in the name of T. L. Richards and J. H. Stiffler, trustees, and that the former was company counsel. Later, the plaintiff said, Llewellyn and England, with Laher's attorney, Laher and Richards, made purported tenders under the options to certain shareholders. He added that they actually purchased only a few shares.

Loar declared that he is advised that since he can prove the option was procured from by "material misrepresentation and by fraud," he is entitled to have it declared null and void; and that if it was not so procured that he can elect to pay $300 as liquidated damages under the terms of the option. He added, however, that the defendants have informed him they or their assignees will demand as liquidated damages $300 per share for each of his 15 shares of stock, if he fails to deliver them.

300 Marines Are Hunting Missing Buddies In China

Search Cornfield Battleground Near Peiping Armed With Howitzers

PEIPING, July 30 (AP) — Three hundred motorized United States Marines armed with howitzers spread through a cornfield battleground near Peiping today looking for an unidentified number of their comrades missing after a clash with Chinese Communists in which four marines were killed and 19 wounded.

The heavily-armed patrol, supported by warplanes, sped out of Tientsin Monday upon the first flashed word that a 100-man truck convoy had been ambushed 35 miles southeast of Peiping and was outnumbered three to one.

The relief force did not arrive, however, until the four-hour engagement was over and the convoy had escaped from the danger zone in a storm of rifle fire from Chinese in the corn rows.

With a dozen mobile 105-MM howitzers ready just in case the attackers returned in force, the patrol fanned out through the countryside looking for possible survivors or wounded.

Gen. Chou En-Lai, head of the Communist delegation in Nanking, asserted the clash resulted from "marine provocation" and "the Communists have absolutely no intention of unleashing a conflict." He said the Communists had been provoked by marine intrusions into their areas.

Marine sources in Peiping said a marine patrol recently exchanged fire with Communist troops in the area southeast of Peiping, and the Communists probably were retaliating.

Marine sources said the four dead had yet to be identified and that two of the 19 were wounded so badly they may die. They were checking their lists to see how many others were unaccounted for.

Chinese sources said two of the slain marines were officers in the leading command car who fell in the first volley that struck the convoy as it wound up the road, carrying replacements from Tientsin for the Peiping garrison.

He denied, under questioning by State's Attorney Marvin I. Anderson, that he told Sgt. Brooke Meade of the Annapolis police he intended to keep Doris Joann chained for a month.

Twitty reported that on Sunday morning he asked Mrs. Twitty to go down and release the girl, but in the meantime Doris Joann had freed herself and gone to notify police.

Sgt. Meade testified that a photograph taken July 21 showed numerous bruises on the girl's back.

The daughter in her testimony of events of July 20 said that she was "in town only about four hours in the morning, although my mother did not want me to go." She said that upon her return home her father accosted her and knocked her down with his hand.

Twitty said that just before he chained his daughter he had told her:

"I am going to tie you up to the bed so you don't run off again, and I am going to give you a licking so you will remember."

THE WOLF PACK FORMS AGAIN

Those lost youngsters in Russia, Asia, China—A man's been telling me about them. I couldn't listen long—

I remember the first big relief ship that came over in 1919. Homeless kids—thousands of them—the Red Cross had been gathering them together for months, shipping them back to Russia via San Francisco. My boss had sent me down to the dock to cover the story.

I can't remember now what I expected to find. But I'll be haunted all my days by what I saw as the big boat limped alongside. A dirty old tub she was, smeared and mangled by her battle with the waves. But the thing that stopped me was that massed scum of youngsters, thousands of them, 8, 9, 10 years old, staring down at me, dumb motionless.

Children? But you couldn't call them children. Somewhere in the hell that lay behind them, their childhood had been wiped out. For keeps. And there wasn't anything in its place.

Ever have a nightmare—one of the worst kind—where there's no sound, no action, just the feeling of being trapped, tighter and tighter, by a lot of faceless Things? They were like that—that mass of staring faces. Faces that should have been children, but weren't

Real kids—you know the feel of them anywhere. Always wiggling . . excited, expecting . . as if there were some special force inside them . . . some joyful, potent, tingling force, lifting them up, settling them aglow. Real kids . . . waiting on tiptoe for what's coming next. Real kids are like that, no matter where you find them.

But these kids weren't like that. There was no tiptoe tingling about them. Someone had washed them, clothed them, given them enough food to cover the worst bones. Someone had tried to make them human. But where their faces should have been, they—weren't.

I know that's a dumb way to put it but I'm expressing a dumb sort of horror. The sort of thing you can't put into words.

Remember, those kids hadn't known human existence for at least four years. None of them had ever known the things our kids take for granted . . . safe, happy, home fun and love. Picnics. Christmas trees. Moms to kiss them when they bumped their knees . . . tuck them into bed. Dads to play baseball with.

Most of them didn't even have names or nationalities or homes of any sort. All their lives they'd lived like wolf packs, huddling in basements, skulking through alleys without human feeling of any sort except hunger or cold, or the quick, hot reek of blood on their knives . . . dog blood, cat blood, human blood.

Nameless, homeless wolf packs . . . huddling, hovering, waiting to pounce . . . never, even in ancient, crumbling Rome had there been a horror like that. Kids who never laughed, never hoped, never felt . . . just huddled in their own filth . . . or scuttled in fear, leaving things, gnawed bone bare, behind them.

Any wonder that I can't forget their staring faces, their waiting claws? Children who'd never known childhood. No German concentration camp ever held anything as ghastly as that or as deadly in its menace.

And now they're gathering again. Only where there were thousands then, there are millions today. Nameless millions with nowhere to go . . . nothing to believe in . . . nothing to call their own, not even memories. Millions of them, swarming like maggots all over Europe and Asia . . . waiting, watching, staring out of mindless flesh.

Waiting for what?

I don't know. They don't know. Only, for Christ's dear sake . . or our own swinish profit . . . we can't let things go on like this. We can't let our world be taken over by wolf packs—or maggots. We've got to give them something. Something quick. Not just food or fun or clothes. We've got to give them something that will put meaning into their empty days . . . and light into the darkened sockets which once were eyes . . . and laughter where now there is only shriveled flesh above bared fangs. Something . . . quick—or else.

The Price Trend And Reasons For It

It is worth noting that the first action taken by the revived OPA was to raise the price ceiling on coal, shoes, building materials and a stream of other items, including men's clothing and other male wearables, announced yesterday. And the significant feature of these increases in basic cost-of-living commodities is that they can not be attributed to what Walter Reuther, president of the CIO United Auto Workers, calls the "legalized inflation" of the new price control law or to the lapse of controls during the first three weeks of July. These were increases that were in the mill at the time OPA was suspended, increases made necessary by basic causes that existed prior to July 1.

That proves the point, stressed repeatedly, that prices would have to go up whether OPA was or was not restored. Before OPA was permitted to lapse prices were edging up slowly but surely. That trend would have continued until the wage line, broken by Reuther and his colleagues, and the price line, which reflects the wage costs of production, were again in balance and until the inflationary fiscal policies of the government — deficit spending, an unbalanced budget and increases in the supply of currency and credit in circulation—were checked.

It will be the strategy of the Administration now to blame Congress for any price increases in the future, because OPA was not extended without change. But price increases had to come, and the responsibility rests squarely on Mr. Truman's wrong guess that this year would produce a period of unemployment and deflation, as was pointed out in this column yesterday.

The President's misgivings stem from the belief that the new law does not give OPA enough power to hold down prices. Congress, meanwhile, is apprehensive that, despite all its hedges, OPA may still have so much power that thick-headed administrators will issue rules that slow down production, and thereby defeat the only hope of building supply to equal demand.

And Mr. Truman's threat to call Congress back into extra session, if this OPA law does not stop inflation, can be taken as just so much political talk. The President well knows that should he attempt to place Congress on the spot in the hope of covering up his shortcomings, and give Congress another crack at the OPA, the tables might be turned. The President increased the irritation of many Congressmen and Senators when he added to that the threat to have enacted such fiscal and monetary legislation as needed "to save us from the threat of economic disaster."

The majority of Congress will not consider for any foreseeable period the higher taxation which the President implied, and we have no doubt Mr. Truman is well aware of the fact.

Our government is spending about $40,000,000,000 this fiscal year, roughly five times the budget before the war. It is our contention that a dollar not spent is just as effective, in curbing inflation, as a dollar taken by taxes. So before any dollars are added to our tax bill, it will be in order to inquire first if an equal number of dollars cannot be saved in our spending. It probably is because of this thought that resentment has been intensified by the fact that Mr. Truman, while demanding economy, budget-balancing and other anti-inflationary assistance from Congress, has not checked inflationary fiscal policies. He sponsors and adds constantly to a legislative program that is certain to increase the normal deficit unless the Government takes over all private capital and property and puts all citizens on a common income level. And even in such circumstances, which no Congress in sight is likely to help bring about, all citizens would be obliged to work, and the New Deal concepts of social security, which President Truman is now seeking to expand, would have to be abandoned.

So Congress, which already was restive under the growing criticism of the White House, and already felt that much of it is inconsistent and unfair, is moving toward adjournment in a mood of growing hostility toward the President. That was certain to be the result of Mr. Truman's attempt to make it appear that Congress was to blame if high prices and inflation resulted from the OPA bill he accepted as better than the one he vetoed.

Army has quit buying butter because the price is too high. When the government quits hiring because the payroll is too high, that will be news.

Nature Kind to American Farmers

In a year in which the nation needs all the food that can be raised, nature has been extraordinarily kind to the farmers of the United States. For months the nation has been hard pressed to meet the demands of its people, solely because of food shipments to other nations.

Under the circumstances, a serious crop failure would have been a major disaster. Indeed, the fields of grain now ripening under summer suns and rains promise to produce the richest harvest in the nation's history.

The prospects, bright on July 1, had brightened still more under favorable weather by July 15 when the Department of Agriculture made a special mid-month survey. At that time the outlook was for a corn crop of 3,487,976,000 bushels, approximately 146,000,000 bushels greater than the prospect two weeks earlier. The expected wheat crop was up 42,000,000 bushels from the July forecast to a total of 1,132,075,000.

It is impossible to make hard and fast estimates of output in an occupation surrounded by so many uncertainties as farming. Uncle Sam will have to keep his fingers crossed until the harvest is safely in.

But if the forecasts are borne out they will ease the situation for more than anyone dared to hope at the beginning of this summer, when mountains of grain and other foodstuffs were shipped to Europe, leaving the nation's cupboard bare. The prospective wheat crop alone is roughly 135,000,000 bushels greater than is called for in the government's present program for shipments abroad. If the estimates are borne out, it is entirely possible that the restrictions imposed earlier this year can be eased without slowing the export program.

THE BODY'S USE OF FOOD AND OXYGEN

ALL living cells require energy in order to function. We term the process "metabolism" which, in the strict sense, is a chemical reaction calling for oxygen and food. When these two elements combine, carbon dioxide and water are eliminated and free energy is liberated along with heat.

Man utilizes the energy derived from foodstuffs in a number of ways. Much is transformed into heat which is expended in maintaining the body temperature. The exact degree which can be produced by each portion of nutriment has been computed and expressed in calories. Thousands of painstaking experiments were conducted in order to obtain the figures which we now find in any book on dietetics.

Thru exercise, further quantities are lost. Some is employed to run the body—breathing and the contractions of the heart. Even the tiny glands in the wall of the stomach and intestines are working when they secrete digestive juices. Fuel is also necessary for digestion, growth, and the storage of excess carbohydrates, proteins, and fats.

—o—

In the vernacular of the physiologist, metabolism consists of two phases: anabolism, meaning to build up; and catabolism, to break down.

The former refers to the intake and the latter to what is dissipated. In the majority of us this is a balanced procedure. Using the weight as a guide, it may be said that a gain can be anticipated when anabolism predominates and vice versa.

Because there are so many factors which influence the results, the physician has to make the basal metabolism test under specified, or basal conditions. Thus it is performed from 12 to 18 hours after eating and following a 30 to 45 minute interval of rest. With the individual quiet and not using energy to digest food, the actual percentage of heat given off during a set period can be determined by measuring the volume of oxygen inhaled and the carbon dioxide eliminated.

Machines are built for this purpose. The patient is asked to breathe into a tank, containing a certain amount of oxygen, for six to eight minutes. After this time, the quantity used is measured. Specially prepared tables are then consulted and the reading calculated.

—o—

In making the final tabulation, the age of the patient is taken into consideration, because young people demand more energy for growth. Furthermore, in women the need for fuel is lower than for men. The body surface is also important. For simplicity, the normal reading comes out as zero. A reading above or below this figure may indicate an abnormality but anything between plus 10 and minus 10 is within normal variations.

The thyroid affects the metabolic rate and, for this reason, the test is valuable in discovering whether the gland is manufacturing too much or too little of its secretion. If the structure is overactive (hyperthyroidism), an increase up to 75 per cent may be observed. After part of the organ is removed surgically, the rate drops. With the opposite condition (hypothyroidism), the output is scanty, and levels as low as minus 20 to minus 40 are not unusual.

SLIP OF TONGUE

Mrs. G. writes: I am 69 years old and am strong, healthy, and happy. But on three different occasions I have miscalled things. For instance, I said funeral instead of wedding, I pointed to potatoes and called them onions, and I referred to frankfurters as doughnuts. I have a friend whose mother was affected this way and her doctor said it was "word blindness." I am quite alarmed. Is there anything I can do?

REPLY

Yes, you can stop worrying about it as we all have the experience, especially when greatly fatigued. So-called word blindness sometimes follows a brain accident, when the circulation to the language centers becomes impaired. This is usually temporary and is due to spasm of an artery. The condition is frequently associated with hardening of the arteries and high blood pressure incident to the aging process.

—o—

GLANDULAR CHANGES

M. H. writes: Is an endocrine disturbance considered an organic, emotional, chemical, or functional disorder?

REPLY

The majority can be classified as both organic and chemical in nature. On the other hand, emotional and functional disorders can influence the glandular secretions.

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Kellogg Pact Was Goal Set For World; Public Apathy Dulled Our Readiness to Struggle to That Goal; Apathy Today Dangerous

By DREW PEARSON

PARIS, July 30.—Eighteen years ago this month, I traveled with Frank B. Kellogg, then secretary of state, to a peace conference in Paris on which—like this conference—the people of the world placed great hope. At Paris, as Secretary Kellogg signed his pact to outlaw war, the little people of the world who have to do the fighting and the dying when war comes rejoiced and were exceedingly glad.

They hoped — many were even sure—that a new era of peace on earth and good will had finally come to stay.

Frank B. Kellogg, of course, was ahead of his time. So was Henry L. Stimson who followed him in the State Department and who did his best to carry out the obligations of the Kellogg Pact. Worthwhile men always are ahead of their time and progress always has been a matter of the world trying to live up to the goals set by other men ever since the days of Christ.

However, the fact remains that even while the ink was drying on the Kellogg Pact, Viscount Yasuya Uchida, who signed for Japan, knew that his war lords were conspiring to seize Manchuria and later all China. And even while the Polish foreign minister sat in the famous clock room of the Quay D'Orsay participating in the ceremony of signing the pact, Polish calvary was fretfully skirmishing along the German border.

And the files of the Nuernburg trial now show that shortly after this goal of outlawing war had been set for mankind, Hitler's war planners actually worked out the gruesome details for systematically destroying 5,000,000 unwanted people in the murder factories of Nazi Germany.

Man In Street Did Not See War

I came back to Europe in 1930 for the London naval conference, when it became distressingly clear that Mussolini was planning to stab France in the back; and again in 1936, when Hitler was betting his money on Franco in Spain and had buffalowed France by sending his troops into the Rhineland.

Each time it seemed obvious to trained observers that the first sparks of war were flying in Europe. But it was also impossible to convince some people of the danger. Even Franklin Roosevelt, far sighted as he was in other diplomatic matters, either did not see or else chose to ignore Hitler's rehearsal for war in Spain. On occasions when I discussed Spain with him, he seemed totally unconcerned.

The French cabinet, more alert to what was happening, debated all day of the day Hitler invaded the Rhineland.

More recently the German generals on trial at Nuernburg revealed that Hitler had no troops and no supplies; that he was gambling on French indecision. Also he knew the British would not support France. He was right. Word from the Bank of England that there would be no British support for France was the final straw for the French cabinet.

It did not act.

Next day, Hitler's forces were in the Ruhr and Rhineland for keeps.

The same thing happened when Hitler moved into Austria. Testimony at the Nuernburg trial shows that the Germans were not prepared, were gambling on allied indecision.

Likewise in the Far East. When the Japanese war lords moved into Manchuria in September 1931, the United States could have nipped an Asiatic war before it started. Secretary of State Stimson, who knew what was happening, tried to end the fleet. But Herbert Hoover, backed by GOP isolationists, refused.

The same thing happened to Roosevelt in 1938 when Adm. William D. Leahy urged that Japan be stopped by a long-distance naval blockade, at that time perfectly feasible. However, Cordell Hull and State Department appeasers hung back. A few months later it was too late. The British fleet upon which we depended was mortally involved in Europe.

People Must be Alert for War

Moral to be drawn from all this is that peace conferences sometimes can be deceptive. Vigorous action to prevent war depends on public opinion. So it is vitally important that public opinion not be lulled to sleep. The Kellogg Pact to outlaw war was a great and worthwhile step. No word in it should have been changed. But it should have been interpreted for what Kellogg meant it to be. And for that Stimson tried to make it a goal toward which the world must work, not a panacea or cure all for war.

The above ideas are set forth not because the writer happens to be in reminiscent mood, but because the present peace conference may be interpreted by some as the cure all and the end all, the stopping point between World War II and a new era of peace.

Unfortunately it isn't. It is not even a full-fledged peace conference. No conference can be complete when the most important belligerent, Germany is a taboo subject and when another important belligerent, Austria, is also banned.

But even more tragic than that, this conference in a sense highlights the fact that a new troublemaker, a new possible belligerent has taken the place of Germany and Japan and is using exactly the same tactics.

Just as Hitler counted on French indecision when he invaded the Rhineland, so Stalin counted on Allied war weariness when he started to take over Iran. He did not figure that the United Nations would become such a powerful mobilizer of world opinion, that American diplomacy would rush to Iran's defense. And just as Hitler for months waged a war of nerves against Czechoslovakia, so Moscow for months has kept Turkey on tenderhooks and was on the verge of invading two eastern Turkish provinces last spring.

By this time the United States was more alert than in the prewar days of Hitler. The battleship Missouri was rushed to Istanbul and it was made quite clear that the United States was on the side of peace.

Today the American public is more alert and better informed than ever before. Today, also, the U. S. government is more alert and better prepared to act. But eventually people get weary. Eventually, the war of nerves wears them down. Therefore one thing to be kept firmly in mind is that this peace conference is merely nibbling at the edges of peace. It is merely one milestone along the road.

And if peace is to be won finally, there must be many milestones with nerve-racking crises in between and with the American people prepared to take a firm stand against a former ally if we are finally to attain the great goal set for us by Frank B. Kellogg 18 years ago this month.

Though it takes much time and great patience, in my opinion that goal eventually can be won.

"IT Says Here"

By BOB HOPE

You never know what to expect here in Hollywood and to prove my point, the Los Angeles American Legion is sponsoring, of all things, a baby festival.

Babies may be a little out of its line, but the Legion is always willing to make some changes . . . and it's got the diapers to prove it. I don't think it will have much trouble, though . . . the American Legion are old hands at picking beautiful, blue-eyed babies . . . In fact, they're veterans.

Seven hundred babies are entered in the contest and it promises to be a colorful affair. I can just see it now . . . the mothers wheeling their tots across the stage in flower-bedecked carriages, and the judge all singing, "They're either too young or too old."

I won a baby contest once and why shouldn't I? . . . I was the cutest baby there. Not only was my nose turned up . . . but it kept right on going! I was a remarkable baby and very advanced for my age. In fact, I learned to run before I even learned to crawl! It was really nothing, though . . . You'd make rapid advances, too, if you had a blonde nurse.

The coronation proceedings will be held at the embassy auditorium and I expect to be there. I love babies . . . they're so cute! And, besides . . . I have the safety-pin concession.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

For many years I have been very partial to the Maritime Provinces in Canada. For some sixteen years I have had an island summer retreat on Grand Lake in Nova Scotia. It has been some years since I have been privileged to drive there, but this year I did, and more than ever I was fascinated by the beautiful unspoiled countrysides in New Brunswick and Nova Scotia. They are ideal summer vacation Provinces, for their summer weather is about as perfect as it comes. Cool and invigorating.

The main roads in these Provinces are excellent, and the prosperous and beautiful farm sights are inspiring. You pass lakes, rivers, and a gentle rolling country that is a delightful picture at nearly every turn of the road. The fertile valleys show scores of herds of cattle happily grazing from the rich soil. You view quaint churches, neat country homes, and I noted many new and attractive cabin creations for tourists.

My favorite drive, for many years, however, is the one from Moncton, News Brunswick to Halifax, or I might say, to my island home, by way of Parrsboro, Nova Scotia. It is one of the most beautiful scenic drives I have ever taken anywhere. There are others just as unique, but with a different setting. I have driven both shores of the United States from boundary to boundary. The great Redwood drive out of San Francisco to Portland, Oregon, that magnificent drive along the Columbia highway, those through the Catskills, the Rockies, the Adirondacks, and the Allegheny Mountains, just to name a few, all have their beauty and their especial attractions, but you have much of them all, in miniature, in the suggested drive into Nova Scotia.

From out of Parrsboro, soon you mount gradually, over a perfect highway, to a height from which you view a magnificent sight below you. Every shade of green forests, with farms and homes hidden away in pockets, and to the right you view from many points the famous Five Islands located in the Bay of Fundy. Truly a poetic panorama. It has surprised me to learn of so many people in Nova Scotia who have never taken this outstanding drive. I hope there may be many who come to this lovely vacation land who will take this drive, and that will be compensation enough for this brief talk.

Adjournment Of Congress Will Introduce An Unusual Period

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, July 30. — Ever since the war began in 1939, our national legislature has been in almost continuous session, so the adjournement this week of the Seventy-Ninth Congress will introduce an unusual period—a five-month moratorium on legislation.

So far as business is concerned, however, it will be the beginning of an era of regulation wherein executive agencies and boards, being free from an overnight check by the legislative branch of the government, will have sweeping powers.

May Try Many Experiments

Thus, there has been little said in the open about the biggest control which the administration is planning to exercise, allegedly against inflation—the control of inventories and the allocation of materials. Many people have forgotten that the President, under his war powers, can still ration certain goods, that are short and otherwise exercise controls which can have a powerful effect on price-fixing. With Congress absent, the executive agencies will be able to try many an experiment with controls.

There is satisfaction in Washington with the price decontrol board's personnel of three top executives. The feeling is that these—Messrs. Thompson, Mead and Bell—will do an impartial job and will faithfully carry out the mandate of congress to dispense with price controls wherever possible. It certainly is not a "packed" jury and in this respect President Truman has kept his promise and deserves commendation. It is a good beginning on the task of administering one of the most complicated laws congress ever passed.

Congress Not To Rank High

The present congress will not rank high in the esteem of historians. For it failed to pass many a measure of far greater importance than the ones it did pass. Much legislation will be lost in the shuffle this week which might have had better consideration. Politics and post-war confusion have made the job of congress a difficult one. But it cannot be overlooked that this congress did pass the British loan agreement, did authorize participation in the United Nations and did present a united front of both political parties on foreign policy.

The Seventy-Ninth Congress spent a good deal more money than the country realizes, and much of it was wastefully spent as a consequence of the demands of pressure groups, particularly some of the alleged spokesmen for veterans. The President is talking about a drive for economy, but it should have started with the present session.

Mr. Truman has promised to call congress back into extra session if any emergency develops. Politically it would have been far better for him if he could have agreed with the leaders in congress to arrange a recess instead of an adjournment with the speaker of the House of Representatives or the president pro tem of the Senate having power to call the congress back into special session. An equivalent arrangement has been used in the last several years so as to retain for Congress its own right to take the initiative in calling the members back to Washington.

Once an "adjournment" for a session is taken, only the President can bring congress here for an extra session. One reason, of course, for the adjournment was the desire of certain special groups to kill pending legislation once and for all in this session and to compel the sponsors to go through all the trouble of committee consideration and voting in either or both of the two Houses next year, whereas, if congress had recessed, the legislation would have remained alive and subject to further action this year in the event that both Houses desired to come back to continue the regular session after the November elections.

President To Have Spotlight

As matters stand now, the President will have the spotlight for the remainder of the year unhampered by any congressional resolutions, committee investigations or accusatory speeches. The nation will have no means of getting legislative redress on any problems that might arise until next January when the Eighteenth Congress is to convene in regular session.

The tendency will be to hold the Chief Executive responsible for any price gyrations because he has promised to call congress back if the cost of living rises too far above the worker's capacity to pay. It would have been better if he had arranged it so that equal responsibility for remedying the situation on prices would have been placed upon the existing congress, which does not go out of office until next January.

The Price Trend And Reasons For It

It is worth noting that the first action taken by the revived OPA was to raise the price ceiling on coal, shoes, building materials and a stream of other items, including men's clothing and other male wearables, announced yesterday. And the significant feature of these increases in basic cost-of-living commodities is that they can not be attributed to what Walter Reuther, president of the CIO United Auto Workers, calls the "legalized inflation" of the new price control law or to the lapse of controls during the first three weeks of July. These were increases that were in the mill at the time OPA was suspended, increases made necessary by basic causes that existed prior to July 1.

That proves the point, stressed repeatedly, that prices would have to go up whether OPA was or was not restored. Before OPA was permitted to lapse prices were edging up slowly but surely. That trend would have continued until the wage line, broken by Reuther and his colleagues, and the price line, which reflects the wage costs of production, were again in balance and until the inflationary fiscal policies of the government — deficit spending, an unbalanced budget and increases in the supply of currency and credit in circulation—were checked.

It will be the strategy of the Administration now to blame Congress for any price increases in the future, because OPA was not extended without change. But price increases had to come, and the responsibility rests squarely on Mr. Truman's wrong guess that this year would produce a period of unemployment and deflation, as was pointed out in this column yesterday.

The President's misgivings stem from the belief that the new law does not give OPA enough power to hold down prices. Congress, meanwhile, is apprehensive that, despite all its hedges, OPA may still have so much power that thick-headed administrators will issue rules that slow down production, and thereby defeat the only hope of building supply to equal demand.

And Mr. Truman's threat to call Congress back into extra session, if this OPA law does not stop inflation, can be taken as just so much political talk. The President well knows that should he attempt to place Congress on the spot in the hope of covering up his shortcomings, and give Congress another crack at the OPA, the tables might be turned. The President increased the irritation of many Congressmen and Senators when he added to that the threat to have enacted such fiscal and monetary legislation as needed "to save us from the threat of economic disaster."

The majority of Congress will not consider for any foreseeable period the higher taxation which the President implied, and we have no doubt Mr. Truman is well aware of the fact.

Our government is spending about $40,000,000,000 this fiscal year, roughly five times the budget before the war. It is our contention that a dollar not spent is just as effective, in curbing inflation, as a dollar taken by taxes. So before any dollars are added to our tax bill, it will be in order to inquire first if an equal number of dollars cannot be saved in our spending. It probably is because of this thought that resentment has been intensified by the fact that Mr. Truman, while demanding economy, budget-balancing and other anti-inflationary assistance from Congress, has not checked inflationary fiscal policies. He sponsors and adds constantly to a legislative program that is certain to increase the normal deficit unless the Government takes over all private capital and property and puts all citizens on a common income level. And even in such circumstances, which no Congress in sight is likely to help bring about, all citizens would be obliged to work, and the New Deal concepts of social security, which President Truman is now seeking to expand, would have to be abandoned.

So Congress, which already was restive under the growing criticism of the White House, and already felt that much of it is inconsistent and unfair, is moving toward adjournment in a mood of growing hostility toward the President. That was certain to be the result of Mr. Truman's attempt to make it appear that Congress was to blame if high prices and inflation resulted from the OPA bill he accepted as better than the one he vetoed.

Army has quit buying butter because the price is too high. When the government quits hiring because the payroll is too high, that will be news.

Nature Kind to American Farmers

In a year in which the nation needs all the food that can be raised, nature has been extraordinarily kind to the farmers of the United States. For months the nation has been hard pressed to meet the demands of its people, solely because of food shipments to other nations.

Under the circumstances, a serious crop failure would have been a major disaster. Indeed, the fields of grain now ripening under summer suns and rains promise to produce the richest harvest in the nation's history.

The prospects, bright on July 1, had brightened still more under favorable weather by July 15 when the Department of Agriculture made a special mid-month survey. At that time the outlook was for a corn crop of 3,487,976,000 bushels, approximately 146,000,000 bushels greater than the prospect two weeks earlier. The expected wheat crop was up 42,000,000 bushels from the July forecast to a total of 1,132,075,000.

It is impossible to make hard and fast estimates of output in an occupation surrounded by so many uncertainties as farming. Uncle Sam will have to keep his fingers crossed until the harvest is safely in.

But if the forecasts are borne out they will ease the situation for more than anyone dared to hope at the beginning of this summer, when mountains of grain and other foodstuffs were shipped to Europe, leaving the nation's cupboard bare. The prospective wheat crop alone is roughly 135,000,000 bushels greater than is called for in the government's present program for shipments abroad. If the estimates are borne out, it is entirely possible that the restrictions imposed earlier this year can be eased without slowing the export program.

THE BODY'S USE OF FOOD AND OXYGEN

ALL living cells require energy in order to function. We term the process "metabolism" which, in the strict sense, is a chemical reaction calling for oxygen and food. When these two elements combine, carbon dioxide and water are eliminated and free energy is liberated along with heat.

Man utilizes the energy derived from foodstuffs in a number of ways. Much is transformed into heat which is expended in maintaining the body temperature. The exact degree which can be produced by each portion of nutriment has been computed and expressed in calories. Thousands of painstaking experiments were conducted in order to obtain the figures which we now find in any book on dietetics.

Thru exercise, further quantities are lost. Some is employed to run the body—breathing and the contractions of the heart. Even the tiny glands in the wall of the stomach and intestines are working when they secrete digestive juices. Fuel is also necessary for digestion, growth, and the storage of excess carbohydrates, proteins, and fats.

—o—

In the vernacular of the physiologist, metabolism consists of two phases: anabolism, meaning to build up; and catabolism, to break down.

The former refers to the intake and the latter to what is dissipated. In the majority of us this is a balanced procedure. Using the weight as a guide, it may be said that a gain can be anticipated when anabolism predominates and vice versa.

Because there are so many factors which influence the results, the physician has to make the basal metabolism test under specified, or basal conditions. Thus it is performed from 12 to 18 hours after eating and following a 30 to 45 minute interval of rest. With the individual quiet and not using energy to digest food, the actual percentage of heat given off during a set period can be determined by measuring the volume of oxygen inhaled and the carbon dioxide eliminated.

Machines are built for this purpose. The patient is asked to breathe into a tank, containing a certain amount of oxygen, for six to eight minutes. After this time, the quantity used is measured. Specially prepared tables are then consulted and the reading calculated.

—o—

In making the final tabulation, the age of the patient is taken into consideration, because young people demand more energy for growth. Furthermore, in women the need for fuel is lower than for men. The body surface is also important. For simplicity, the normal reading comes out as zero. A reading above or below this figure may indicate an abnormality but anything between plus 10 and minus 10 is within normal variations.

The thyroid affects the metabolic rate and, for this reason, the test is valuable in discovering whether the gland is manufacturing too much or too little of its secretion. If the structure is overactive (hyperthyroidism), an increase up to 75 per cent may be observed. After part of the organ is removed surgically, the rate drops. With the opposite condition (hypothyroidism), the output is scanty, and levels as low as minus 20 to minus 40 are not unusual.

SLIP OF TONGUE

Mrs. G. writes: I am 69 years old and am strong, healthy, and happy. But on three different occasions I have miscalled things. For instance, I said funeral instead of wedding. I pointed to potatoes and called them onions, and I referred to frankfurters as doughnuts. I have a friend whose mother was affected this way and her doctor said it was "word blindness." I am quite alarmed. Is there anything I can do?

REPLY

Yes, you can stop worrying about it as we all have the experience, especially when greatly fatigued. So-called word blindness sometimes follows a brain accident, when the circulation to the language centers becomes impaired. This is usually temporary and is due to spasm of an artery. The condition is frequently associated with hardening of the arteries and high blood pressure incident to the aging process.

GLANDULAR CHANGES

M. H. writes: Is an endocrine disturbance considered an organic, emotional, chemical, or functional disorder?

REPLY

The majority can be classified as both organic and chemical in nature. On the other hand, emotional and functional disorders can influence the glandular secretions.

Kellogg Pact Was Goal Set For World; Public Apathy Dulled Our Readiness to Struggle to That Goal; Apathy Today Dangerous

By DREW PEARSON

PARIS, July 30.—Eighteen years ago this month, I traveled with Frank B. Kellogg, then secretary of state, to a peace conference in Paris on which—like this conference—the people of the world placed great hope. At Paris, as Secretary Kellogg signed his pact to outlaw war, the little people of the world who have to do the fighting and the dying when war comes rejoiced and were exceedingly glad.

They hoped — many were even sure—that a new era of peace on earth and good will had finally come to stay.

Frank B. Kellogg, of course, was ahead of his time. So was Henry L. Stimson who followed him in the State Department and who did his best to carry out the obligations of the Kellogg Pact. Worthwhile men always are ahead of their time and progress always has been a matter of the world trying to live up to the goals set by other men ever since the days of Christ.

However, the fact remains that even while the ink was drying on the Kellogg Pact, Viscount Yasuya Uchida, who signed for Japan, knew that his war lords were conspiring to seize Manchuria and later all China. And even while the Polish foreign minister sat in the famous clock room of the Quay D'Orsay participating in the ceremony of signing the pact, Polish calvary was fretfully skirmishing along the German border.

And the files of the Nuernburg trial now show that shortly after this goal of outlawing war had been set for mankind, Hitler's war planners actually worked out the gruesome details for systematically destroying 5,000,000 unwanted people in the murder factories of Nazi Germany.

Man In Street Did Not See War

I came back to Europe in 1930 for the London naval conference, when it became distressingly clear that Mussolini was planning to stab France in the back; and again in 1936, when Hitler was betting his money on Franco in Spain and had buffalowed France by sending his troops into the Rhineland.

Each time it seemed obvious to trained observers that the first sparks of war were flying in Europe. But it was also impossible to convince some people of the danger. Even Franklin Roosevelt, far sighted as he was in other diplomatic matters, either did not see or else chose to ignore Hitler's rehearsal for war in Spain. On occasions when I discussed Spain with him, he seemed totally unconcerned.

The French cabinet, more alert to what was happening, debated all day of the day Hitler invaded the Rhineland.

More recently the German generals on trial at Nuernburg revealed that Hitler had no troops and no supplies; that he was gambling on French indecision. Also he knew the British would not support France. He was right. Word from the Bank of England that there would be no British support for France was the final straw for the French cabinet.

It did not act.

Next day, Hitler's forces were in the Ruhr and Rhineland for keeps.

The same thing happened when Hitler moved into Austria. Testimony at the Nuernburg trial shows that the Germans were not prepared, were gambling on allied indecision.

Likewise in the Far East. When the Japanese war lords moved into Manchuria in September 1931, the United States could have nipped an Asiatic war before it started. Secretary of State Stimson, who knew what was happening, tried to end the fleet. But Herbert Hoover, backed by GOP isolationists, refused.

The same thing happened to Roosevelt in 1938 when Adm. William D. Leahy urged that Japan be stopped by a long-distance naval blockade, at that time perfectly feasible. However, Cordell Hull and State Department appeasers hung back. A few months later it was too late. The British fleet upon which we depended was mortally involved in Europe.

People Must be Alert for War

Moral to be drawn from all this is that peace conferences sometimes can be deceptive. Vigorous action to prevent war depends on public opinion. So it is vitally important that public opinion not be lulled to sleep. The Kellogg Pact to outlaw war was a great and worthwhile step. No word in it should have been changed. But it should have been interpreted for what Kellogg meant it to be. And for that Stimson tried to make it a goal toward which the world must work, not a panacea or cure all for war.

The above ideas are set forth not because the writer happens to be in reminiscent mood, but because the present peace conference may be interpreted by some as the cure all and the end all, the stopping point between World War II and a new era of peace.

Unfortunately it isn't. It is not even a full-fledged peace conference. No conference can be complete when the most important belligerent, Germany is a taboo subject and when another important belligerent, Austria, is also banned.

But even more tragic than that, this conference in a sense highlights the fact that a new troublemaker, a new possible belligerent has taken the place of Germany and Japan and is using exactly the same tactics.

Just as Hitler counted on French indecision when he invaded the Rhineland, so Stalin counted on Allied war weariness when he started to take over Iran. He did not figure that the United Nations would become such a powerful mobilizer of world opinion, that American diplomacy would rush to Iran's defense. And just as Hitler for months waged a war of nerves against Czechoslovakia, so Moscow for months has kept Turkey on tenderhooks and was on the verge of invading two eastern Turkish provinces last spring.

By this time the United States was more alert than in the pre-war days of Hitler. The battleship Missouri was rushed to Istanbul and it was made quite clear that the United States was on the side of peace.

Today the American public is more alert and better informed than ever before. Today, also, the U. S. government is more alert and better prepared to act. But eventually people get weary. Eventually, the war of nerves wears them down. Therefore one thing to be kept firmly in mind is that this peace conference is merely nibbling at the edges of peace. It is merely one milestone along the road.

And if peace is to be won finally, there must be many milestones with nerve-racking crises in between and with the American people prepared to take a firm stand against a former ally if we are finally to attain the great goal set for us by Frank B. Kellogg 18 years ago this month.

Though it takes much time and great patience, in my opinion that goal eventually can be won.

"IT Says Here"

By BOB HOPE

You never know what to expect here in Hollywood and to prove my point, the Los Angeles American Legion is sponsoring, of all things, a baby festival.

Babies may be a little out of its line, but the Legion is always willing to make some changes . . . and it's got the diapers to prove it. I don't think it will have much trouble, though . . . the American Legion are old hands at picking beautiful, blue-eyed babies . . . In fact, they're veterans.

Seven hundred babies are entered in the contest and it promises to be a colorful affair. I can just see it now . . . the mothers wheeling their tots across the stage in flower-bedecked carriages, and the judge all singing, "They're either too young or too old."

I won a baby contest once and why shouldn't I? . . . I was the cutest baby there. Not only was my nose turned up . . . but it kept right on going! I was a remarkable baby and very advanced for my age. In fact, I learned to run before I even learned to crawl! It was really nothing, though . . . You'd make rapid advances, too, if you had a blonde nurse.

The coronation proceedings will be held at the embassy auditorium and I expect to be there. I love babies . . . they're so cute! And, besides . . . I have the safety-pin concession.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

For many years I have been very partial to the Maritime Provinces in Canada. For some sixteen years I have had an island summer retreat on Grand Lake in Nova Scotia. It has been some years since I have been privileged to drive there, but this year I did, and more than ever I was fascinated by the beautiful unspoiled countrysides in New Brunswick and Nova Scotia. They are ideal summer vacation Provinces, for their summer weather is about as perfect as it comes. Cool and invigorating.

The main roads in these Provinces are excellent, and the prosperous and beautiful farm sights are inspiring. You pass lakes, rivers, and a gentle rolling country that is a delightful picture at nearly every turn of the road. The fertile valleys show scores of herds of cattle happily grazing from the rich soil. You view quaint churches, neat country homes, and I noted many new and attractive cabin creations for tourists.

My favorite drive, for many years, however, is the one from Moncton, News Brunswick to Halifax, or I might say, to my island home, by way of Parrsboro, Nova Scotia. It is one of the most beautiful scenic drives I have ever taken anywhere. There are others just as unique, but with a different setting. I have driven both shores of the United States from boundary to boundary. The great Redwood drive out of San Francisco to Portland, Oregon, that magnificent drive along the Columbia highway, those through the Catskills, the Rockies, the Adirondacks, and the Allegheny Mountains, just to name a few, all have their beauty and their especial attractions, but you have much of them all, in miniature, in the suggested drive into Nova Scotia.

From out of Parrsboro, soon you mount gradually, over a perfect highway, to a height from which you view a magnificent sight below you. Every shade of green forests, with farms and homes hidden away in pockets, and to the right you view from many points the famous Five Islands located in the Bay of Fundy. Truly a poetic panorama. It has surprised me to learn of so many people in Nova Scotia who have never taken this outstanding drive. I hope there may be many who come to this lovely vacation land who will take this drive, and that will be compensation enough for this brief talk.

Adjournment Of Congress Will Introduce An Unusual Period

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, July 30. — Ever since the war began in 1939, our national legislature has been in almost continuous session, so the adjournement this week of the Seventy-Ninth Congress will introduce an unusual period—a five-month moratorium on legislation.

So far as business is concerned, however, it will be the beginning of an era of regulation wherein executive agencies and boards, being free from an overnight check by the legislative branch of the government, will have sweeping powers.

May Try Many Experiments

Thus, there has been little said in the open about the biggest control which the administration is planning to exercise, allegedly against inflation—the control of inventories and the allocation of materials. Many people have forgotten that the President, under his war powers, can still ration certain goods, that are short and otherwise exercise controls which can have a powerful effect on price-fixing. With Congress absent, the executive agencies will be able to try many an experiment with controls.

There is satisfaction in Washington with the price decontrol board's personnel of three top executives. The feeling is that these—Messrs. Thompson, Mead and Bell—will do an impartial job and will faithfully carry out the mandate of congress to dispense with price controls wherever possible. It certainly is not a "packed" jury and in this respect President Truman has kept his promise and deserves commendation. It is a good beginning on the task of administering one of the most complicated laws congress ever passed.

Congress Not To Rank High

The present congress will not rank high in the esteem of historians. For it failed to pass many a measure of far greater importance than the ones it did pass. Much legislation will be lost in the shuffle this week which might have had better consideration. Politics and post-war confusion have made the job of congress a difficult one. But it cannot be overlooked that this congress did pass the British loan agreement, did authorize participation in the United Nations and did present a united front of both political parties on foreign policy.

The Seventy-Ninth Congress spent a good deal more money than the country realizes, and much of it was wastefully spent as a consequence of the demands of pressure groups, particularly some of the alleged spokesmen for veterans. The President is talking about a drive for economy, but it should have started with the present session.

Mr. Truman has promised to call congress back into extra session if any emergency develops. Politically it would have been far better for him if he could have agreed with the leaders in congress to arrange a recess instead of an adjournment with the speaker of the House of Representatives or the president pro tem of the Senate having power to call the congress back into special session. An equivalent arrangement has been used in the last several years so as to retain for Congress its own right to take the initiative in calling the members back to Washington.

Once an "adjournment" for a session is taken, only the President can bring congress here for an extra session. One reason, of course, for the adjournment was the desire of certain special groups to kill pending legislation once and for all in this session and to compel the sponsors to go through all the trouble of committee consideration and voting in either or both of the two Houses next year, whereas, if congress had recessed, the legislation would have remained alive and subject to further action this year in the event that both Houses desired to come back to continue the regular session after the November elections.

President To Have Spotlight

As matters stand now, the President will have the spotlight for the remainder of the year unhampered by any congressional resolutions, committee investigations or accusatory speeches. The nation will have no means of getting legislative redress on any problems that might arise until next January when the Eightieth Congress is to convene in regular session.

The tendency will be to hold the Chief Executive responsible for any price gyrations because he has promised to call congress back if the cost of living rises too far above the worker's capacity to pay. It would have been better if he had arranged it so that equal responsibility for remedying the situation on prices would have been placed upon the existing congress, which does not go out of office until next January.

Many Assertions Return To Haunt Stalin, Molotov

By SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL

"We stand for the scrupulous observance of pacts. . . and declare that all nonsense about Sovietizing the Baltic countries is only in the interest of our common enemies."—Foreign Minister Molotov, Oct. 31, 1939.

"One swift blow to Poland, first, by the German Army and then by the Red Army, and nothing was left of this ugly offspring of the Versailles Treaty."—The same Molotov, 1939.

"We do not want a foot of anyone else's territory."—Stalin, about 1935.

"The friendship of Germany and the Soviet Union, cemented by blood, has every reason to be lasting and firm."—Stalin to Ribbentrop, Dec. 28, 1939, after carving up Poland.

"It is not only senseless but criminal to wage a war for the 'destruction of Hitlerism' camouflaged as a fight for 'democracy'." — Molotov, Oct. 31, 1939.

U. S. For Independent Poland

"The United States stand unequivocally for a strong, free and independent Polish State."—Secretary of State Stettinius, Dec. 18, 1944.

"The three heads of government consider that the eastern frontier of Poland should follow the Curzon line."—Yalta Conference, Feb. 12, 1945, signed by Roosevelt.

"All of the nations. . . must come to an abandonment of the use of force."—Atlantic Charter, to which Stalin agreed.

"The armed forces of the Soviet Union must daily improve their military art." — Stalin, May Day speech, 1946.

"We will create new fighting ships and new bases for our Navy."—Stalin, July 22, 1945.

"The Soviet government is entitled to take such steps as it may judge best to create a regional system in Eastern Europe."—Sumner Welles, Asst. Sec. of State.

"The Soviet Union. . . is run by a dictatorship, as absolute as any other dictatorship in the world."—Roosevelt, Feb. 11, 1940. (Later, many times, called by him a "freedom loving democracy.")

"We have to use any ruse, dodge, trick, cunning, unlawful method, concealment, velling of truth." — Lenin, 1920.

Davies Assertion Proved Wrong

"The word of honor of the Soviet government is as safe as the Bible." —Ambassador Joseph E. Davies, Feb. 25, 1942. (Russia has broken 27 treaties since 1939, the only nation ever expelled from the League of Nations for violating a treaty—the one with Finland.)

"The mightiest ally of Russia is strife, conflicts and wars in every capitalist nation."—Stalin, Jan. 30, 1923.

"The U.S.S.R. will refrain from bringing about by force a change in the political or social order of the United States."—Foreign Minister Litvinov when Roosevelt recognized Russia, Nov. 16, 1933.

"You (American Communists) must form leaders of the proletariat who will be capable of leading millions of American workers toward revolutionary classwars."—Stalin, May 6, 1929.

Trotsky Denounced Stalin

"The world is one family with one future—a future that will bind our brotherhood with heart and mind and not with chains, which will save and share its culture, past and now aborning, which will work out the peace on a level of high and open cooperation."—Vice President Wallace, June 6, 1943.

"I do not think that in all human history anything could be found even remotely resembling the gigantic factory of lies which was organized by the Kremlin under the leadership of Stalin."—Trotsky, Biography of Stalin.

Memorial Nurses To Take Frostburg College Courses

Last Pre-Nursing Examination For September Class To Be Saturday

Five studies in the preliminary work of the students at Memorial Hospital School of Nursing will be taken at Frostburg State Teachers College, Miss Frances L. Loftus, director of nurses, announced yesterday.

The courses, to be inaugurated with the September class, will include anatomy, physiology, chemistry, sociology and psychology, and will be given by instructors at the college. Tentative plans are to have the student nurses taken the subjects at the college on three half days, beginning the latter part of September.

In speaking of the new program, Miss Loftus said last night, that she feels, "that it is a relationship of value to the student, the school and the community, inasmuch as all facilities available in the community are being utilized." The director of nurses also stressed the fact that there will not be any change in the number of hours required, but as the five courses are being given in an accredited college, it will enhance the student's opportunities for receiving college credits.

The last pre-nursing examination for applicants for the September class, will be held Saturday at the hospital. Of the 28 young women accepted for the class 16 will take the examination Saturday. This examination is given under the direction of the League of Nursing by Martin Hamerick, Ph.D. of Frostburg State Teachers' college, assisted by Mrs. Gladys S. Brooks, nursing arts instructor.

The fall class will enter the afternoon of September 8 and classes will begin September 9.

Memorial Nurses To Take Frostburg College Courses

Last Pre-Nursing Examination For September Class To Be Saturday

Five studies in the preliminary work of the students at Memorial Hospital School of Nursing will be taken at Frostburg State Teachers College, Miss Frances L. Loftus, director of nurses, announced yesterday.

The courses, to be inaugurated with the September class, will include anatomy, physiology, chemistry, sociology and psychology, and will be given by instructors at the college. Tentative plans are to have the student nurses taken the subjects at the college on three half days, beginning the latter part of September.

In speaking of the new program, Miss Loftus said last night, that she feels, "that it is a relationship of value to the student, the school and the community, inasmuch as all facilities available in the community are being utilized." The director of nurses also stressed the fact that there will not be any change in the number of hours required, but as the five courses are being given in an accredited college, it will enhance the student's opportunities for receiving college credits.

The last pre-nursing examination for applicants for the September class, will be held Saturday at the hospital. Of the 28 young women accepted for the class 16 will take the examination Saturday. This examination is given under the direction of the League of Nursing by Martin Hamerick, Ph.D. of Frostburg State Teachers' college, assisted by Mrs. Gladys S. Brooks, nursing arts instructor.

The fall class will enter the afternoon of September 8 and classes will begin September 9.

County Medical Program Studied By Public Health

The aspects of Allegany county's medical care program were discussed yesterday by Dr. Joseph P. Franklin, county health officer and two representatives of the American Public Health Association.

The representatives, Dr. Howard Kline and Miss Cozette Hapney, New York, are making a survey of the Maryland program.

Various parts of the program were discussed and reports of the work done in this county were cited by Dr Franklin.

File Applications To Wed

A marriage license application has been filed in the District of Columbia by Francis D. Swor, 21, Cleveland, Ohio, and Lorraine Ambrose, 21, Cumberland. A similar application was filed at Upper Marlboro by Glenn A. Kidwell, 32, and Erma M. Cowgill, 18, both of Paw Paw, W. Va.

Telephone Directory Is Being Distributed

Delivery of over 13,000 new telephone directories in the Cumberland area will be completed by Thursday, according to Howard M. Smith, manager of the local office of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company.

The new directory contains numbers of 1,400 additional telephones installed during the past six months and also embraces a larger territory than the 1946 winterspring issue, Smith said.

The last book issued by the company contained around 10,000 numbers, Smith said.

In distributing the new directory, Smith is urging all patrons to make use of the informative material in the book.

Expansion Of Army Program Announced

BALTIMORE, July 30 (AP) — Expansion of the Army Advisory committee program, in effect in the old Third Service Command since January, to include the four states in the former Fifth Service Command was disclosed today by Maj. Gen. Manton S. Eddy, commanding the Second army.

The Fifth Service Command, which included Ohio, Kentucky, West Virginia and Indiana, is now part of the Second army.

The committees, composed of civic leaders in various communities in the command, were first set up by General Eddy to obtain public support for the army recruiting campaign.

There are 66 of them now operating in Maryland, Pennsylvania and Virginia which composed the former Third Service Command.

The groups have not only assisted in the recruiting campaign but have acted to inform the public on army activities and advise Gneral Eddy on trends of thought in connection with army affairs.

"They have proved to be a tremendous asset to the army's public relations program," the announcement said.

Court Approves License Transfer

Young World War II Veteran Gets Class A Beer And Wine Permit

Approval was given the application of Tony Freno, young veteran of World War II, to have a Class A beer and wine license transferred to his grocery store at 32 Oak street following a hearing yesterday morning in circuit court before Chief Judge William A. Huster and Associate Judge Walter C. Capper.

The license had been held by M. L. Mostoller at the same location, but a remonstrance against the transfer was filed by members of the Seventh Day Adventist church who said there are already a number of licensed places in the area and that "it would be bad for the morals of children to have alcholic beverages in a store."

Sixty-six residents of the South End, including members of the congregation signed the remonstrance, while more than 50 other persons signed Freno's application.

Chief Judge Huster commented that the license had been issued to Mostoller at the same address without any protest, and that there had never been any reports of law violations there.

Freno, represented by Edward J. Ryan, said he served three years in the army in the United States, England, France and Germany and held the grade of sergeant when he was honorably discharged.

Earl E. Manges represented the protestants.

Young World War II Veteran Gets Class A Beer And Wine Permit

Approval was given the application of Tony Freno, young veteran of World War II, to have a Class A beer and wine license transferred to his grocery store at 32 Oak street following a hearing yesterday morning in circuit court before Chief Judge William A. Huster and Associate Judge Walter C. Capper.

The license had been held by M. L. Mostoller at the same location, but a remonstrance against the transfer was filed by members of the Seventh Day Adventist church who said there are already a number of licensed places in the area and that "it would be bad for the morals of children to have alcholic beverages in a store."

Sixty-six residents of the South End, including members of the congregation signed the remonstrance, while more than 50 other persons signed Freno's application.

Chief Judge Huster commented that the license had been issued to Mostoller at the same address without any protest, and that there had never been any reports of law violations there.

Freno, represented by Edward J. Ryan, said he served three years in the army in the United States, England, France and Germany and held the grade of sergeant when he was honorably discharged.

Earl E. Manges represented the protestants.

Independent Voters Are Showing Increasing Preference For G. O. P.

Shift From Democratic To Republican Party Since The 1944 Elections Amounts To 11 Per Cent, Poll Shows

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP
Director American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., July 30—The Democratic Party has lost ground sharply since 1944 with the group of voters that controls the balance of power in national elections—the independent voter.

The proportion among these voters preferring the Democratic party has dropped from 62 per cent at the time of the 1944 election to 51 per cent today—a drop of 11 percentage points.

So far as today's results go, an independent voter is a man who calls himself an independent when asked:

"In politics, as of today, do you consider yourself a Republican, a Democrat, a Socialist, or an Independent?"

Forty per cent call themselves Republican, 39 per cent call themselves Democratic, and something less than one per cent call themselves Socialist.

Powerful Voting Body

This leaves 21 per cent who say they are independent voters. The group thus adds up to a powerful voting body which is the deciding factor in national elections. It totals about one voter in every five or roughly 10,000,000 among those who cast a ballot in the last presidential election.

In measuring sentiment among the independent voters today, the Institute had field reporters in all parts of the United States ask a cross-section of voters t question which is used periodically to gauge party strength, aside from candidates:

"If a presidential election were being held today, which party would you vote for, the Democratic or the Republican?"

The results:

Democratic	51%
Republican	49

The trend of independent voter sentiment is shown here for 1940 and 1944, as compared with today

	Democratic	Republican
1940	61%	39%
1944	62	38
TODAY	51	49

* * *

There is of course no telling at this stage in the game whether the course of events will swing the independent vote back into the Democratic columns. But, unless the current trend is halted or reversed, it is a bad omen for the Democratic party in the congressional elections this fall.

This is not to say that present findings can be regarded as a forecast on the outcome of the election in terms of seats. Such a forecast would call for a survey in each of the 435 congressional districts in which there is a contest.

There is, nonetheless, a roughly proportional relation between changes in party strength and changes in the distribution of seats in the House.

In These Days of Soaring Expense

Cooking with Gas is Measured in Cents

J. Bascomb Coffingwood Ipswitch McSludge
Was a crusty old gent with a permanent grudge
Who nursed all his nickels and pennies, as well,
And constantly chided his wife, Susabelle,
About the expense of the household.

Each day brought its battles to menage McSludge
How the neighbors enjoyed them—they scarcely could budge
From their windows. (Since Susy, no slouch on defense,
Accounted for everything, down to the cents,
In the budget of the household.)

And always the clincher—from Susy, of course,
('Twas then that poor Bascomb suffered remorse)
Was, "You'll have to admit that my cooking's deluxe
You eat every bite and it runs into bucks
To feed you and the household.

"And never forget, when we bought our Gas Range,
I was the one who prevented a change
From this excellent fuel with its features so many That've made meals so tasty, saved many a penny
On the cost of running this household."

You can cook with Gas for almost a song

Two Youths Are Held In Connection With Burglaries

BALTIMORE, July 30 (AP) — Two young men, believed to have committed a series of burglaries in Baltimore and possibly New York City, were arrested here today by Baltimore police in a raid on their rooms.

Police, who did not identify the men, said they had recovered a quantity of jewelry, clothing, several Spanish and American-make guns and a check drawn on a New York bank, made out to a Mlle. Boynet and signed by a Madame Ripert, Quai de Passy, Paris.

As a result of questioning the suspects detectives have been sent to New York to recover a number of suit cases checked at a bus station there. They are believed to contain loot.

Capt. of Detectives Henry J. Kriss said he believed that the arrests will solve several daytime burglaries of rooms and apartments in Baltimore. He also said that evidence indicated the burglars operated alternately in Baltimore and in New York.

Local Post Office Workers Take Oath Against Striking

Employes at the local post office have taken an oath that they will not strike against the government. This new oath is required by a recent federal order and is required of all federal workers. They will get no pay until they take it.

The obligation to take the oath was included in the Appropriations bill which was not passed until last week. Delay in passing the bill had held up pay checks of post office workers the nation over.

Checks were further held up until the workers took the prescribed oath to the effect that they would not strike against the government or join any group or organization that asserts the right to strike.

Postal employes who are on sick leave or vacation will not receive checks by mail as was customary in the past. They must take the oath first.

Ten Men Enlist For Naval Duty

Lieut. (j.g.) C. M. Baumann, Baltimore, officer in charge of the inactive service for this district, swore in ten additional men into the navy inactive reserve (V-6) yesterday.

The Navy veterans sworn in include John H. Barnard, 700 Yale street, machinist mate, second class; Lawrence A. Morgan, boilermaker, third class, and his brother, Donald M. Morgan, seaman first class, both of 519 City View Terrace.

Two Youths Are Held In Connection With Burglaries

BALTIMORE, July 30 (AP) — Two young men, believed to have committed a series of burglaries in Baltimore and possibly New York City, were arrested here today by Baltimore police in a raid on their rooms.

Police, who did not identify the men, said they had recovered a quantity of jewelry, clothing, several Spanish and American-make guns and a check drawn on a New York bank, made out to a Mlle. Boynet and signed by a Madame Ripert, Quai de Passy, Paris.

As a result of questioning the suspects detectives have been sent to New York to recover a number of suit cases checked at a bus station there. They are believed to contain loot.

Capt. of Detectives Henry J. Kriss said he believed that the arrests will solve several daytime burglaries of rooms and apartments in Baltimore. He also said that evidence indicated the burglars operated alternately in Baltimore and in New York.

Local Post Office Workers Take Oath Against Striking

Employes at the local post office have taken an oath that they will not strike against the government. This new oath is required by a recent federal order and is required of all federal workers. They will get no pay until they take it.

The obligation to take the oath was included in the Appropriations bill which was not passed until last week. Delay in passing the bill had held up pay checks of post office workers the nation over.

Checks were further held up until the workers took the prescribed oath to the effect that they would not strike against the government or join any group or organization that asserts the right to strike.

Postal employes who are on sick leave or vacation will not receive checks by mail as was customary in the past. They must take the oath first.

Two-Timing Girl Friend Leads Man A Merry Chase

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority On Problems Of Love And Marriage

One can't help wondering, sometimes, why people don't do a little more direct talking to each other. Why they'll let a situation run on and on, getting more confused and unhappy every day, when a little plain speech might easily clear things up in a few minutes, or at least show them where they stand.

Here, for example, is a man whose girl friend is leading him a merry chase, two-timing him to a fare-ye-well. He's perfectly aware of what she's doing—he'd have to be a halfwit if he wasn't, since her technique is anything but subtle—but does he say: "Come now, sister. Fun is fun, but enough is enough, and it's high time we got this thing settled one way or the other. Is it me you want, or this other guy? You'll have to make up your mind, but fast, because I'm not going to dangle on the end of your string any longer."

No, he doesn't. He keeps on letting her get away with murder and merely writes to complain that she's got him "going around in circles."

Here's his story:

"Dear Miss Fairfax:

"About five months ago I started to go with a girl, and as time went by I fell very much in love with her.

"I used to drink quite a bit before I met her, but when she told me to quit drinking I did so. I even had a telephone put in her home so we could keep in closer touch with each other.

"A month ago we became engaged. We got along fine, but every time we went out, something seemed to bother her. I would always ask her what it was, but after getting me all curious, she wouldn't tell me. Last week I asked her where her diamond ring was. She lied, and wouldn't tell me. So I put two and two together and found out she had let another fellow have it to wear.

"I was broken-hearted about this, Miss Fairfax. That's one thing I thought she would never do. I need clothing and such things myself, but I never thought of myself. I always got her what she wanted, and I did without. I tried in every way possible to show her I really loved her. I surely have been happy with her.

"Last night she told me she didn't like me now as well as she used to. She said she liked the fellow she gave the diamond to better than me. Before I took her home, she said she loved me better than him. What kind of a love affair would you call this? I'm going around in circles trying to figure it out.

"MIXED-UP"

Well, it's time you got off that merry-go-round and started walking in a straight line, brother. I think you'd better do as I suggest, and tell your girl friend she's got to make a choice and stick to it — and mean business when you say it. No shilly shallying.

And personally, I think if she chose the other fellow, you'd be the lucky guy. If she gives away her engagement diamond to another man—and by the way, did you ever get it back?—you'd probably find her making a present of her wedding ring to somebody else. That gal is my idea of someone you'd be much happier to have in your past than in your present or future.

Of course it breaks your heart to discover that someone you've loved, and put your faith in, isn't worth it. That's a heart-breaking experience for anyone to have. But it's better to have her break your heart now, while you've still got time to free yourself and find some one who'll mend it for you, than to continue this empty relationship to the point where she ruins your life as well.

So brace up now, and assert yourself. Let this girl understand that you're not going to have her make a fool of you, and whichever way things turn out, it's likely to be for the better.

(Copyright, 1948, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Your advancement depends upon you and you alone; you can't get ahead on another's ability.

"Dear Miss Fairfax:

"About five months ago I started to go with a girl, and as time went by I fell very much in love with her.

"I used to drink quite a bit before I met her, but when she told me to quit drinking I did so. I even had a telephone put in her home so we could keep in closer touch with each other.

"A month ago we became engaged. We got along fine, but every time we went out, something seemed to bother her. I would always ask her what it was, but after getting me all curious, she wouldn't tell me. Last week I asked her where her diamond ring was. She lied, and wouldn't tell me. So I put two and two together and found out she had let another fellow have it to wear.

"I was broken-hearted about this, Miss Fairfax. That's one thing I thought she would never do. I need clothing and such things myself, but I never thought of myself. I always got her what she wanted, and I did without. I tried in every way possible to show her I really loved her. I surely have been happy with her.

"Last night she told me she didn't like me now as well as she used to. She said she liked the fellow she gave the diamond to better than me. Before I took her home, she said she loved me better than him. What kind of a love affair would you call this? I'm going around in circles trying to figure it out.

"MIXED-UP"

Well, it's time you got off that merry-go-round and started walking in a straight line, brother. I think you'd better do as I suggest, and tell your girl friend she's got to make a choice and stick to it—and mean business when you say it. No shilly shallying.

And personally, I think if she chose the other fellow, you'd be the lucky guy. If she gives away her engagement diamond to another man—and by the way, did you ever get it back?—you'd probably find her making a present of her wedding ring to somebody else. That gal is my idea of someone you'd be much happier to have in your past than in your present or future.

Of course it breaks your heart to discover that someone you've loved, and put your faith in, isn't worth it. That's a heart-breaking experience for anyone to have. But it's better to have her break your heart now, while you've still got time to free yourself and find some one who'll mend it for you, than to continue this empty relationship to the point where she ruins your life as well.

So brace up now, and assert yourself. Let this girl understand that you're not going to have her make a fool of you, and whichever way things turn out, it's likely to be for the better.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., July 30—(AP)—Federal Judge Ben Moore entered today an order directing the warden of the Federal Women's Reformatory at Alderson to produce Mrs. Emma Elise Leonhardt in court August 15 and show cause why the Detroit woman, serving a sentence for espionage, should not be released.

Mrs. Leonhardt, applying for a writ of habeas corpus, stated in her petition that when she pleaded guilty to the espionage charge in 1944 before a federal court in Detroit she was not properly advised of her right to trial by jury and was "wrongly influenced" by FBI agents to plead guilty.

Moorehead Trial Set For Monday In Westernport

He Is Charged With Causing Disturbance At Moose Home

By GEORGE W. DADDYSMAN

WESTERNPORT, July 30—The trial of Melvin Moorehead will be held next Monday night at 7:30 o'clock before Mayor Harold Fredlock at the Piedmont council chamber.

The hearing is concerned with an alleged disturbance in front of the Moose home on Jones street, Wednesday night at 11:30.

The case was set for last night and Mayor Fredlock read the charges of drinking, disorderly conduct and running to avoid arrest.

Attorney H. G. Shores, Keyser, representing Moorehead, requested a warrant. City Attorney Arthur Arnold agreed with Shores that a warrant was necessary for trial of the case. Upon the motion of Shores the trial was postponed one week in order to give both sides an opportunity to secure additional witnesses.

When James Harrison, chief of police, and Officer Thomas Walsh drove up in front of the Moose home the night of the disturbance, Moorehead and his companion, Woodrow Wilson, fled. The officers shot into the air merely to frighten them, but one of the bullets struck Moorehead in the shoulder.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN

Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Detroit Woman Seeks Release From Prison

CHARLESTON, W. Va., July 30—(AP)—Federal Judge Ben Moore entered today an order directing the warden of the Federal Women's Reformatory at Alderson to produce Mrs. Emma Elise Leonhardt in court August 15 and show cause why the Detroit woman, serving a sentence for espionage, should not be released.

Mrs. Leonhardt, applying for a writ of habeas corpus, stated in her petition that when she pleaded guilty to the espionage charge in 1944 before a federal court in Detroit she was not properly advised of her right to trial by jury and was "wrongly influenced" by FBI agents to plead guilty.

The petition said Mrs. Leonhardt never had a good command of English and that FBI agents persuaded her to plead guilty when she was "overcome and confused by their arguments."

Moorehead Trial Set For Monday In Westernport

He Is Charged With Causing Disturbance At Moose Home

By GEORGE W. DADDYSMAN

WESTERNPORT, July 30—The trial of Melvin Moorehead will be held next Monday night at 7:30 o'clock before Mayor Harold Fredlock at the Piedmont council chamber.

The hearing is concerned with an alleged disturbance in front of the Moose home on Jones street, Wednesday night at 11:30.

The case was set for last night and Mayor Fredlock read the charges of drinking, disorderly conduct and running to avoid arrest.

Attorney H. G. Shores, Keyser, representing Moorehead, requested a warrant. City Attorney Arthur Arnold agreed with Shores that a warrant was necessary for trial of the case. Upon the motion of Shores the trial was postponed one week in order to give both sides an opportuity to secure additional witnesses.

When James Harrison, chief of police, and Officer Thomas Walsh drove up in front of the Moose home the night of the disturbance, Moorehead and his companion, Woodrow Wilson, fled. The officers shot into the air merely to frighten them, but one of the bullets struck Moorehead in the shoulder.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN

Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By DOROTHY MANNERS

HOLLYWOOD, July 30—Hang on, bobby-soxers. A-comin' 'round a Missouri mountain as an all-fired hillbilly in his next picture is your squeal-boy, Van Johnson, who s'help me, goes bare-footed and picks the nayseed out of his hair in "The Romance of Rosy Ridge". Set against a background of the Ozarks, right after the Civil War, Van plays a Yankee in love with the daughter of a southern rebel with money-shines and moonshiners mixed up in the romancing.

MGM bought the Mackinlay Kantor story from a National magazine and producer Jack Cummings latched onto some mischievous casting putting America's heartthrob in the star role. Roy Rowland directs the movie starting right after Van finishes "High Barbaree".

—o—

At last Betty Garrett and Larry Parks (Al Jolson in "The Jolson Story") have solved their long-distance marriage problem. Betty, a solid hit in "Call Me Mister" on Broadway, has just inked an MGM contract, without so much as a test, which brings her to her ever lovin' husband in Hollywood. Larry has been under contract to Columbia for some time—a pretty blue boy because he and Betty have been able to live together just three months out of their two years of married life.

—o—

England's top model agent, Lucy Clayton, did not make her jaunt to Hollywood in vain. As printed here, the Lady Conover-Powers of London, had a plan up her sleeve to trade-exchange six of Britain's top models for six of ours and she sailed for home today with a contract just signed with Sam Goldwyn. Deal is for Mr. G to send six Goldwyn girls to London in October to model American clothes and assorted brands of beauty while the English belles tour America ditto. Oh, yes,—the Goldwn queens will also take a bow with the London premiere of "The Kid From Brooklyn". How could I forget that?

—o—

Ted Saucier, back at his New York haunt, the Waldorf, says that MGM's next picture with a Waldorf-Astoria hotel setting, is not intended as a sequel. Joe Pasternak will produce—but not before another year. Saucier, genial public relations chief for the hostelry, is now writing the original story to fit an all-star musical cast, maybe headed by Judy Garland.

—o—

Bennie Foy's anti-reckless driving picture, "And Sudden Death", provides an opportunity for a newtimer and an oldtimer. Noreen Nash, who was just getting started on her career when she married Dr. Lee Siegel and retired to have a baby, comes back as the heorine. And Crane Wilbur, silent-day movie idol, missing for many moons, will direct. In fact, the idea for the dangers-of-speeding story is Crane's and he sold it to Eagle-Lion under the title of "The Devil Drives".

—o—

Hollywood in shorts: Linda Darnell isn't dating since her separation from Pev Marley—it might upset her real heart . . . There's a funny tag on "Two Guys From Milwaukee". All through the picture, Dennis Morgan talks about wanting to meet Lauren Bacall who shows up in the final scene—but with Bogey . . . Producer Jack Cummings of MGM has been seeing Cyd Charisse, but he's not blind to Betty Kern . . . Lana Turner has a date at the beauty parlor to darken her platinum blonde hair this week—not to a brunette, but a darker blonde . . . "The Life of Glenn Miller", to be filmed by United Artists, will be based on the premise that Miller is not dead, only missing. Tex Beneke will lead the Miller Band in the picture . . . Ned Sparks, the famous dead-pan comedian, bay be headed back to the screen in "Magic Town" for Bob Riskin . . . Marie McDonald, "The Body", dating Tommy Breen, the son—Joe Breen's son, that is . . . Chuck Rinker, producer of "Glamor Manor" on the air, isn't finding much glamor in marriage. His wife is ending their seven-year welding this week . . . Connie Moore and Johnny Maschio hosting the Reggie Gardiners and Norma Sharer and Marty Arrouge at the Kings. That's all today.

By DOROTHY MANNERS

HOLLYWOOD, July 30—Hang on, bobby-soxers. A-comin' 'round a Missouri mountain as an all-fired hillbilly in his next picture is your squeal-boy, Van Johnson, who'll help me, goes bare-footed and picks the mayseed out of his hair in "The Romance of Rosy Ridge". Set against a background of the Ozarks, right after the Civil War, Van plays a Yankee in love with the daughter of a southern rebel with money-shines and moonshiners mixed up in the romancing.

MGM bought the Mackinlay Kantor story from a National magazine and producer Jack Cummings latched onto some mischievous casting putting America's heartthrob in the star role. Roy Rowland directs the movie starting right after Van finishes "High Barbaree".

— o —

At last Betty Garrett and Larry Parks (Al Jolson in "The Jolson Story") have solved their long-distance marriage problem. Betty, a solid hit in "Call Me Mister" on Broadway, has just inked an MGM contract, without so much as a test, which brings her to her ever lovin' husband in Hollywood. Larry has been under contract to Columbia for some time—a pretty blue boy because he and Betty have been able to live together just three months out of their two years of married life.

— o —

England's top model agent, Lucy Clayton, did not make her jaunt to Hollywood in vain. As printed here, the Lady Conover-Powers of London, had a plan up her sleeve to trade-exchange six of Britain's top models for six of ours and she sailed for home today with a contract just signed with Sam Goldwyn. Deal is for Mr. G to send six Goldwyn girls to London in October to model American clothes and assorted brands of beauty while the English belles tour America ditto. Oh, yes,—the Goldwn queens will also take a bow with the London premiere of "The Kid From Brooklyn". How could I forget that?

— o —

Ted Saucier, back at his New York haunt, the Waldorf, says that MGM's next picture with a Waldorf-Astoria hotel setting, is not intended as a sequel. Joe Pasternak will produce—but not before another year. Saucier, genial public relations chief for the hostelry, is now writing the original story to fit an all-star musical cast, maybe headed by Judy Garland.

— o —

Bennie Foy's anti-reckless driving picture, "And Sudden Death", provides an opportunity for a newtimer and an oldtimer. Noreen Nash, who was just getting started on her career when she married Dr. Lee Siegel and retired to have a baby, comes back as the heorine. And Crane Wilbur, silent-day movie idol, missing for many moons, will direct. In fact, the idea for the dangers-of-speeding story is Crane's and he sold it to Eagle-Lion under the title of "The Devil Drives".

— o —

Hollywood in shorts: Linda Darnell isn't dating since her separation from Pev Marley—it might upset her real heart . . . There's a funny tag on "Two Guys From Milwaukee". All through the picture, Dennis Morgan talks about wanting to meet Lauren Bacall who shows up in the final scene—but with Bogey . . . Producer Jack Cummings of MGM has been seeing Cyd Charisse, but he's not blind to Betty Kern . . . Lana Turner has a date at the beauty parlor to darken her platinum blonde hair this week—not to a brunette, but a darker blonde . . . "The Life of Glenn Miller", to be filmed by United Artists, will be based on the premise that Miller is not dead, only missing. Tex Beneke will lead the Miller Band in the picture . . . Ned Sparks, the famous dead-pan comedian, bay be headed back to the screen in "Magic Town" for Bob Riskin . . . Marie McDonald, "The Body", dating Tommy Breen, the son—Joe Breen's son, that is . . . Chuck Rinker, producer of "Glamor Manor" on the air, isn't finding much glamor in marriage. His wife is ending their seven-year welding this week . . . Connie Moore and Johnny Maschio hosting the Reggie Gardiners and Norma Sharer and Marty Arrouge at the Kings. That's all today.

Selected Steels, Motors, Rubbers And Rails Lead Market Advance

NEW YORK, July 30 (AP) — Good earnings, dividends and hopes for further technical recovery put the stock market averages in the plus ranks today for the fifth straight session although lightness of demand served to dim bullish enthusiasm considerably.

Selected steels, motors, rubbers, rails and specials led the forward move. Transfer of 810,000 shares compared with 720,000 the day before.

Many customers held aloof because they believed the hesitant action of the list on the revival might mean difficulties ahead. Others trimmed accounts to await solution of price controls and other problems.

Pleasing profits compliations lifted Western Auto Supply 4½ points to $80.50; Youngstown Sheet 1 to $78.75, Consolidated Edison ¾ to $33.25, Spiegel ¾ to $24, U. S. Rubber 1½ to $72.75 and Republic Steel ¼ to $36.

Norfolk and Western, on meager transactions, was up 7 points at $262 and Santa Fe 1½ at $112.50. Pennsylvania ran into selling and closed off 1¼ at $38.62. Great Northern off ½ at $55.75.

Bonds were steady.

Gleaner Harvester, in the Curb, tacked on 1⅝ following an extra quarterly payment. In the advancing bracket were Aluminum of America, Sterling Incorporated and Universal Products. The aggregate here was 220,000 shares, the same as yesterday.

A new sinking spell in long-term United States Government obligations contrasted with a rally in rail issues in bond trading today.

Advances of fractions to around a point among the carriers lifted the group from the year's bottom level hit Monday.

In the over-the-counter government market distant maturities declined an outside of 6-32 of a point. The Victory Loan December 2½s lost 5-32 at 102 18-32 bid, or a yield basis of about 2.35 percent

In the Stock Exchange the June 2½s sold at 102 20-32, a drop of 1 15-32 from the previous sale on June 3.

Corporates boosted up in price included Baltimore and Ohio stamped "D"s at 82¼, Alton 3s at 53¼, Rock Island 45 at 86¾, Denver and Rio Grande Western 5s at 9⅞ and Asserted 5s at 9¾, Missouri Pacific "F" 5s at 93½, New York Central "A" 4½s at 92, and Frisco "A" 4s at 50¼.

Uruguayan obligations picked up fractionally in the foreign list.

Selected Steels, Motors, Rubbers And Rails Lead Market Advance

NEW YORK, July 30 (AP) — Good earnings, dividends and hopes for further technical recovery put the stock market averages in the plus ranks today for the fifth straight session although lightness of demand served to dim bullish enthusiasm considerably.

Selected steels, motors, rubbers, rails and specials led the forward move. Transfer of 810,000 shares compared with 720,000 the day before.

Many customers held aloof because they believed the hesitant action of the list on the revival might mean difficulties ahead. Others trimmed accounts to await solution of price controls and other problems.

Pleasing profits compliations lifted Western Auto Supply 4½ points to $80.50; Youngstown Sheet 1 to $78.75, Consolidated Edison ¾ to $33.25, Spiegel ¾ to $24, U. S. Rubber 1½ to $72.75 and Republic Steel ¼ to $36.

Norfolk and Western, on meager transactions, was up 7 points at $262 and Santa Fe 1⅛ at $112.50. Pennsylvania ran into selling and closed off 1¼ at $38.62. Great Northern off ½ at $55.75.

Bonds were steady.

Gleaner Harvester, in the Curb, tacked on 1¾ following an extra quarterly payment. In the advancing bracket were Aluminum of America, Sterling Incorporated and Universal Products. The aggregate here was 220,000 shares, the same as yesterday.

A new sinking spell in long-term United States Government obligations contrasted with a rally in rail issues in bond trading today.

Advances of fractions to around a point among the carriers lifted the group from the year's bottom level hit Monday.

In the over-the-counter government market distant maturities declined an outside of 6-32 of a point. The Victory Loan December 2½s lost 5-32 at 102 18-32 bid, or a yield basis of about 2.35 percent

In the Stock Exchange the June 2½s sold at 102 20-32, a drop of 1 15-32 from the previous sale on June 3.

Corporates boosted up in price included Baltimore and Ohio stamped "D"s at 82¼, Alton 3s at 53¼, Rock Island 45 at 86¾, Denver and Rio Grande Western 5s at 9⅞ and Asserted 5s at 9¾, Missouri Pacific "F" 5s at 93½, New York Central "A" 4½s at 92, and Frisco "A" 4s at 50¼.

Uruguayan obligations picked up fractionally in the foreign list.

Brooklyn's Attendance Mark Passes Million; Durocher's Men Boost Lead To 3½ Games.

BROOKLYN, July 30 (AP)—Brooklyn stretched its National League lead to 3½ games over the challenging St. Louis Cardinals tonight as Rube Melton spun a four-hit 2-1 victory over the Redbirds for his first victory of the season. The crowd of 31,446 boosted the Ebbets Field paid attendance to 1,022,400 the sixth time it had passed the million mark.

Melton, an ex-GI who had started only one grevious game and never worked longer than six innings all season, outpitched the brilliant Howie Pollet, National League leader, snapping the Card southpaw's five-game win streak and handing him his fifth setback to 12 triumphs.

Reese led the Brooks' counter-attack in the home half of the seventh to the delight of the nerve-frayed home fans. Reese drove a triple to the deep leftfield corner. After Pete Reiser fouled to Kurowski, Dixie Walker squared matters with a smash through Kurowski that went for a score-tying single. Dixie was wild-pitched to second and scurried home with the winning tally on Carl Furillo's ground rules double that bounced into the left field seats.

The Cards weren't through yet and came back for another threat in the ninth, when Howie Schultz booted Musial's grounder to start the inning. Slaughter skied to Furillo, but when Melton passed Kurowski, Behrman was waved in. Harry Walker bounced one through the box over second that Stanky grabbed going away and tossed to Reese to get Kurowski for the most important out of the game. Garagiola rolled to Stanky to end it. GIANTS EDGE CUBS

NEW YORK, July 30 (AP) — The New York Giants scored one of their rare victories over the Chicago Cubs today 3-2 when little Goodie Rosen rapped a pinch single to right with the bases loaded and two out in the ninth inning.

Russ Bauers, third Chicago hurler of the day, was rapped for the winning blow, although Bill Chipman, who charted the ninth in place of starter Paul Erickson, was tagged with the defeat. Chipman set up the winning run when Johnny Mize clouted a double. Bauers came in with men on first and second and one out. A ground out advanced both runners and an intentional pass set the stage for Rosen's winning hit. Box:

Del Ennis also chipped in with a home run, starting the home forces on a three-run scoring spree in the second.

Ray Mueller sparked the Reds to a tying rally with a two-run triple in the fourth but the Phils went ahead in the sixth with two runs and put the game on ice when Seminick connected for the circuit with Charley Gilbert and Frank McCormick aboard.

Tonight's win for Rowe was his fourth in succession. Score:

INDIANAPOLIS OWNER MAY PURCHASE BUCS

PITTSBURGH, July 30 (AP) — President William E. Benswanger of the Pittsburgh Pirates baseball club declared today a deal to sell the property to Frank E. McKinney, owner of the American Association's Indianapolis club, was still hanging fire.

"It could happen," Benswanger said, "but it very definitely has not happened yet."

McKinney announced in New York he has first option on buying the National League club and said there was a "fifty-fifty" possibility he would complete the deal.

Kentucky Yearling Auction Surpasses One Million Mark

$32,000 Paid For Daughter Of Stimulus; 51 Sold On Second Day

LEXINGTON, Ky., July 30 (AP) — The scramble for thoroughbreds continued for the second record-shattering day at the Keeneland yearling sales today, falling off only slightly below yesterday's opening-day average of $10,626 for each of 195 colts and fillies.

Leslie Combs II, Lexington, paid $32,000 for a bay daughter of Stimulus, a sire of horses which have won more than $2,000,000; Maine Chance Stable paid $30,000 for a chestnut son of Heliopolis, sire of Alexis, Marine Victory and Athene, and Joseph R. Steinman, whose address was unlisted in Keeneland account books, planked down $21,500 for a gray son of Mahmoud, imported papa of Jeep, Alabama, Mush Mush and other American and foreign stakes winners.

And so it went. The afternoon vendue saw 51 head of yearlings sell for $460,000, an average of $9,021 for each colt and filly.

Breeders still rubbed their eyes in amazement today over the size of yesterday's cash turnover, which reached $1,115,800 and stirred talk of a possible $5,000,000 market for the four-day auction.

The average was almost $4,000 per yearling more than last year's opening-day sale.

A study of records disclosed that the $54,000 paid for each of two fillies last night was the fifth-highest price ever paid for a yearling in the United States. They were topped only by the $75,000 paid by Eastland Farms syndicate for New Broom in 1928; $70,000 paid by W. R. Coe for Hustle on in 1927; $66,000 paid by William Helis for Pericles at Keeneland in 1943, and $65,000 paid by W. T. Waggoner for Broadway Limited in 1928.

Claimants of the $54,000 beauties were Mrs. Elizabeth Graham, for a gray daughter of War Admiral, and J. P. Smith, for a gray daughter of Blenheim II.

Mrs. Elizabeth Dixon Wins Flag Tournament

Mrs. Elizabeth Dixon won the flag tournament for women golfers yesterday at the Cumberland Country Club with 101 strokes in 19 holes.

Mrs. Dixon won over Mesdames A. P. Dixon, Somerville Nicholson and Wilbur Buchanan when her first stroke on the 19th hole went into the cup.

Hawaii Seeks Fight

WASHINGTON, July 30 (AP)—The next flyweight boxing bout for the world's championship may be held in Hawaii.

Col. Harvey L. Miller, executive secretary of the National Boxing Association, said today that Leo Leavitt, Honolulu boxing promoter, is in this country, and has cabled an offer to Jackie Patterson, world's flyweight champion in Edinburgh, Scotland.

Leavitt has offered Patterson $14,000 plus travel expenses to meet Dado Marino, Hawaiian-born Filipino, in a bout in Honolulu.

Eddie Miller, Reds' Star, Heads For New N.L. Mark

By WALTER L. JOHNS
Central Press Sports Editor

CLEVELAND, O., July 30—When baseball men talk about the star shortstops of the major leagues they pick out Marty Marion of the Cards in the National and Lou Boudreau in the American and let it go at that.

There is another great shortstop, however, who rates equally as high as the other two, although his headlines haven't been as frequent or as glaring. He is Edward Robert (Eddie) Miller, the 29-year-old star of the Cincinnati Reds.

Without much fanfare the five-foot 10-inch infielder of the Reds continues to turn in a spectacular performance every day and is on his way to setting a new National league record this year.

Miller tied the loop mark last season for leading the league in fielding percentage for the most seasons. Five times he has been the leading fielder at his position, despite the presence of Mr. Marion, the high-priced Cardinal star.

Make 115 Double Plays

In addition to his fielding brilliance as an individual Miller and his second-base partner seek the double-play record of 198 set by the Boston Red Sox in 1945. The Reds' duo has turned in 115 two-ply killings in 85 games.

Miller was the leading short fielder in the league in 1940-41-42-43 and repeated last year. He lost the "crown" in 1944 by a whisker, turning in a .971 percentage to the .972 recorded by Marion. In 1944, however, Miller played in 11 more games than did the Cardinal star.

Last year the Reds' star finished with a percentage of .975, making only 16 errors in 643 chances. Marion had .967, being charged with 21 errors on 630 chances.

Miller holds other records which may have escaped the average baseball fan's notice.

He led the league in putouts in 1940 and 1943. He led in double-plays three times. He set an all-time mark for Boston shortstops when he was with the Braves, finishing the 1940 season with a fielding average of .970 for 151 games.

He's been in five All-Star games and boasts of a perfect fielding average in those games.

Last year he tied the major league record of five for shortstops participating in the most double plays in one game.

Began In M. A. League

Miller is a native of Pittsburgh and has been playing baseball for pay for 12 years. He began his career with Springfield in the Middle Atlantic league and his fielding average of .954 that year was good enough to top all the shortstops.

He moved up to the Cincinnati Reds via Toronto, Wilmington and Syracuse.

The Reds sent him back to the farm in 1937, Miller playing the 1938 season with Kansas City. In mid-season he was traded to the Boston Braves for a flock of players and cash.

Miller was the regular Braves' shortstop for four years, finally going back to Cincinnati in December of 1942 for two players and $25,000 in cash.

Miller is woefully weak at bat but his excellent fielding has made him a star.

Midget Loop Head Disallows Protest

DeMolay Player Is Ruled Eligible; Game Today Set For Penn Field

President Harold E. Naughton, of the Midget Baseball League, yesterday disallowed a protest of the Mapleside Club relative to the eligibility of a member of the DeMolay nine.

The Mapleside team protested that the player in question was over-age because he marked his eighteenth birthday prior to January 1 of this year. Naughton checked the boy's age and overruled the protest. The player has appeared in all contests this year but the protest was not filed until after DeMolay defeated Mapleside on Monday by the score of 5-0.

Today's league game between Jerry's Confectionery, first half champions, and Mower's Bakery has been transfered to Penn Avenue field from Stitcher field on account of a festival being held at the latter place.

Cecil Warnick notched his fifth pitching triumph in as many starts yesterday as Texcel, battling for a spot in the championship playoffs, defeated the Woodmen of the World in a Rocking Chair Softball League game at Taylor field by the score of 6-4.

Texcel, now tied with the Outdoor Club for third place, lengthened its margin over the Loyal Order of Moose to one and a half games.

Warnick started his team on the road to victory in the first inning when he belted a homer with one aboard. He also rapped out a two-bagger. "Buck" Frantz and "Red" Harvey also had two hits for the winners. Miller and Often each connected with two safeties for the Woodmen while Proudfoot tripled and Reitmier had a two-bagger to his credit.

Outdoor Club Jolts Moose

Outdoor Club kept pace with Texcel in the league standings by jolting the Loyal Order of Moose, 6-0, at Fort Hill field behind the seven-hit pitching of Weltman.

Miller, Hahn and Weltman were the big stickers for Outdoor with two blows each. None of the Moose players obtained more than one safety. V. Johnson and Hahn, of the winners, connected for three-baggers.

Jim Wilkinson turned in his twelfth victory of the season against four setbacks and fanned five as the B. P. O. Elks extended their winning streak to eight games by subduing Fort Cumberland Post by the score of 9-0 at East Side field. The Legion defeated the league-leading Caseys on Monday by the score of 4-2.

Elks Crowd Caseys

The victory enabled the Elks to remain a half game in the rear of the front running Knights of Columbus. Van Roby with a double and two singles and Dick Bruce and Cletus Hartsock with two one-base knocks each headed the Caseys 12-hit attack on Chisholm and Becker. Chisholm was given ragged support by his mates and retired in the fifth in favor of Gil Becker. Edgar "Ike" Cessna accounted for three of the Legion's seven hits with a double and two singles.

K. of C. Gets 17 Hits

The Knights of Columbus unloosed a 17-hit barrage to sink Potomac Edison at Campobello by the score of 16-5. Joe Neubiser scattered seven hits in registering his ninth triumph against a single loss.

Sammy De Luca and Neubiser each banged a single and triple, Bobby Cavanaugh larruped a double and single and Jim Browning and Ray Madden also hit safely twice for the Knights. Wolfe smashed a homer for P. E. while Harrison nicked Neubiser for a double and single. The scores:

Lawyers, Grid Coaches Go Into Huddle In Court

Neale And Owen Testify At Bertelli Hearing; Boston Offered Star $10,000 And Bonus

BOSTON, July 30 (AP)—Lawyers and two football coaches went into a huddle today to try to answer a judge's question on how professional football teams pick their players.

The question by Judge Felix Forte came during a Superior Court hearing on the petition of the Los Angeles Dons of the All-America Conference seeking to restrain Angelo Bertelli, former Notre Dame passing flash, from playing with any other team.

Asserting that pro teams "must have standards of selection," the judge said, "the court would like to have a standard to go by."

He granted a recess to Bertelli's counsel, Atty. T. F. Moriarty, and when court resumed, the play went to New York Giants Coach Stephen J. Owen, called as first defense witness.

The judge asked the coach:

"In seeking players, what standard do you use?"

Owen answered:

"We try to get the best ones we can."

Earl E. Neale, coach of the National League Philadelphia Eagles, tackled the judge's question later and added:

"We don't know whether a first choice will make a first-rate player."

Both Owen and Neale testified that in 1943 they "would have picked" Bertelli, whose streak passing earned him the name, "The Springfield Rifle." Bertelli is a native of Springfield, Mass., where the Springfield and Garand rifles were made.

Bertelli, a marine lieutenant in the war, testified that he signed with the Los Angeles club for $10,000 and a $1,000 bonus but afterward returned the bonus and signed with the Boston Yanks of the National League for $10,000 and $2,000 bonus.

He said today he didn't want to sign the Dons' contracts but was told by their representative that he was "bound" to sign it.

Owen told the court:

"A lot of football players, as well as baseball players, had lost their niftiness after coming back from the war."

Attorney Daniel J. Lyne, counsel for the group which owns the Dons, asked Owen:

"Did you ever hear of Ted Williams?"

Owen answered, "I think so."

Lyne continued:

"Williams was a marine. Has Williams lost his niftiness?"

Owen said:

"No, sir."

JACOBS MAY STAGE LOUIS-MAURIELLO FIGHT IN DETROIT

NEW YORK, July 30 (AP)—Promoter Mike Jacobs disclosed tonight that he was considering the possibility of shifting the heavyweight championship fight between Joe Louis and Tami Mauriello from New York's Yankee stadium to Detroit, the champion's home town.

Jacobs said he had conferred with Michigan Boxing Commission John Heitche by telephone today and that the latter asked him if it would be possible to take the fight to Detroit, whose fans want to see Louis in action again.

The promoter said he told Heitche he would see what could be done and that if he could make suitable arrangements he might stage the bout in the Motor City instead of the Yankee ball park, where it is now scheduled for Sept. 18.

Dodgers Edge Cards, 2-1, Melton Tosses 4-Hitter

Brooklyn's Attendance Mark Passes Million; Durocher's Men Boost Lead To 3½ Games.

BROOKLYN, July 30 (AP)—Brooklyn stretched its National League lead to 3½ games over the challenging St. Louis Cardinals tonight as Rube Melton spun a four-hit 2-1 victory over the Redbirds for his first victory of the season. The crowd of 31,446 boosted the Ebbets Field paid attendance to 1,022,400 the sixth time it had passed the million mark.

Melton, an ex-GI who had started only one previous game and never worked longer than six innings all season, outpitched the brilliant Howie Pollet, National League leader, snapping the Card southpaw's five-game win streak and handing him his fifth setback to 12 triumphs.

Reese led the Brooks' counter-attack in the home half of the seventh to the delight of the nerve-frayed home fans. Reese drove a triple to the deep leftfield corner. After Pete Reiser fouled to Kurowski, Dixie Walker squared matters with a smash through Kurowski that went for a score-tying single. Dixie was wild-pitched to second and scurried home with the winning tally on Carl Furillo's ground rules double that bounced into the left field seats.

The Cards weren't through yet and came back for another threat in the ninth, when Howie Schultz booted Musial's grounder to start the inning. Slaughter skied to Furillo, but when Melton passed Kurowski, Behrman was waved in. Harry Walker bounced one through the box over second that Stanky grabbed going away and tossed to Reese to get Kurowski for the most important out of the game. Garagiola rolled to Stanky to end it. GIANTS EDGE CUBS

NEW YORK, July 30 (AP) — The New York Giants scored one of their rare victories over the Chicago Cubs today 3-2 when little Goodie Rosen rapped a pinch single to right with the bases loaded and two out in the ninth inning.

Russ Bauers, third Chicago hurler of the day, was rapped for the winning blow, although Bill Chipman, who charted the ninth in place of starter Paul Erickson, was tagged with the defeat. Chipman set up the winning run when Johnny Mize clouted a double. Bauers came in with men on first and second and one out. A ground out advanced both runners and an intentional pass set the stage for Rosen's winning hit. Box:

Del Ennis also chipped in with a home run, starting the home forces on a three-run scoring spree in the second.

LEXINGTON, Ky., July 30 (AP) — The scramble for thoroughbreds continued for the second record-shattering day at the Keeneland yearling sales today, falling off only slightly below yesterday's opening-day average of $10,626 for each of 106 colts and fillies.

Leslie Combs II, Lexington, paid $32,000 for a bay daughter of Stimulus, a sire of horses which have won more than $2,000,000; Maine Chance Stable paid $30,000 for a chestnut son of Heliopolis, sire of Alexis, Marine Victory and Athene, and Joseph R. Steinman, whose address was unlisted in Keeneland account books, planked down $21,500 for a gray son of Mahmoud, imported papa of Jeep, Alabama, Mush Mush and other American and foreign stakes winners.

And so it went. The afternoon vendue saw 51 head of yearlings sell for $460,000, an average of $9,021 for each colt and filly.

Breeders still rubbed their eyes in amazement today over the size of yesterday's cash turnover, which reached $1,115,800 and stirred talk of a possible $5,000,000 market for the four-day auction.

The average was almost $4,000 per yearling more than last year's opening-day sale.

A study of records disclosed that the $54,000 paid for each of two fillies last night was the fifth-highest price ever paid for a yearling in the United States. They were topped only by the $75,000 paid by Eastland Farms syndicate for New Broom in 1928; $70,000 paid by W. R. Coe for Hustle on in 1927; $66,000 paid by William Helis for Pericles at Keeneland in 1943, and $65,000 paid by W. T. Waggoner for Broadway Limited in 1928.

Claimants of the $54,000 beauties were Mrs. Elizabeth Graham, for a gray daughter of War Admiral, and J. P. Smith, for a gray daughter of Blenheim II.

Eddie Miller, Reds' Star, Heads For New N.L. Mark

By WALTER L. JOHNS
Central Press Sports Editor

CLEVELAND, O., July 30—When baseball men talk about the star shortstops of the major leagues they pick out Marty Marion of the Cards in the National and Lou Boudreau in the American and let it go at that.

There is another great shortstop, however, who rates equally as high as the other two, although his headlines haven't been as frequent or as glaring. He is Edward Robert (Eddie) Miller, the 29-year-old star of the Cincinnati Reds.

Without much fanfare the five-foot 10-inch infielder of the Reds continues to turn in a spectacular performance every day and is on his way to setting a new National league record this year.

Miller tied the loop mark last season for leading the league in fielding percentage for the most seasons. Five times he has been the leading fielder at his position, despite the presence of Mr. Marion, the high-priced Cardinal star.

Make 115 Double Plays

In addition to his fielding brilliance as an individual Miller and his second-base partner seek the double-play record of 198 set by the Boston Red Sox in 1945. The Reds' duo has turned in 115 two-ply killings in 85 games.

Miller was the leading short fielder in the league in 1940-41-42-43 and repeated last year. He lost the "crown" in 1944 by a whisker, turning in a .971 percentage to the .972 recorded by Marion. In 1944, however, Miller played in 11 more games than did the Cardinal star.

Last year the Reds' star finished with a percentage of .975, making only 16 errors in 643 chances. Marion had .967, being charged with 21 errors on 630 chances.

Miller holds other records which may have escaped the average baseball fan's notice.

He led the league in putouts in 1940 and 1943. He led in double-plays three times. He set an all-time mark for Boston shortstops when he was with the Braves, finishing the 1940 season with a fielding average of .970 for 151 games.

He's been in five All-Star games and boasts of a perfect fielding average in those games.

Last year he tied the major league record of five for shortstops participating in the most double plays in one game.

Began In M. A. League

Miller is a native of Pittsburgh and has been playing baseball for pay for 12 years. He began his career with Springfield in the Middle Atlantic league and his fielding average of .954 that year was good enough to top all the shortstops.

He moved up to the Cincinnati Reds via Toronto, Wilmington and Syracuse.

The Reds sent him back to the farm in 1937, Miller playing the 1938 season with Kansas City. In mid-season he was traded to the Boston Braves for a flock of players and cash.

Miller was the regular Braves' shortstop for four years, finally going back to Cincinnati in December of 1942 for two players and $25,000 in cash.

Miller is woefully weak at bat but his excellent fielding has made him a star.

Astaire Is Second In Money Winnings

INGLEWOOD, Calif., July 30—(AP)—Triplicate's victory in the $100,000 Hollywood Gold Cup Saturday bounced Fred Astaire into second place in the owners' money-winning standings at Hollywood Park. Astaire's $95,350, however, was still way behind head man L. B. Mayer's $232,885.

Jackie Westrope maintained his jockey lead with 55 wins, 48 places and 33 shows out of 291 mounts. Ralph Neves, with 48 firsts, and Johnny Longden, with 39, were runners-up.

Parlow Is Ineligible

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., July 30 (AP) — Milton Parlow, University of Virginia's 220-pound football and boxing captain-elect, has been ruled ineligible for sports at the institution.

Since the big tackle left Virginia in the middle of the 1942 season to enter service and returned in time to play a few games last year, it was ruled he had completed his varsity career and would be ineligible in all conferences with which the unaffiliated Virginia teams compete this season.

Midget Loop Head Disallows Protest

DeMolay Player Is Ruled Eligible; Game Today Set For Penn Field

President Harold E. Naughton, of the Midget Baseball League, yesterday disallowed a protest of the Mapleside Club relative to the eligibility of a member of the DeMolay nine.

The Mapleside team protested that the player in question was over-age because he marked his eighteenth birthday prior to January 1 of this year. Naughton checked the boy's age and overruled the protest. The player has appeared in all contests this year but the protest was not filed until after DeMolay defeated Mapleside on Monday by the score of 5-0.

Today's league game between Jerry's Confectionery, first half champions, and Mower's Bakery has been transfered to Penn Avenue field from Stitcher field on account of a festival being held at the latter place.

Cecil Warnick notched his fifth pitching triumph in as many starts yesterday as Texcel, battling for a spot in the championship playoffs, defeated the Woodmen of the World in a Rocking Chair Softball League game at Taylor field by the score of 6-4.

Texcel, now tied with the Outdoor Club for third place, lengthened its margin over the Loyal Order of Moose to one and a half games. Warnick started his team on the road to victory in the first inning when he belted a homer with one aboard. He also rapped out a two-bagger. "Buck" Frantz and "Red" Harvey also had two hits for the winners, Miller and Often each connected with two safeties for the Woodmen while Proudfoot tripled and Reitmier had a two-bagger to his credit.

Outdoor Club Jolts Moose

Outdoor Club kept pace with Texcel in the league standings by jolting the Loyal Order of Moose, 6-0, at Fort Hill field behind the seven-hit pitching of Weltman.

Miller, Hahn and Weltman were the big stickers for Outdoor with two blows each. None of the Moose players obtained more than one safety. V. Johnson and Hahn, of the winners, connected for three-baggers.

Jim Wilkinson turned in his twelfth victory of the season against four setbacks and fanned five as the B. P. O. Elks extended their winning streak to eight games by subduing Fort Cumberland Post by the score of 9-0 at East Side field. The Legion defeated the league-leading Caseys on Monday by the score of 4-2.

Elks Crowd Caseys

The victory enabled the Elks to remain a half game in the rear of the front running Knights of Columbus. Van Roby with a double and two singles and Dick Bruce and Cletus Hartsock with two one-base knocks each headed the Caseys 12-hit attack on Chisholm and Becker. Chisholm was given ragged support by his mates and retired in the fifth in favor of Gil Becker. Edgar "Ike" Cessna accounted for three of the Legion's seven hits with a double and two singles.

K. of C. Gets 17 Hits

The Knights of Columbus unloosed a 17-hit barrage to sink Potomac Edison at Campobello by the score of 16-5. Joe Neubiser scattered seven hits in registering his ninth triumph against a single loss.

Sammy De Luca and Neubiser each banged a single and triple, Bobby Cavanaugh larruped a double and single and Jim Browning and Ray Madden also hit safely twice for the Knights. Wolfe smashed a homer for P. E. while Harrison nicked Neubiser for a double and single. The scores:

Lawyers, Grid Coaches Go Into Huddle In Court

Neale And Owen Testify At Bertelli Hearing; Boston Offered Star $10,000 And Bonus

BOSTON, July 30 (AP)—Lawyers and two football coaches went into a huddle today to try to answer a judge's question on how professional football teams pick their players.

The question by Judge Felix Forte came during a Superior Court hearing on the petition of the Los Angeles Dons of the All-America Conference seeking to restrain Angelo Bertelli, former Notre Dame passing flash, from playing with any other team.

Asserting that pro teams "must have standards of selection," the judge said, "the court would like to have a standard to go by."

He granted a recess to Bertelli's counsel, Atty. T. F. Moriarty, and when court resumed, the play went to New York Giants Coach Stephen J. Owen, called as first defense witness.

The judge asked the coach:

"In seeking players, what standard do you use?"

Owen answered:

"We try to get the best ones we can."

Earl E. Neale, coach of the National League Philadelphia Eagles, tackled the judge's question later and added:

"We don't know whether a first choice will make a first-rate player."

Both Owen and Neale testified that in 1943 they "would have picked" Bertelli, whose streak passing earned him the name, "The Springfield Rifle." Bertelli is a native of Springfield, Mass., where the Springfield and Garand rifles were made.

Bertelli, a marine lieutenant in the war, testified that he signed with the Los Angeles club for $10,000 and a $1,000 bonus but afterward returned the bonus and signed with the Boston Yanks of the National League for $10,000 and $2,000 bonus.

He said today he didn't waht to sign the Dons' contracts but was told by their representative that he was "bound" to sign it.

Owen told the court:

"A lot of football players, as well as baseball players, had lost their niftiness after coming back from the war."

Attorney Daniel J. Lyne, counsel for the group which owns the Dons, asked Owen:

"Did you ever hear of Ted Williams?"

Owen answered, "I think so."

Lyne continued:

"Williams was a marine. Has Williams lost his niftiness?"

Owen said:

"No, sir."

JACOBS MAY STAGE LOUIS-MAURIELLO FIGHT IN DETROIT

NEW YORK, July 30 (AP)—Promoter Mike Jacobs disclosed tonight that he was considering the possibility of shifting the heavyweight championship fight between Joe Louis and Tami Mauriello from New York's Yankee stadium to Detroit, the champion's home town.

Jacobs said he had conferred with Michigan Boxing Commission John Heitche by telephone today and that the latter asked him if it would be possible to take the fight to Detroit, whose fans want to see Louis in action again.

The promoter said he told Heitche he would see what could be done and that if he could make suitable arrangements he might stage the bout in the Motor City instead of the Yankee ball park, where it is now scheduled for Sept. 18.

Bengals Climb Within Game Of Runners-Up; Robinson, Keller and Henrich Hit Homers

DETROIT, July 30 (AP) — The Detroit Tigers climbed within a single game of second place in the American League by squeezing out a 6-to-5, drama-packed victory over the New York Yankees today as Virgil (Fire) Trucks utilized the semi-darkness of twilight to strike out 13 Yankee batsmen.

Yankee homers by Tommy Henrich, Charley Keller and Aaron Robinson produced four runs for the Bronx Bombers off Trucks' fast one but Skeeter Webb's double and Trucks' single brought the Tigers another run in the fourth and Dick Wakefield's triple and Roy Cullenbine's fly to deep center made it 6-4 in the Detroit eighth.

Robinson and Souchock singled to open the Yankee ninth and Joe Gordon walked to fill the bases with nobody out but Manager Bill Dickey rapped into a double play, one run scoring, and Pinch-Hitter Bill Johnson grounded out to end the game with the tying run on third. Box:

College Cagers Signed

NEW YORK, July 30 (AP) — Ossie Schechtman, who starred under Coach Clair Bee at Long Island U., and Hy Gotkin, spark plug of the strong St. John's teams of 1943-44 and 1944-45, have signed with the New York Knickerbockers of the Basketball Association of America, it was announced today.

Vines Figures $675 Cheap Protection For His Dignity

Golfer Refused To Wear Number; Bottle Thrower Is Cowardly Person

By WHITNEY MARTIN

Whitney Martin

May ruled that any player declining to wear an identifying number would receive a 15 percent cut in any money he might win. Vines figured the $675 was cheap protection for his dignity.

There are two sides to the question of identifying numbers for golfers. It does seem that it would be a slight bruise on the prestige of golf as a gentleman's game to have the contestants labeled like race horses.

However, golf today is more or less big business, having outgrown its short-pants days of small, select galleries. Thousands of people who won't know too much about the sport or wouldn't know Gene Sarazen from Trader Horn are attracted to the big tournaments. It would seem they should be entitled to know whom they are watching. Just as baseball and football and basketball fans can tell who's who by the numbers adorning the athletes.

Owes Livelihood To Fan

There would seem to be a little smugness and conceit attached to the refusal of a contestant to be identified by number. It might indicate the player might take it for granted he would be recognized, although in reality he is making it a guessing contest.

After all, a professional golfer—a tournament pro, that is—owes his livelihood to the golf fan. Without Gus fan to foot the bill indirectly through the purses hung up by tournament sponsors, there would be no tournaments. It would seem that everything possible should be done to make it easier for the spectators to identify the players, instead of making them rush around saying: "Who dat?"

Can't Hold Liquor Bottles

There seems to be an epidemic of bottle pitching among the baseball crowds this year. Just what it signifies, other than the fans are full of vim, vigor and vulgarity, is hard to say, but a lot of the fans not only can't hold their liquor—they can't even hold the bottles.

Maybe some of them think a beer bottle wouldn't hurt anybody because it's only 3 or 4 percent stuff any way, which is too soft to hurt anyone, and besides, it would take more than a bottle to dent the skulls of the umpires who usually are the targets.

Seriously, we think there is nothing meaner or lower or more cowardly than a person who will throw a bottle with intent to do bodily harm at a ball game.

Should Be Criminal Offense

It should be made a criminal offense, as a bottle can be just as lethal a weapon as a gun or knife, and the thrower should be put in the class of the hit-and-run automobile driver. He's even worse than a hit-and-run driver, who runs after accidentally hitting somebody. The bottle thrower tries to melt into a crowd after intentionally trying to hit someone.

They hit the bottle, then try to make the bottle hit someone else. It's a vicious circle as far as the bottle is concerned. When they catch such morons they should make a vicious circle around them—of hungry wolves.

Trucks Fans 13 Yankees, Detroit Tigers Win 6-5

Bengals Climb Within Game Of Runners-Up; Robinson, Keller and Henrich Hit Homers

DETROIT, July 30 (AP) — The Detroit Tigers climbed within a single game of second place in the American League by squeezing out a 6-to-5, drama-packed victory over the New York Yankees today as Virgil (Fire) Trucks utilized the semi-darkness of twilight to strike out 13 Yankee batsmen.

Yankee homers by Tommy Henrich, Charley Keller and Aaron Robinson produced four runs for the Bronx Bombers off Trucks' fast one but Skeeter Webb's double and Trucks' single brought the Tigers another run in the fourth and Dick Wakefield's triple and Roy Cullenbine's fly to deep center made it 6-4 in the Detroit eighth.

Robinson and Souchock singled to open the Yankee ninth and Joe Gordon walked to fill the bases with nobody out but Manager Bill Dickey rapped into a double play, one run scoring, and Pinch-Hitter Bill Johnson grounded out to end the game with the tying run on third. Box:

Vines Figures $675 Cheap Protection For His Dignity

By WHITNEY MARTIN

Whitney Martin

May ruled that any player declining to wear an identifying number would receive a 15 percent cut in any money he might win. Vines figured the $675 was cheap protection for his dignity.

There are two sides to the question of identifying numbers for golfers. It does seem that it would be a slight bruise on the prestige of golf as a gentleman's game to have the contestants labeled like race horses.

However, golf today is more or less big business, having outgrown its short-pants days of small, select galleries. Thousands of people who won't know too much about the sport or wouldn't know Gene Sarazen from Trader Horn are attracted to the big tournaments. It would seem they should be entitled to know whom they are watching. Just as baseball and football and basketball fans can tell who's who by the numbers adorning the athletes.

Owes Livelihood To Fan

There would seem to be a little smugness and conceit attached to the refusal of a contestant to be identified by number. It might indicate the player might take it for granted he would be recognized, although in reality he is making it a guessing contest.

After all, a professional golfer—a tournament pro, that is—owes his livelihood to the golf fan. Without Gus fan to foot the bill indirectly through the purses hung up by tournament sponsors, there would be no tournaments. It would seem that everything possible should be done to make it easier for the spectators to identify the players, instead of making them rush around saying: "Who dat?"

Can't Hold Liquor Bottles

There seems to be an epidemic of bottle pitching among the baseball crowds this year. Just what it signifies, other than the fans are full of vim, vigor and vulgarity, is hard to say, but a lot of the fans not only can't hold their liquor—they can't even hold the bottles.

Maybe some of them think a beer bottle wouldn't hurt anybody because it's only 3 or 4 percent stuff any way, which is too soft to hurt anyone, and besides, it would take more than a bottle to dent the skulls of the umpires who usually are the targets.

Seriously, we think there is nothing meaner or lower or more cowardly than a person who will throw a bottle with intent to do bodily harm at a ball game.

Should Be Criminal Offense

It should be made a criminal offense, as a bottle can be just as lethal a weapon as a gun or knife, and the thrower should be put in the class of the hit-and-run automobile driver. He's even worse than a hit-and-run driver, who runs after accidentally hitting somebody. The bottle thrower tries to melt into a crowd after intentionally trying to hit someone.

They hit the bottle, then try to make the bottle hit someone else. It's a vicious circle as far as the bottle is concerned. When they catch such morons they should make a vicious circle around them—of hungry wolves.

College Cagers Signed

NEW YORK, July 30 (AP) — Ossie Schechiman, who starred under Coach Clair Bee at Long Island U., and Hy Gotkin, spark plug of the strong St. John's teams of 1943-44 and 1944-45, have signed with the New York Knickerbockers of the Basketball Association of America, it was announced today.

Art Linkletter Professor Of Quiz For Kyser

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, July 30—Art Linkletter becomes the professor of quiz for Kay Kyser on Wednesday night at 9 via NBC. He will remain in that category for the first four weeks of KK's vacation. He is more or less permitted to do so because his, Art's own program, People Are Funny, is on vacation too.

Later on the Kyser subs will be Jack Haley for two weeks, followed by Abbott and Costello for one week. That will put Kay back on September 18.

Dr. Frederick Werthan, who wrote the book, "Dark Legend," is to face the critics in the MBS Author Meets the Critics at 9:30.

Another night half-hour from Paris is to be an NBC peace conference broadcast at 7:30. Besides commentators, participants are expected to be some of the diplomats at the assembly.

For the second of the summer adventure series, Intrigue, CBS at 8:30, has dug up "Sinister Errand," all about evil forces somewhere.

F. H. LaGuardia, still overseas, is listed to do his weekly ABC broadcast at 7:15 from Paris, scene of the peace conference.

Then here's a couple more of the Wednesday night dramatic offerings: NBC at 8:30 District Attorney coming forward with what the script writer calls "The Case of Atom and Evil"; CBS at 9 with its Academy Award theater, in which is to be offered "Hold Back the Dawn." There will be a couple from the movies in the lead, namely Olivia de Havilland and Jean Pierre Aumont. This play got seven nominations for the Academy award in 1941.

Two Men Volunteer For Caribbean Service

Two men enlisted in the army Monday at the local recruiting station, according to Capt. Laurence M. Bairstow, officer in charge. Both enlisted for three years each, requesting service in the Caribbean Defense Command. One of them is a veteran.

T-5 Thomas H. Podello, 23, 11 West Harrison street, Piedmont, W. Va., who served two and a half years with the 1540 Station Compliment, Military Police and was discharged May 29, 1946, enlisted for three years in the Military Police.

Blair D. Hamilton, 18, Romney, W. Va., enlisted in the Army Air Forces. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hamilton, also of Romney.

Volume Of Mail Is Somewhat Lighter

Mail carriers' loads are lighter these days, with the war over and the volume of mail returned to a peacetime basis.

During the war, mail to and from servicemen and women reached an all-time record, comprising the largest percentage of the carrier's load.

Air mail has dropped off noticeably with so many veterans returned from overseas. However, while armed forces maid had decreased business mail is picking up some of the slack, mailmen say.

UAW Representative Held In $1,000 Bond

HAGERSTOWN, Md., July 30 (AP)—Charged with inciting to riot, Bert W. Bothe, 27, international representative of the UAW-CIO, was ordered held in $1,000 bond for action of the November grand jury at a preliminary hearing today before Magistrate Martin V. B. Bostetter.

Magistrate Bostetter denied a plea of I. Duke Avnet, Bothe's attorney, that the bond was "excessive" and that it be reduced.

Earlier in the hearing, Bostetter overruled a demurrer of Avnet's after State's Attorney Martin Ingram objected, stating the demurrer would apply only in case of a search or seizure warrant.

The hearing was the outgrowth of last Tuesday's picketing at the Pangborn Corp., at which time Bothe was arrested by Police Chief Max W. Rickard for not ordering pickets off a private plant driveway.

Judy Is Released In Tavern Fight

Charles B. Judy, 21-year-old Cresaptown ex-serviceman, was released from custody Monday night in Cresaptown after Fred Warner, tavern proprietor who summoned state police to arrest the man, failed to obtain a warrant or prefer charges.

Judy was arrested Saturday night after a brawl at Warner's place. He was treated in Allegany hospital for lacerations of the left arm and thumb suffered when he broke a glass door in a fight, police reported.

Trooper William McElfish, who investigated and appeared with the two men before Magistrate Roy S. Bowman Monday night, said "all Warner was interested in was the price of his broken window."

Five More Men Are Discharged From Service

Five men from the Cumberland district have received their discharges from the armed forces recently.

They include William T. Steppe, S-1c, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Steppe, 912 Glenwood street, who was discharged at Bainbridge, Md., after a year and half service aboard the USS Elmore and the USS LST 446 in the Pacific.

Pfc. John A. Kauffman, 643 Fairview avenue; Pfc. Norvel L. McKenzie, of Frostburg; T-4 James L. Simmons, of Petersburg, W. Va. and T-5 Howard K. Shoemaker, of Burlington, W. Va., were discharged at Fort George G. Meade.

Art Linkletter Professor Of Quiz For Kyser

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, July 30—Art Linkletter becomes the professor of quiz for Kay Kyser on Wednesday night at 9 via NBC. He will remain in that category for the first four weeks of KK's vacation. He is more or less permitted to do so because his, Art's own program, People Are Funny, is on vacation too.

Later on the Kyser subs will be Jack Haley for two weeks, followed by Abbott and Costello for one week. That will put Kay back on September 18.

Dr. Frederick Werthan, who wrote the book, "Dark Legend," is to face the critics in the MBS Author Meets the Critics at 9:30.

Another night half-hour from Paris is to be an NBC peace conference broadcast at 7:30. Besides commentators, participants are expected to be some of the diplomats at the assembly.

For the second of the summer adventure series, Intrigue, CBS at 8:30, has dug up "Sinister Errand," all about evil forces somewhere.

F. H. LaGuardia, still overseas, is listed to do his weekly ABC broadcast at 7:15 from Paris, scene of the peace conference.

Then here's a couple more of the Wednesday night dramatic offerings: NBC at 8:30 District Attorney coming forward with what the script writer calls "The Case of Atom and Evil"; CBS at 9 with its Academy Award theater, in which is to be offered "Hold Back the Dawn." There will be a couple from the movies in the lead, namely Olivia de Havilland and Jean Pierre Aumont. This play got seven nominations for the Academy award in 1941.

Two Men Volunteer For Caribbean Service

Two men enlisted in the army Monday at the local recruiting station, according to Capt. Laurence M. Bairstow, officer in charge. Both enlisted for three years each, requesting service in the Caribbean Defense Command. One of them is a veteran.

T-5 Thomas H. Podello, 23, 11 West Harrison street, Piedmont, W. Va., who served two and a half years with the 1540 Station Compliment, Military Police and was discharged May 29, 1946, enlisted for three years in the Military Police.

Blair D. Hamilton, 18, Romney, W. Va., enlisted in the Army Air Forces. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hamilton, also of Romney.

Volume Of Mail Is Somewhat Lighter

Mail carriers' loads are lighter these days, with the war over and the volume of mail returned to a peacetime basis.

During the war, mail to and from servicemen and women reached an all-time record, comprising the largest percentage of the carrier's load.

Air mail has dropped off noticeably with so many veterans returned from overseas. However, while armed forces maid had decreased business mail is picking up some of the slack, mailmen say.

UAW Representative Held In $1,000 Bond

HAGERSTOWN, Md., July 30 (AP)—Charged with inciting to riot, Bert W. Bothe, 27, international representative of the UAW-CIO, was ordered held in $1,000 bond for action of the November grand jury at a preliminary hearing today before Magistrate Martin V. B. Bostetter.

Magistrate Bostetter denied a plea of I. Duke Avnet, Bothe's attorney, that the bond was "excessive" and that it be reduced.

Earlier in the hearing, Bostetter overruled a demurrer of Avnet's after State's Attorney Martin Ingram objected, stating the demurrer would apply only in case of a search or seizure warrant.

The hearing was the outgrowth of last Tuesday's picketing at the Pangborn Corp., at which time Bothe was arrested by Police Chief Max W. Rickard for not ordering pickets off a private plant driveway.

Judy Is Released In Tavern Fight

Charles B. Judy, 21-year-old Cresaptown ex-serviceman, was released from custody Monday night in Cresaptown after Fred Warner, tavern proprietor who summoned state police to arrest the man, failed to obtain a warrant or prefer charges.

Judy was arrested Saturday night after a brawl at Warner's place. He was treated in Allegany hospital for lacerations of the left arm and thumb suffered when he broke a glass door in a fight, police reported.

Trooper William McElfish, who investigated and appeared with the two men before Magistrate Roy S. Bowman Monday night, said "all Warner was interested in was the price of his broken window."

Five More Men Are Discharged From Service

Five men from the Cumberland district have received their discharges from the armed forces recently.

They include William T. Steppe, S-1c, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Steppe, 912 Glenwood street, who was discharged at Bainbridge, Md., after a year and half service aboard the USS Elmore and the USS LST 446 in the Pacific.

Pfc. John A. Kauffman, 643 Fairview avenue; Pfc. Norvel L. McKenzie, of Frostburg; T-4 James L. Simmons, of Petersburg, W. Va. and T-5 Howard K. Shoemaker, of Burlington, W. Va., were discharged at Fort George G. Meade.

"Walkout" Halts Kelly-Springfield Tire Production

Curing Room Workers Will Consider Company Offer Today At 2:30

The walkout of ten workers of the curing department, in protest over a change in production and number of men required to operate loop machines, precipitated a strike which completely halted production at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plant yesterday at 3 p. m.

Ralph C. Beard, president of Local 26, URCLPWA, representing some 1,800 workers of the tire plant employing about 2,500 workers, said that while the strike is not authorized, the union felt it must support the men in an issue as serious as this."

Union officials said curing room workers began to leave the plant at 9 a. m. and were followed shortly after by final finish employes. Stock preparation and bead room workers were sent home later and at 1 p. m. calendar and tube workers left the plant. Tire department employes walked out at 2 p. m. and black mill employes at 3 p. m. Union officials said nobody reported at 3 p. m. except for a few maintenance employes.

Reject Proposal

Second shift curing room workers met at the union hall yesterday at 3:30 p. m. and unanimously rejected a company proposal for the settlement of the strike.

The union's executive board, at a lengthy meeting last night, heard a report of the issues at stake, Beard said, and made plans for a meeting of all curing room employes today at 2:30 p. m. in the union hall. The union official said the meeting will give workers of the unit a chance to hear the latest company proposal for the settlement of the strike.

Beard said the entire matter will be aired at the regular meeting of the local tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock in the union hall.

The position of the Kelly company was given in a statement to the Cumberland News late yesterday afternoon. The statement said:

Kelly Statement

"An unauthorized strike clearly in violation of the contract between Local Union No. 26, URCLPWA, and the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company closed the Kelly-Springfield Tire plant today.

A crew of five men working No. 5 unit in the Curing room refused to start work at 7 o'clock this morning in protest to a change in production required and the number of men to operate the unit. By 10 a. m., all work in the Curing room had ceased, other men stopping work in sympathy.

In order to balance production facilities, it became necessary to utilize the full curing capacity of the No. 5 curing unit. To do this, the crew personnel was increased from 4 to 5 men. The men protested the change, alleging an increase in work load in spite of the fact that the production required per man remained unchanged.

The company and the union held a meeting yesterday over the matter in dispute, but apparently the men were not willing to permit negotiations to follow the lines of orderly procedure, preferring to take matters into their own hands, thus throwing approximately 2,500 people out of work.

The company cannot understand the union's members continued countenancing of unauthorized strikes, as on March 29, after a series of costly interruptions to production and employment, the company and the union agreed upon a wage increase. At that time the company and the union talked at great length about unauthorized work stoppages, and finally agreed to the insertion of the following clause in the contract:

"In making this settlement the union recognizes that a high level of wages can be maintained only by maintaining a high level of productivity. The union and its members will co-operate in attaining such a level of productivity as is consistent with the health and welfare of the employees. The union and its members will seek to assist in effectuating economies and utilization of improved methods and machinery. The union agrees that it will not condone the action of anyone who instigates, leads, or induces another employee to take part in any unauthorized strike."

Beard explained that four men have been considered a unit on loop machines in the curing room and that the workers usually produce 24 heats in a seven and one-half-hour day. In order to increase production, he explained, the company insisted that five men be assigned to each loop machine.

The men, Beard added, insist that the fifth man cannot do his share of the work which means that two of the team must increase production by at least 25 per cent each day.

Had Trial Period

He said the men went on a five-day trial period which expired last Friday. They continued on the same schedule Saturday on a straight piece work basis. On Saturday, he said, the earnings were reduced since they were unable to produce as efficiently as before.

The workers, Beard explained, gave the committee one more day to complete negotiations with the company on the operation. He added the union met Monday with company officials who insisted on continuing the new operation. The curing room workers yesterday refused to work under the conditions assigned by the Kelly company, he said.

Another union official charged the company with violating the labor act in attempting to change working hours or fate strunctures while a dispute is in progress, pointing out that the union is still negotiating several issues to be incorporated into the contract with the plant.

Investigate Robbery

Police reported no developments yesterday in the investigation of a robbery at the Richfield service station, 700 block, Baltimore avenue, Sunday night. James W. Murphy, Sr., proprietor, said $5 in cash and a number of articles including sun glasses and candy bars, were stolen.

B. and O. Worker Is Hurt In Fall At Tunnelton

Terra Alta, W. Va., Logger Is Bitten By Large Rattlesnake

Homer S. Myers, 26, 207 Fifth street, was admitted to Memorial hospital yesterday at 1:30 p. m. for treatment of back and right ankle injuries and a small laceration on the head. His condition was good last night.

The B. and O. brakeman told attaches he was injured yesterday at 9 a. m. when he fell from a box car at Tunnelton, W. Va. The workman, who said he was knocked unconscious for fifteen minutes by the fall, was sent here by B. and O. passenger train for treatment and was taken to the hospital by Stein's ambulance. X-rays were taken to determine the extent of injuries.

Archie Boyers, 31, Terra Alta, W. Va., was admitted to the same hospital yesterday at 12:45 p. m. for treatment after he was bitten by a rattlesnake. Boyers, a team driver for the Sissler Brothers firm in Friendsville said he was logging in the woods when he was bitten. Attaches said his condition was good.

John Smith, 28, Flintstone, was treated in the same hospital at 5:55 p. m. for a laceration on the left side of the abdomen and a lacerated finger. Smith, a partner in the Smith Brothers planing mill at Flintstone told attaches a stick from a planing machine struck him in the groin. Three stitches were used to close the cut.

Patrick E. Hodel, 4, Route 1, Oldtown, was treated in Allegany hospital yesterday at 5:30 p. m. for a severe cut on the second finger of the left hand. Attaches were told the child split the top of the finger while using an axe.

Charles Barncord, 25, 62 Blocher street, Ridgeley, W. Va., was treated in the same hospital at 4:30 p. m. yesterday for a right foot injury suffered, he said, when he fell from a ladder while painting.

Local Contractors, Carpenters Probe Material Shortage

Union Representative Says Conditions Are Worst In History

A protest, termed "only the beginning," by F. Patrick Allender, business agent of Carpenters' Local 1024, was submitted verbally yesterday afternoon to the area representative of the National Housing Agency Duane V. Ramsey, over the lack of building material being shipped to Cumberland and vicinity.

Allender termed the present shortage of lumber and other building materials in this section "the worst" in the history of local contracting business. He said two things must be done immediately if local contractors are to continue in business.

The two point program includes a more equal distribution of material among "small contractors," and a positive move to prevent further allocation of building materials to commercial and industrial concerns.

Contractor Stops Hotel Work

David Ogalvie, local contractor, who attended the protest meeting, informed the FHA representative that he would stop work last night on the Walton hotel because he could not secure material to finish the project. Ogalvie said the stoppage would put about 10 men out of work.

Allender estimated that 12 of the 18 local contracting companies have been forced to stop work or are operating on a "very limited" schedule. He said about 50 carpenters are out of work because of the material shortage.

Allender explained that the Cumberland area alone seems to be suffering from the material shortage and said many homes would be going up in this area if the material were available.

Explaining that the protest was only the beginning of efforts on the part of the local union and contractors to do "everything that can possibly be done to find out why material isn't being shipped to this area," Allender said he plans to carry the fight on until the contractors and carpenters can resume work with reasonable assurance that material will be available.

J. E. Mullenax, secretary of the carpenters' local asked "what am I to do with the men who are becoming idle every day because of local material shortages?"

Mayor Post Attends Meeting

Allender submitted a request to Mayor Thomas S. Post to attend the meeting. Following the meeting, Post explained that he has already appointed a committee to study local conditions and expects the members to meet Monday night.

Ogalvie explained that it is impossible to get enough nails even to build a scaffold at the present time. He said there hasn't been a nail shipped to Cumberland in the past month.

"I could continue to build if I would purchase my material from representatives such as one that approached me the other day," Ogalvie said, explaining that he was offered nails at $12 a keg. But this would cause prices to rise far above costs that returning veterans and other persons contemplating building homes could afford in this area.

Allender said a second meeting will be held this morning at 7:30 in the FHA office, in city hall and representatives of all local contracting companies are expected to attend.

TAKING POSSESSION—When Robert W. Long, a World War II veteran was forced to move from the house he occupied at 137 Maple street, and had no other place to go, he decided to move into the house shown above at 1002 Michigan avenue, which he purchased in April, from Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Rader. Some of his GI friends agreed to help him take possession, so they piled all of Raders' furniture into one room and proceeded to move in. Long is at the bottom of the steps. Mrs. Ray Frantz is carrying a dish pan up the steps, while Mrs. Long and Mrs. Lawrence Wagner are on the porch. S. O. Collins, is in the (center rear) while Harold Parker and Lawrence Wagner are about to lift a heavy piece of furniture.

Bar Committee Studies Speeding Up Record Work

Group To Consider Offices Of Clerk, Register And Commissioners

A seven-member committee to study methods of expediting recording work in the offices of the clerk of circuit court, the register of wills and the county commissioners, the latter so far as it affects land titles and recording, was appointed yesterday by C. William Gilchrist, president of the Allegany County Bar Association, at a meeting of attorneys yesterday in the bar library at the court house.

Gilchrist, who termed present records "cumbersome, hard to handle and voluminous," said the association hopes it will be possible to make the records "a little easier to work with." His committee will be appointed later and will make a report at the next session, scheduled for August 13.

Wants Law Amended

Clerk of Court Robert Jackson conferred with members of the bar and said he asked the legislative council to amend a state law in order to permit use of a photostatic machine in recording papers. He also recommended change in another law so that he would be empowered to employ additional clerks and fix salary scales, with approval of the court. Such power is now vested in the state comptroller.

Members of the bar also proposed that some steps be taken to have all offices in the court house remain open from 12 noon to 1 p. m. for the convenience of attorneys and the general public.

At present, the office of the county tax collector, the board of county commissioners and orphans court close during the noon hour. It was pointed out that many persons call at the court house during this hour to pay county taxes and find the office closed. The offices of Clerk Jackson are kept open throughout the day, and employes go to lunch on a "staggered" schedule.

An outing to be held in August also was discussed at the meeting. Gilchrist said a committee will be named later to arrange for the affair.

Installing New Files

In line with the increased business in the office of the clerk of court, workmen yesterday began the job of installing 60 large steel filing cases to augment the hundreds already lining the walls in the clerk's offices.

Jackson said the new cases, which cost more than $50,000, were purchased after authority was given by the state comptroller, and are badly needed to take care of the huge increases in the number of papers to be recorded.

Lonaconing Band To Give Concert In LaVale Tonight

J. Bradley Marshall will direct the 35-piece Lonaconing City band in a concert tonight on the lawn of the LaVale Fire Hall at a festival sponsored by LaVale Volunteer Fire Company.

The program will begin with the "National Emblem March," by E. E. Bagley; followed by the waltz, "Mighty Like a Rose" by Ethelbert Nevin; an overture, "The Gypsy Festival," by Al Hayes; another march, "The Joy Riders," by K. L. King; "Simplicity," by Dorothy Lee, and a modern dance arrangement of "Deep Purple," by Peter DeRose.

Dr. W. E. Capaldi, guest conductor, will lead "Queen City" by W. H. Boorn. Other sections include "Missouri Waltz" by F. K. Logan; the polka, "Rock and Rye" by L. Wellington; the grand march, "Sons of Fame" by J. S. Zamecnik, and the "Star Spangled Banner."

The Lonaconing band, organized February 9, 1857, by Capt. John Douglas, is recognized as the oldest musical group in the state. The library of music which the incorporated band owns is valued at several thousand dollars.

At 8 p. m. Thursday, the Mt. Savage band will play a concert at the LaVale Fire Hall.

Veterans Join Forces And Take Possession Of Dwelling House

Home Front Beachhead Is Established On Michigan Avenue

Evidence of the seriousness of the housing shortage in Cumberland was demonstrated yesterday morning, when a half-dozen veterans of World War II, joined forces and took possession of a dwelling house one of them purchased from the occupant in April.

Robert W. Long, a navy veteran who was discharged in March, and is employed by the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, had been given notice to move from 137 Maple street, and efforts had been made to evict his family long before he came home from service.

When he did come home, he negotiated a GI loan and purchased a six-room brick dwelling at 1002 Michigan avenue, from Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Rader.

Rader, also a railroad worker, agreed to move before August 1. Mrs. Rader said yesterday they had purchased a house on Sheridan Place, but have been unable to get the occupants out.

Rader Rents House

However, she declared, they had rented a place on West First street from another railroadman who had been transferred to Keyser, W. Va. Mrs. Rader said they had paid this man a month's rent for the place and had been given a key.

On Monday, the Rader's packed some of their furniture, loaded it on a truck and attempted to move into the First street property, so Long could have the Michigan avenue house. The wife of the owner of the First street property, refused to permit the Rader's to move in, declaring she had refused to move to Keyser, with her husband, and did not intend to do so. The Rader's returned their furniture to the house they had sold to Long on Michigan avenue.

Yesterday, Long and several of his GI friends, loaded his furniture on a truck, and moved into Michigan avenue, with the idea of taking over the house.

Long said, "I have done everything to get possession of the place peaceably, and have been informed by numerous officials here that there is no legal action I could take."

Couldn't Get Possession

Long also declared he had talked to the sheriff in an effort to get possession of the house he had purchased, and the sheriff said he could take no action.

Long also talked with Edgar Lewis at trial magistrates court and tried to get action there, but there was nothing that could be done, he said. "Mr. Lewis was very sympathetic with my problem, but he can only go so far and then it looks like there wasn't anything else to do", Long declared.

"So we just decided to make a beachhead her on Michigan avenue and move in. A fellow doesn't like to take the law into his own hands, but it seems like there isn't anything else to do. I bought the place and I'm going to occupy it".

While Long was talking, his GI buddies were busily engaged carrying furniture into the house. They had their sleeves rolled up and it was noted at least one of them stayed in the house and another stayed on the truck all the time the moving in was going on.

Mrs. Rader said Long and his friends had forced entrance to the house and took the front door off the hinges. Her husband, she declared, had gone down town to see authorities and find out if anything could be done.

Rader did see several county officials, but no action was taken.

In the meantime, Rader's furniture was piled into one room of the house and Long proceeded to move his furniture in and take possession.

There were several arguments during the day, and Lewis had telephone calls from the house, at trial magistrates court during the afternoon.

Everything Is Peaceable

No violence developed, but neighbors said the situation looked bad for a while, as Long and his friends "really meant business".

Last night, the News contacted Long at his new home, by telephone, and was asked "How's everything on the Michigan avenue beachhead?" Long declared, "it's all quiet and peaceable, come on out, we are eating."

Asked if the Rader family had moved out, Long replied, "No, I gave them a room, but I think they will get out in a few days."

Refinancing Program Is Worked Out By Fort Cumberland Hotel

A program of refinancing indebtedness against the Fort Cumberland hotel has been completed, with the issuance of a first mortgage for $250,000 to W. Wallace McKaig from the Cumberland Hotel Company.

The mortgage was filed for record in the land record office of Allegany County court house, July 24.

Terms Of Mortgage

The mortgage bears the following statement:

"Whereas at a special meeting of the stockholders of the Cumberland Hotel Company, duly called and warned, held on June 24, 1946, a resolution was passed by a vote of more than two-thirds of both the outstanding preferred and common stock, authorizing the directors to negotiate, and the proper officers of the Cumberland Hotel Company, to execute a mortgage for $250,000 to W. Wallace McKaig, to be dated on or about August 1, 1946, covering all real estate, furniture, furnishings and equipment of the said hotel company for a period of not more than 15 years at an interest rate of 5 per cent, payable semi-annually, upon such terms as to payments upon the principal and other provisions as the directors of the Cumberland Hotel Company should determine.

"And Whereas, at a meeting of the board of directors held on July 12, 1946, attended by all the directors in pursuance of the authority given by said resolution passed at the special meeting of the stockholders, a resolution was unanimously passed authorizing the execution by the proper officers of Cumberland Hotel Company of this mortgage to W. Wallace McKaig, upon terms as herein set forth."

It is then outlined in the mortgage that interest will be payable semi-annually at the rate of 5 per cent per annum. Payments on principal must be made August 1, of each year in the amount of the net earnings of the preceding 12 months before depreciation, but after interest, taxes, and other expenses have been paid.

$40,000 Working Capital

It is further stipulated that the company shall maintain a working capital of not more than $40,000, and that any improvements or alterations made must not exceed 50% of amount available, without the written consent of McKaig. It is further provided that payments on principal are to be made only as provided unless otherwise agreed to by McKaig.

The quarter million dollar mortgage covers all the land, buildings, furniture and fixtures of the hotel, and a complete inventory of the contents is included with the mortgage documents.

Court records show that a 5½% Gold Bond Mortgage amounting to $350,000 was placed on this property August 1, 1916. On August 1, 1940 an indenture was filed covering furnishings and authorizing the issuance of $69,100 in 6% bonds, due August 1, 1946.

This would indicate that the original bond mortgage and the short term 6% bonds all became due August 1, 1946.

Records also show that a part of the original bonds were retired, and a director said yesterday the company had sufficient funds to pay off enough of the outstanding bonds, to reduce the indebtedness to $250,000, so a new mortgage was filed for this amount.

McKaig was asked about the mortgage at his office yesterday and he stated he had taken a new mortgage for $250,000 to release the old mortgages which were due. Asked if any improvements or alterations are planned at the hotel, McKaig said none are planned at present.

Garment Workers Secure Permits To Picket Plant

Undergarment Company Here Strikes Back At Low Wage Charge

Chief of Police Oscar A. Eyerman yesterday issued 12 picketing permits for use of striking workers of the Cumberland Undergarment Company plant on Gay street.

Eyerman said the new permits were issued on the basis of an application of July 28 by officials of the Western Maryland Joint Union Committee and added that permits in use prior to July 28 are null and void.

The police chief added that the question of whether the strike is authorized or unauthorized has no bearing on the case since police see the ordinance on picketing as a means of keeping down violence in labor disputes. He added that the ordinance has been successful in preventing violence since it was issued in 1937.

Mrs. Marguerite Chase, chair lady of the union and one of the leaders of the strike which ILGWU officials termed unauthorized, said yesterday that picketing will begin today and that one picket will be placed at both the front entrance and driveway of the Gay street plant.

Mrs. Chase was named chairman of a 11-person negotiation committee at a meeting Monday afternoon when Mrs. Wanda Ashenfelter, Fort Ashby, W. Va., was elected president of the local. The members of Local 434, ILGWU, also voted to continue the strike which closed the Gay street plant again Monday.

Mrs. Mary Shoemaker, who was deposed as president, said the election was illegal and would not be recognized by the international. She added that 16 of the 50 members present voted for the new official and that the rest of the members kept quiet.

Mrs. Chase said Maurice Milberg, plant manager, has been informed that the new committee is ready to meet with him to discuss the dispute and the action against Jaffee.

Stating that no attempt has been made so far by the newly elected negotiating committee of the union to meet with the management, a company official said yesterday morning that the company cannot recognize the newly named negotiating committee.

"We deal with the authorized international union," the company spokesman said.

Replying to union charges that wages paid at the undergarment plant are on such a low basis that employes "cannot make ends meet," the company spokesman said he contacted the local USES and had determined that "on a comparable basis, we pay as much as other industries in this community—for women and for the type of work done."

Defends Wage Scale

In efforts to combat the low wage scale charges made by striking employes, the company yesterday published a half-page advertisement in a local newspaper in which the pay scales of three employes, including that of Mrs. Chase, are shown.

The advertisement states that the three workers all started out with a beginner's rate of 40 cents an hour which was increased to 60 cents an hour when they had gained proficiency.

The company states "these rates are only minimum rates and as the workers gain experience they were to be brought up, under piece rates, to at least 75 cents an hour."

The advertisement continues, "We were told by Miss Angela Bambace, regional director of the International Ladies' Garment Workers Union, AFL, that the workers had agreed to allow the company and the union two weeks to consumate negotiations on wage increases in addition to those cited above. The day after we were given this message and negotiations had already commenced, a strike was precipitated which has forced this company to break off negotiations with the union until such a time as the workers demonstrate their willingness to live up to the word.

"We closed the plant yesterday and will not reopen until we have assurances of continued production", the company declared.

The advertisement concludes with the statement, "The N. G. Taylor Company and the U. S. Leather Company, faced with the same problem that we are, left Cumberland."

Sothoron To Speak To Potomac River Board Tonight

State Sen. L. Harold Sothoron, chairman of the Interstate Commission on the Potomac River Basin, will be the principal speaker at a public meeting to be held in city hall auditorium at 7:30 o'clock tonight in the interest of clearing up pollution of the Potomac River. The meeting has been called by the Upper Potomac River Board, Mark W. Roe, chairman, said last night.

A feature of the meeting will be the showing of a motion picture, "Clean Water," obtained from the General Electric Corporation, showing what can be done to clean up a polluted stream.

Sothoron will outline in his speech the necessity of a co-ordinated program for the conservation and use of water resources and indicate to the board problems which he believes can be solved by it in the Western Maryland area.

He was appointed by the governor in May 1941 to represent the State of Maryland when the commission was created, and has served continuously since that time. His work on the commission led to his appointment as a member of the Water Resources committee of the Council of State Governments and the Continuing committee of the Water Conservation Conference.

Active in Maryland politics, Sothoron was a member of the House of Delegates from 1935 to 1941, and since 1941 has served as senator from Prince George's county. During his 11 years in the legislature, he has been a member of many important committees, such as Labor, Judiciary, Amendments to the Constitution, and Executive Nominations. He is a lawyer by profession and has offices in the District of Columbia and Upper Marlboro.

In 1943, Gov. O'Conor appointed Sothoron to the newly formed Maryland Commission on Postwar Reconstruction and Developments.

A native of Maryland and a graduate of Charlotte Hall Military academy and National university Law school, he is a veteran of World War I and a member of the American Legion and the Disabled American Veterans.

New Action Filed In Queen City Dairy Dispute

Director Charges Four Defendants With Trying To Gain Control

Charging "misrepresentation and conspiracy" to gain control of the Queen City Dairy, Incorporated, J. William Loar, a director and stockholder, yesterday filed suit in circuit court against Clarence U. Llewellyn, Rawlings, a director, Harvey E England, Bedford county, a former director, John H. Stiffler, Cumberland, former plant manager, and James H. Laher, Blair county, Pa., president of the Liberty Milk Company here.

Loar asks that the court construe a liquidated damage clause of options to purchase stock of the Queen City Dairy from shareholders on the basis of whether it is invalid as a penalty clause, or if it gives any stockholder the right to pay $300 as full liquidated damages, and to retain his stock, or whether it gives the holder the legal right to claim $300 damages for each share of stock owned by the optioner in case of failure to deliver as agreed.

The plaintiff also asks that if the court finds the liquidated damage clause of the option to be valid, that a jury may determine whether the option is voidable by him because it was secured from him by alleged material misrepresentations of facts by certain defendants.

Loar likewise asked determination of whether there was any valid tender to him under the option by anyone entitled to enforce it, and that if the matter involves the determination of an issue of fact that it be submitted to a jury.

Follows Dismissal of Suit

The action yesterday follows on the heels of an opinion by the court of appeals dismisisng an action instituted by the Queen City Dairy, Incorporated, against Llewellyn and England, charging them with conspiracy to take control of the firm. Loar and James E. Miltenberger, a director, were parties plaintiff in this action.

Loar pointed out that the dairy, while legally an ordinary business corporation has for some years been carrying on its business under co-operative by-laws, which assures stockholders who also are producers of dairy products of a steady market and a fair price. He said this advantage would be lost if control of the corportion should pass into that of an ordinary business corporation.

An attempt to do this was charged by Loar to the four defendants. He said that if the defendants are successful in their efforts to secure control, stockholders, whether or not they gave options, would see the value of their stock depreciate materially for the following reasons:

The lower price they will receive for their milk products, the possibility that Laher will cause unfairly large salaries to be paid to him and his associates, the diversion of the more profitable business to his other company, and the possibility that Laher will punish in some way those who are fighting his attempt to gain control, possibly by refusing to buy their milk altogether, or by offering for it only a ridiculousiy low price.

Violation of Duty

Loar, represented by D. Lindley Sloan, F. Brooks Whiting and George Henderson, said that Llewellyn and England were directors when the agreement to take control was reached, and that their acts were a violation of the duty owed by them to the other stockholders, since the alleged arrangement made by Llewellyn and England with the other defendants allegedly was that they would purport to be acsing in the interests of the stockholders, "when in fact they were secretly acting in the interest of themselves and the other defendants."

The plaintiff added that Stiffler, as plant manager, acted in violation of his duties as an employe, and that Laher knew that the acts Llewellyn, England and Stiffler allegedly "were agreeing and conspiring with him to do in order to carry out said agreement would violate the duty" of them to the corporation and stockholders.

He charged that Stiffler in October and November 1945 purposely tried to injure the plant by violating health regulations and refusing to correct them when discovered by state and city inspectors. Stiffler also is accused of concealing the complaints from the board of directors, and Loar asserted that he (Stiffler) "almost succeeded in his effort to have the plant 'degraded'" so that its products could not be marketable as Grade A.

Employed By Liberty Firm

William T. McLuckie, then president of the firm, was credited by Loar with discovering the situation and taking corrective measures. Loar added that the board of directors at that time did not realize "Stiffler's actions were intentional." The plaintiff said Stiffler was dismissed on February 1 "when the illegal scheme" was discovered and that he since has been employed by the Liberty Milk Company.

Llewellyn and England, obtained options to buy 250 shares of stock for $300 each, Loar said, by representing that two directors were mismanaging the company in an effort to gain control, that the federal government had a claim against the company for back income taxes amounting to between $65,000 and $100,000 and that the company was in financial difficulties, that they (Llewellyn and England) had agreed to sell their stock for $300 a share and would get no other profit or advantage, and, among other alleged misrepresentations that Llewellyn told Maryland stockholders Bedford county stockholders were going to sell out and that unless the Maryland stockholders signed options immediately they would find themselves as minority stockholders in a corporation controlled by unknown persons who would treat them unfairly. Similar misrepresentations were made to Bedford county stockholders by England concerning Allegany county stockholders, Loar said.

After having secured the options, the defendants planned to gain control of the board of directors at the annual meeting of stockholders on January 17, Loar asserted, and also planned to adopt new by-laws changing the method of doing business.

"Walkout" Halts Kelly-Springfield Tire Production

Curing Room Workers Will Consider Company Offer Today At 2:30

The walkout of ten workers of the curing department, in protest over a change in production and number of men required to operate loop machines, precipitated a strike which completely halted production at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plant yesterday at 3 p. m.

Ralph C. Beard, president of Local 26, URCLPWA, representing some 1,800 workers of the tire plant employing about 2,500 workers, said that while the strike is not authorized, the union felt it must support the men in an issue as serious as this."

Union officials said curing room workers began to leave the plant at 9 a. m. and were followed shortly after by final finish employes. Stock preparation and bead room workers were sent home later and at 1 p. m. calendar and tube workers left the plant. Tire department employes walked out at 2 p. m. and black mill employes at 3 p. m. Union officials said nobody reported at 3 p. m., except for a few maintenance employes.

Reject Proposal

Second shift curing room workers met at the union hall yesterday at 3:30 p. m. and unanimously rejected a company proposal for the settlement of the strike.

The union's executive board, at a lengthy meeting last night, heard a report of the issues at stake, Beard said, and made plans for a meeting of all curing room employes today at 2:30 p. m. in the union hall. The union official said the meeting will give workers of the unit a chance to hear the latest company proposal for the settlement of the strike.

Beard said the entire matter will be aired at the regular meeting of the local tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock in the union hall.

The position of the Kelly company was given in a statement to the Cumberland News late yesterday afternoon. The statement said:

Kelly Statement

"An unauthorized strike clearly in violation of the contract between Local Union No. 26, URCLPWA, and the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company closed the Kelly-Springfield Tire plant today.

A crew of five men working No. 5 unit in the Curing room refused to start work at 7 o'clock this morning in protest to a change in production required and the number of men to operate the unit. By 10 a. m., all work in the Curing room had ceased, other men stopping work in sympathy.

In order to balance production facilities, it became necessary to utilize the full curing capacity of the No. 5 curing unit. To do this, the crew personnel was increased from 4 to 5 men. The men protested the change, alleging an increase in work load in spite of the fact that the production required per man remained unchanged.

The company and the union held a meeting yesterday over the matter in dispute, but apparently the men were not willing to permit negotiations to follow the lines of orderly procedure, preferring to take matters into their own hands, thus throwing approximately 2,500 people out of work.

The company cannot understand the union's members continued countenancing of unauthorized strikes, as on March 29, after a series of costly interruptions to production and employment, the company and the union agreed upon a wage increase. At that time the company and the union talked at great length about unauthorized work stoppages, and finally agreed to the insertion of the following clause in the contract:

"In making this settlement the union recognizes that a high level of wages can be maintained only by maintaining a high level of productivity. The union and its members will co-operate in attaining such a level of productivity as is consistent with the health and welfare of the employees. The union and its members will seek to assist in effectuating economies and utilization of improved methods and machinery. The union agrees that it will not condone the action of anyone who instigates, leads, or includes another employee to take part in any unauthorized strike."

Beard explained that four men have been considered a unit on loop machines in the curing room and that the workers usually produce 24 heats in a seven and one-half-hour day. In order to increase production, he explained, the company insisted that five men be assigned to each loop machine.

The men, Beard added, insist that the fifth man cannot do his share of the work which means that two of the team must increase production by at least 25 per cent each day.

Had Trial Period

He said the men went on a five-day trial period which expired last Friday. They continued on the same schedule Saturday on a straight piece work basis. On Saturday, he said, the earnings were reduced since they were unable to produce as efficiently as before.

The workers, Beard explained, gave the committee one more day to complete negotiations with the company on the operation. He added the union met Monday with company officials who insisted on continuing the new operation. The curing room workers yesterday refused to work under the conditions assigned by the Kelly company, he said.

Another union official charged the company with violating the labor act in attempting to change working hours or fate structures while a dispute is in progress, pointing out that the union is still negotiating several issues to be incorporated into the contract with the plant.

Investigate Robbery

Police reported no developments yesterday in the investigation of a robbery at the Richfield service station, 700 block, Baltimore avenue, Sunday night. James W. Murphy, Sr., proprietor, said $5 in cash and a number of articles including sun glasses and candy bars, were stolen.

B. and O. Worker Is Hurt In Fall At Tunnelton

Terra Alta, W. Va., Logger Is Bitten By Large Rattlesnake

Homer S. Myers, 26, 207 Fifth street, was admitted to Memorial hospital yesterday at 1:30 p. m. for treatment of back and right ankle injuries and a small laceration on the head. His condition was good last night.

The B. and O. brakeman told attaches he was injured yesterday at 9 a. m. when he fell from a box car at Tunnelton, W. Va. The workman, who said he was knocked unconscious for fifteen minutes by the fall, was sent here by B. and O. passenger train for treatment and was taken to the hospital by Stein's ambulance. X-rays were taken to determine the extent of injuries.

Archie Boyers, 31, Terra Alta, W. Va., was admitted to the same hospital yesterday at 12:45 p. m. for treatment after he was bitten by a rattlesnake. Boyers, a team driver for the Sissler Brothers firm in Friendsville said he was logging in the woods when he was bitten. Attaches said his condition was good.

John Smith, 28, Flintstone, was treated in the same hospital at 5:55 p. m. for a laceration on the left side of the abdomen and a lacerated finger. Smith, a partner in the Smith Brothers planing mill at Flintstone told attaches a stick from a planing machine struck him in the groin. Three stitches were used to close the cut.

Patrick E. Hodel, 4, Route 1, Oldtown, was treated in Allegany hospital yesterday at 5:30 p. m. for a severe cut on the second finger of the left hand. Attaches were told the child split the top of the finger while using an axe.

Charles Barncord, 25, 62 Blocher street, Ridgeley, W. Va., was treated in the same hospital at 4:30 p. m. yesterday for a right foot injury suffered, he said, when he fell from a ladder while painting.

Local Contractors, Carpenters Probe Material Shortage

Union Representative Says Conditions Are Worst In History

A protest, termed "only the beginning," by F. Patrick Allender, business agent of Carpenters' Local 1024, was submitted verbally yesterday afternoon to the area representative of the National Housing Agency Duane V. Ramsey, over the lack of building material being shipped to Cumberland and vicinity.

Allender termed the present shortage of lumber and other building materials in this section "the worst" in the history of local contracting business. He said two things must be done immediately if local contractors are to continue in business.

The two point program includes a more equal distribution of material among "small contractors," and a positive move to prevent further allocation of building materials to commercial and industrial concerns.

Contractor Stops Hotel Work

David Ogalvie, local contractor, who attended the protest meeting, informed the FHA representative that he would stop work last night on the Walton hotel because he could not secure material to finish the project. Ogalvie said the stoppage would put about 10 men out of work.

Allender estimated that 12 of the 18 local contracting companies have been forced to stop work or are operating on a "very limited" schedule. He said about 50 carpenters are out of work because of the material shortage.

Allender explained that the Cumberland area alone seems to be suffering from the material shortage and said many homes would be going up in this area if the material were available.

Explaining that the protest was only the beginning of efforts on the part of the local union and contractors to do "everything that can possibly be done to find out why material isn't being shipped to this area," Allender said he plans to carry the fight on until the contractors and carpenters can resume work with reasonable assurance that material will be available.

J. E. Mullenax, secretary of the carpenters' local asked "what am I to do with the men who are becoming idle every day because of local material shortages?"

Mayor Post Attends Meeting

Allender submitted a request to Mayor Thomas S. Post to attend the meeting. Following the meeting, Post explained that he has already appointed a committee to study local conditions and expects the members to meet Monday night.

Ogalvie explained that it is impossible to get enough nails even to build a scaffold at the present time. He said there hasn't been a nail shipped to Cumberland in the past month.

"I could continue to build if I would purchase my material from representatives such as one that approached me the other day," Ogalvie said, explaining that he was offered nails at $12 a keg. But this would cause prices to rise far above costs that returning veterans and other persons contemplating building homes could afford in this area.

Allender said a second meeting will be held this morning at 7:30 in the FHA office, in city hall and representatives of all local contracting companies are expected to attend.

TAKING POSSESSION—When Robert W. Long, a World War II veteran was forced to move from the house he occupied at 137 Maple street, and had no other place to go, he decided to move into the house shown above at 1002 Michigan avenue, which he purchased in April, from Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Rader. Some of his GI friends agreed to help him take possession, so they piled all of Raders' furniture into one room and proceeded to move in. Long is at the bottom of the steps. Mrs. Ray Frantz is carrying a dish pan up the steps, while Mrs. Long and Mrs. Lawrence Wagner are on the porch. S. O. Collins, is in the (center rear) while Harold Parker and Lawrence Wagner are about to lift a heavy piece of furniture.

Bar Committee Studies Speeding Up Record Work

Group To Consider Offices Of Clerk, Register And Commissioners

A seven-member committee to study methods of expediting recording work in the offices of the clerk of circuit court, the register of wills and the county commissioners, the latter so far as it affects land titles and recording, was appointed yesterday by C. William Gilchrist, president of the Allegany County Bar Association, at a meeting of attorneys yesterday in the bar library at the court house.

Gilchrist, who termed present records "cumbersome, hard to handle and voluminous," said the association hopes it will be possible to make the records "a little easier to work with." His committee will be appointed later and will make a report at the next session, scheduled for August 12.

Wants Law Amended

Clerk of Court Robert Jackson conferred with members of the bar and said he asked the legislative council to amend a state law in order to permit use of a photostatic machine in recording papers. He also recommended change in another law so that he would be empowered to employ additional clerks and fix salary scales, with approval of the court. Such power is now vested in the state comptroller.

Members of the bar also proposed that some steps be taken to have all offices in the court house remain open from 12 noon to 1 p. m. for the convenience of attorneys and the general public.

At present, the office of the county tax collector, the board of county commissioners and orphans court close during the noon hour. It was pointed out that many persons call at the court house during this hour to pay county taxes and find the office closed. The offices of Clerk Jackson are kept open throughout the day, and employes go to lunch on a "staggered" schedule.

An outing to be held in August also was discussed at the meeting. Gilchrist said a committee will be named later to arrange for the affair.

Installing New Files

In line with the increased business in the office of the clerk of court, workmen yesterday began the job of installing 60 large steel filing cases to augment the hundreds already lining the walls in the clerk's offices.

Jackson said the new cases, which cost more than $50,000, were purchased after authority was given by the state comptroller, and are badly needed to take care of the huge increases in the number of papers to be recorded.

At 8 p. m. Thursday, the Mt. Savage band will play a concert at the LaVale Fire Hall.

Veterans Join Forces And Take Possession Of Dwelling House

Home Front Beachhead Is Established On Michigan Avenue

Evidence of the seriousness of the housing shortage in Cumberland was demonstrated yesterday morning, when a half-dozen veterans of World War II, joined forces and took possession of a dwelling house one of them purchased from the occupant in April.

Robert W. Long, a navy veteran who was discharged in March, and is employed by the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, had been given notice to move from 137 Maple street, and efforts had been made to evict his family long before he came home from service.

When he did come home, he negotiated a GI loan and purchased a six-room brick dwelling at 1002 Michigan avenue, from Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Rader.

Rader, also a railroad worker, agreed to move before August 1. Mrs. Rader said yesterday they had purchased a house on Sheridan Place, but have been unable to get the occupants out.

Rader Rents House

However, she declared, they had rented a place on West First street from another railroadman who had been transferred to Keyser, W. Va. Mrs. Rader said they had paid this man a month's rent for the place and had been given a key.

On Monday, the Rader's packed some of their furniture, loaded it on a truck and attempted to move into the First street property, so Long could have the Michigan avenue house. The wife of the owner of the First street property, refused to permit the Rader's to move in, declaring she had refused to move to Keyser, with her husband, and did not intend to do so. The Rader's returned their furniture to the house they had sold to Long on Michigan avenue.

Yesterday, Long and several of his GI friends, loaded his furniture on a truck, and moved into Michigan avenue, with the idea of taking over the house.

Long said, "I have done everything to get possession of the place peaceably, and have been informed by numerous officials here that there is no legal action I could take."

Couldn't Get Possession

Long also declared he had talked to the sheriff in an effort to get possession of the house he had purchased, and the sheriff said he could take no action.

Long also talked with Edgar Lewis at trial magistrates court and tried to get action there, but there was nothing that could be done, he said. "Mr. Lewis was very sympathetic with my problem, but he can only go so far and then it looks like there wasn't anything else to do", Long declared.

"So we just decided to make a beachhead her on Micnigan avenue and move in. A fellow doesn't like to take the law into his own hands, but it seems like there isn't anything else to do. I bought the place and I'm going to occupy it".

While Long was talking, his GI buddies were busily engaged carrying furniture into the house. They had their sleeves rolled up and it was noted at least one of them stayed in the house and another stayed on the truck all the time the moving in was going on.

Mrs. Rader said Long and his friends had forced entrance to the house and took the front door off the hinges. Her husband, she declared, had gone down town to see authorities and find out if anything could be done.

Rader did see several county officials, but no action was taken.

In the meantime, Rader's furniture was piled into one room of the house and Long proceeded to move his furniture in and take possession.

There were several arguments during the day, and Lewis had telephone calls from the house, at trial magistrates court during the afternoon.

Everything Is Peaceable

No violence developed, but neighbors said the situation looked bad for a while, as Long and his friends "really meant business".

Last night, the News contacted Long at his new home, by telephone, and was asked "How's everything on the Michigan avenue beachhead?" Long declared, "it's all quiet and peaceable, come on out, we are eating."

Asked if the Rader family had moved out, Long replied, "No, I gave them a room, but I think they will get out in a few days."

Refinancing Program Is Worked Out By Fort Cumberland Hotel

A program of refinancing indebtedness against the Fort Cumberland hotel has been completed, with the issuance of a first mortgage for $250,000 to W. Wallace McKaig from the Cumberland Hotel Company.

The mortgage was filed for record in the land record office of Allegany County court house, July 24.

Terms Of Mortgage

The mortgage bears the following statement:

"Whereas at a special meeting of the stockholders of the Cumberland Hotel Company, duly called and warned, held on June 24, 1946, a resolution was passed by a vote of more than two-thirds of both the outstanding preferred and common stock, authorizing the directors to negotiate, and the proper officers of the Cumberland Hotel Company, to execute a mortgage for $250,000 to W. Wallace McKaig, to be dated on or about August 1, 1946, covering all real estate, furniture, furnishings and equipment of the said hotel company for a period of not more than 15 years at an interest rate of 5 per cent, payable semi-annually, upon such terms as to payments upon the principal and other provisions as the directors of the Cumberland Hotel Company should determine.

"And Whereas, at a meeting of the board of directors held on July 12, 1946, attended by all the directors in pursuance of the authority given by said resolution passed at the special meeting of the stockholders, a resolution was unanimously passed authorizing the execution by the proper officers of Cumberland Hotel Company of this mortgage to W. Wallace McKaig, upon terms as herein set forth."

It is then outlined in the mortgage that interest will be payable semi-annually at the rate of 5 per cent per annum. Payments on principal must be made August 1, of each year in the amount of the net earnings of the preceding 12 months before depreciation, but after interest, taxes, and other expenses have been paid.

$40,000 Working Capital

It is further stipulated that the company shall maintain a working capital of not more than $40,000, and that any improvements or alterations made must not exceed 50% of amount available, without the written consent of McKaig. It is further provided that payments on principal are to be made only as provided unless otherwise agreed to by McKaig.

The quarter million dollar mortgage covers all the land, buildings, furniture and fixtures of the hotel, and a complete inventory of the contents is included with the mortgage documents.

Court records show that a 5½% Gold Bond Mortgage amounting to $350,000 was placed on this property August 1, 1916. On August 1, 1940 an indenture was filed covering furnishings and authorizing the issuance of $69,100 in 6% bonds, due August 1, 1946.

This would indicate that the original bond mortgage and the short term 6% bonds all became due August 1, 1946.

Records also show that a part of the original bonds were retired, and a director said yesterday the company had sufficient funds to pay off enough of the outstanding bonds, to reduce the indebtedness to $250,000, so a new mortgage was filed for this amount.

McKaig was asked about the mortgage at his office yesterday and he stated he had taken a new mortgage for $250,000 to release the old mortgages which were due. Asked if any improvements or alterations are planned at the hotel, McKaig said none are planned at present.

Garment Workers Secure Permits To Picket Plant

Undergarment Company Here Strikes Back At Low Wage Charge

Chief of Police Oscar A. Eyerman yesterday issued 12 picketing permits for use of striking workers of the Cumberland Undergarment Company plant on Gay street.

Eyerman said the new permits were issued on the basis of an application of July 28 by officials of the Western Maryland Joint Union Committee and added that permits in use prior to July 28 are null and void.

The police chief added that the question of whether the strike is authorized or unauthorized has no bearing on the case since police see the ordinance on picketing as a means of keeping down violence in labor disputes. He added that the ordinance has been successful in preventing violence since it was issued in 1937.

Mrs. Marguerite Chase, chair lady of the union and one of the leaders of the strike which ILGWU officials termed unauthorized, said yesterday that picketing will begin today and that one picket will be placed at both the front entrance and driveway of the Gay street plant.

Mrs. Chase was named chairman of a 11-person negotiation committee at a meeting Monday afternoon when Mrs. Wanda Ashenfelter, Fort Ashby, W. Va., was elected president of the local. The members of Local 434, ILGWU, also voted to continue the strike which closed the Gay street plant again Monday.

Mrs. Mary Shoemaker, who was deposed as president, said the election was illegal and would not be recognized by the international. She added that 16 of the 50 members present voted for the new official and that the rest of the members kept quiet.

Mrs. Chase said Maurice Milberg, plant manager, has been informed that the new committee is ready to meet with him to discuss the dispute and the action against Jaffee.

Stating that no attempt has been made so far by the newly elected negotiating committee of the union to meet with the management, a company official said yesterday morning that the company cannot recognize the newly named negotiating committee.

"We deal with the authorized international union," the company spokesman said.

Replying to union charges that wages paid at the undergarment plant are on such a low basis that employes "cannot make ends meet," the company spokesman said he contacted the local USES and had determined that "on a comparable basis, we pay as much as other industries in this community—for women and for the type of work done."

Defends Wage Scale

In efforts to combat the low wage scale charges made by striking employes, the company yesterday published a half-page advertisement in a local newspaper in which the pay scales of three employes, including that of Mrs. Chase, are shown.

The advertisement states that the three workers all started out with a beginner's rate of 40 cents an hour which was increased to 60 cents an hour when they had gained proficiency.

The company states "these rates are only minimum rates and as the workers gain experience they were to be brought up, under piece rates, to at least 75 cents an hour."

The advertisement continues, "We were told by Miss Ann Lela Bambace, regional director of the International Ladies' Garment Workers Union, AFL, that the workers had agreed to allow the company and the union two weeks to consumate negotiations on wage increases in addition to those cited above. The day after we were given this message and negotiations had already commenced, a strike was precipitated which has forced this company to break off negotiations with the union until such time as the workers demonstrate their willingness to live up to the word.

"We closed the plant yesterday and will not reopen until we have assurances of continued production", the company declared.

The advertisement concludes with the statement, "The N. G. Taylor Company and the U. S. Leather Company, faced with the same problem that we are, left Cumberland."

Sothoron To Speak To Potomac River Board Tonight

State Sen. L. Harold Sothoron, chairman of the Interstate Commission on the Potomac River Basin, will be the principal speaker at a public meeting to be held in city hall auditorium at 7:30 o'clock tonight in the interest of clearing up pollution of the Potomac River. The meeting has been called by the Upper Potomac River Board, Mark W. Roe, chairman, said last night.

A feature of the meeting will be the showing of a motion picture, "Clean Water," obtained from the General Electric Corporation, showing what can be done to clean up a polluted stream.

Sothoron will outline in his speech the necessity of a co-ordinated program for the conservation and use of water resources and indicate to the board problems which he believes can be solved by it in the Western Maryland area.

He was appointed by the governor in May 1941 to represent the State of Maryland when the commission was created, and has served continuously since that time. His work on the commission led to his appointment as a member of the Water Resources committee of the Council of State Governments and the Continuing committee of the Water Conservation Conference.

Active in Maryland politics, Sothoron was a member of the House of Delegates from 1935 to 1941, and since 1941 has served as senator from Prince George's county. He is a lawyer by profession and has offices in the District of Columbia and Upper Marlboro.

In 1943, Gov. O'Conor appointed Sothoron to the newly formed Maryland Commission on Postwar Reconstruction and Developments.

Director Charges Four Defendants With Trying To Gain Control

Charging "misrepresentation and conspiracy" to gain control of the Queen City Dairy, Incorporated, J. William Loar, a director and stockholder, yesterday filed suit in circuit court against Clarence U. Llewellyn, Rawlings, a director, Harvey E England, Bedford county, a former director, John H. Stiffler, Cumberland, former plant manager, and James H. Laher, Blair county, Pa., president of the Liberty Milk Company here.

Loar asks that the court construe a liquidated damage clause of options to purchase stock of the Queen City Dairy from shareholders on the basis of whether it is invalid as a penalty clause, or if it gives any stockholder the right to pay $300 as full liquidated damages, and to retain his stock, or whether it gives the holder the legal right to claim $300 damages for each share of stock owned by the optioner in case of failure to deliver as agreed.

The plaintiff also asks that if the court finds the liquidated damage clause of the option to be valid, that a jury may determine whether the option is voidable by him because it was secured from him by alleged material misrepresentations of facts by certain defendants.

Loar likewise asked determination of whether there was any valid tender to him under the option by anyone entitled to enforce it, and that if the matter involves the determination of an issue of fact that it be submitted to a jury.

Follows Dismissal of Suit

The action yesterday follows on the heels of an opinion by the court of appeals dismisisng an action instituted by the Queen City Dairy, Incorporated, against Llewellyn and England, charging them with conspiracy to take control of the firm. Loar and James E. Miltenberger, a director, were parties plaintiff in this action.

Loar pointed out that the dairy, while legally an ordinary business corporation has for some years been carrying on its business under co-operative by-laws, which assures stockholders who also are producers of dairy products of a steady market and a fair price. He said this advantage would be lost if control of the corportion should pass into that of an ordinary business corporation.

An attempt to do this was charged by Loar to the four defendants. He said that if the defendants are successful in their efforts to secure control, stockholders, whether or not they gave options, would see the value of their stock depreciate materially for the following reasons:

The lower price they will receive for their milk products, the possibility that Laher will cause unfairly large salaries to be paid to him and his associates, the diversion of the more profitable business to his other company, and the possibility that Laher will punish in some way those who are fighting his attempt to gain control, possibly by refusing to buy their milk altogether, or by offering for it only a ridiculously low price.

Violation of Duty

Loar, represented by D. Lindley Sloan, F. Brooks Whiting and George Henderson, said that Llewellyn and England were directors when the agreement to take control was reached, and that their acts were a violation of the duty owed by them to the other stockholders, since the alleged arrangement made by Llewellyn and England with the other defendants allegedly was that they would purport to be acting in the interests of the stockholders, "when in fact they were secretly acting in the interest of themselves and the other defendants."

The plaintiff added that Stiffler, as plant manager, acted in violation of his duties as an employe, and that Laher knew that the acts Llewellyn, England and Stiffler allegedly "were agreeing and conspiring with him to do in order to carry out said agreement would violate the duty" of them to the corporation and stockholders.

He charged that Stiffler in October and November 1945 purposely tried to injure the plant by violating health regulations and refusing to correct them when discovered by state and city inspectors. Stiffler also is accused of concealing the complaints from the board of directors, and Loar asserted that he (Stiffler) "almost succeeded in his effort to have the plant 'degraded'" so that its products could not be marketable as Grade A.

Employed By Liberty Firm

William T. McLuckie, then president of the firm, was credited by Loar with discovering the situation and taking corrective measures. Loar added that the board of directors at that time did not realize "Stiffler's actions were intentional." The plaintiff said Stiffler was dismissed on February 1 "when the illegal scheme" was discovered and that he since has been employed by the Liberty Milk Company.

Llewellyn and England, obtained options to buy 250 shares of stock for $300 each, Loar said, by representing that two directors were mismanaging the company in an effort to gain control, that the federal government had a claim against the company for back income taxes amounting to between $65,000 and $100,000 and that the company was in financial difficulties, that they (Llewellyn and England) had agreed to sell their stock for $300 a share and would get no other profit or advantage, and, among other alleged misrepresentations that Llewellyn told Maryland stockholders Bedford county stockholders were going to sell out and that unless the Maryland stockholders signed options immediately they would find themselves as minority stockholders in a corporation controlled by unknown persons who would treat them unfairly. Similar misrepresentations were made to Bedford county stockholders by England concerning Allegany county stockholders, Loar said.

After having secured the options, the defendants planned to gain control of the board of directors at the annual meeting of stockholders on January 17, Loar asserted, and also planned to adopt new by-laws changing the method of doing business.
